SAIGON (A) — American Marines and some 4,000 freshly equipped North Vietnamese regulars locked in a fierce battle over the blood-stained rice paddies of the Que Son valley today with 188 Communist soldiers and 70 Marines reported killed. More than two battalions of Marines sweeping through the paddies and bamboo stands west of Tam Ky hit the Communist force late Wednesday. The battle raged through the night with the Marines and the North Vietnamese alternately charging.

Close Contact

There was frequent hand-to-hand fighting beneath the flickering yellow glow of parachute flares.

The battle raged less than a mile from the scarred field where 150 North Vietnamese soldiers were cut down Monday and Tuesday. The Reds have lost 338 killed and 23 captured in the valley in these two battles, and 219 Viet Cong were killed and 16 captured in an abortive attack on the town of Tam Ky early Wednesday.

Marine casualties in the Que Son valley fighting now total 124 killed and 278 wounded.

The battle 30 miles below Da Nang in the northern war zone was the only significant fight listed in the day's war communiqué. A storm over North Vietnam limited American air strikes Wednesday to 64—the leanest day in three months—but U.S. Air Force Thunderchiefs blew up tracks on the approaches to the Lang Con railroad bridge only 25 miles from the Red Chinese border.

157 Toll for Week

U.S. headquarters reported 157 Americans died in action last week and 1,588 were wounded, about an average casualty figure despite the lull in the fighting during that period. But enemy casualties of 1,055 killed were reported, nearly 500 less than the week before and the lowest enemy total since last April.

The U.S. casualty totals were up from 125 reported killed and 1,078 wounded a week earlier. Enemy casualties last week were 1,507 in the previous week. The enemy total was the lowest since the week ending last April 22, when 980 were reported killed.

Action in the ground war had been relatively light for about two months until early this week, when Communist forces began showing signs of readiness for renewed action in the northern zone defended by the Marines.

Marine officers said many of the Communist dead found on the battlefield today wore new, freshly cleaned uniforms. Some of the equipment was brand new, including Chinese gas masks, field radios and submachine guns.

Identify 3 Units

Although the Marines estimated that about 4,000 North Vietnamese were engaged in the fight, they identified elements of three units—the 1st, 3rd and 21st regiments of the 2nd Infantry Division. This meant that perhaps 9,000 Red troops were in the immediate area.

The battle apparently was joined when a Marine battalion on the move was struck on its right flank by a savage attack. Although the Marines hit hard, one company pushed out and charged into the exposed flank of the attacking Reds and rolled it up, killing 50 of the enemy in one sudden surge without losing a man.

The Communists used tear gas in one action, but the Marines were wearing gas masks.

Marine planes, artillery and helicopter gunships supplied continuous support. The heavy fighting broke off at 4 a.m. after 12 hours of constant combat, but sporadic contacts continued during the day.

The Que Son valley is a fertile plain leading from the coast into irregularly bunched foothills about 15 to 25 miles inland.

Ford Plants Shutdown By Strike in 25 States

By BILL SIMMONS

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union struck Ford Motor Co. today, paralyzing operations in 25 states.

Negotiations were in recess with no new talks scheduled.

The walkout stopped production at Ford, which normally produces 8,000 cars a day, and raised the possibility of damage to its standing in the highly competitive market that General Motors and Chrysler will continue to feed with 1968 models.

Effects Spreading

As it lengthens, effects of the strike could spread through the steel, trucking and railroad industries which Ford uses heavily for materials and transport of its cars.

The company, second in size to GM in the automaking field, was last struck nationally in 1961.

Just 30 minutes before the Wednesday midnight expiration of the old three-year contract, Ford rejected a proposal by UAW President Walter P. Reuther for binding arbitration to dissolve the impasse.

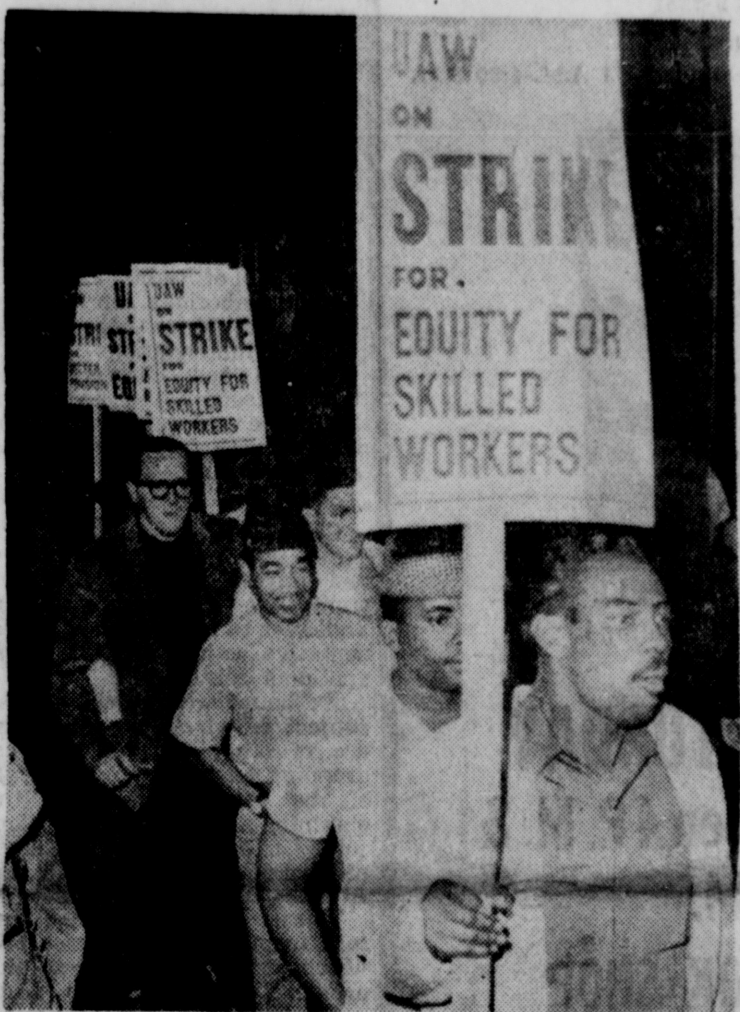

By then, and with no sign of progress in eight weeks of bargaining, many of the UAW's 159,000 members at Ford plants already had walked off the job anticipating the strike.

President Johnson has said he fears the stoppage will damage the nation's economy.

Minutes after the strike began, Reuther told newsmen at Ford headquarters in suburban Dearborn that he was "most disappointed."

He had said earlier this year "this union is going to be tested like it has never been tested before," and he told the news conference, "I think Ford workers are able to stand the test."

Henry Ford II, board chairman and grandson of the company founder, assailed the walkout as "totally unjustified and completely unnecessary."

He called it "a bludgeon against the public interest," and "a tragic in its implications for the whole nation."

The gap between the opposing positions was reflected in another news conference when Ford's top negotiator, Malcolm Denise, was asked if the two sides ever came close to a settlement.

"I think I can answer that with a flat no," he said.

General Motors and Chrysler, the other members of the Big Three, also stiffened Wednesday to the union demands. While agreeing to continue production and pay wages and benefits to a workers according to contract provisions, they refused to extend the three-year pacts that expired with Ford's at 11:59 p.m.

No Decision

Union and company spokesmen said a decision on when to resume negotiations may not come until Monday.

There was no indication that Ford would present a new offer. Only a day earlier, Denise told newsmen Ford had no new proposal and was not preparing one.

In its only proposal thus far, Ford offered a general wage boost of 13 cents an hour, plus 2.8 per cent the last two years of a proposed three-year contract. The company said this would total a minimum of 34 cents.

The union demands, which Reuther calls "the longest and most ambitious in UAW history," have been estimated at from 90 cents to $4 an hour per worker, compared to $4.70 an hour per worker the companies now pay in wages and benefits.

Top UAW demands are for a substantial wage increase, an additional wage boost for skilled tradesmen, higher pensions, elimination of the disparity between Canadian and U.S. auto plant pay, and guaranteed annual income.

No Mention

Ford made no mention of the last two items. The union said the Ford offer on the other issues was unsatisfactory.

The UAW strike fund, totaling $68 million, would last about 18 weeks against Ford. The fund would go out in strike benefit payments of $20 to $40 to workers.

A Sept. 26 convention of 3,000 union delegates representing the 1.4 million UAW members is expected to boost union dues to finance the strike if it eats deeply into the fund.

Ford estimated the strikers will lose a total of $5.2 million a day in wages each day of a strike—a wage loss of about $33 per striker each day.

Proposed by Constitutional Convention

County Boards Voided

By GERRY MCLAUGHLIN

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Democrats in the Constitutional Convention marked a major gain today in their efforts to abolish the long-standing system of county boards of supervisors.

The Democratic majority forced initial approval Wednesday of a proposed local reappointment article that would require counties to switch from a board of supervisors to a county Legislature structure.

Bars Dual Office

The reason is that, under the proposal, town supervisors would be barred from serving on county legislative units. The plan would forbid dual office-holding by town supervisors, who with representatives from city wards, now make up the membership of county boards of supervisors.

Democrats were able to muster one more vote than necessary to obtain initial convention approval of the proposal.

The vote was 95-79 and ran along party lines. The three Liberal Party delegates sided with the Democratic majority.

It remains to be seen, however, whether the plan becomes reality. First, the proposition must win approval a second time before it can be blocked into the model Constitution. This appears to be a formality in view of Wednesday's vote.

However, the final say rests with the voters, whose assent is necessary before any draft constitution or any of its provisions can be put into effect.

If the convention realizes its hope of completing its work by Sept. 26, the recommendations will be put to the electorate at the general election in November.

GOP Protested

In Wednesday's debate, Republicans protested that adoption of the Democratic proposal weighted voting in reapportioning county, town and village boards, as well as city councils, because it would require local legislative districts to be substantially equal in population.

However, the proposed system would permit local legislative districts to have more than one representative.

Before losing on the main proposal, Republicans tried unsuccessfully to substitute their own plan—one that would give local governments great latitude in redistricting.

The principal Republican spokesman opposing the Democratic proposition was former Assembly Speaker Joseph Carlini of Long Beach.

Carlini said adoption of the Democratic concept was virtually tantamount to "abolition of local units of government below the county level."

for removing "home rule." He said that under the county board of supervisor method, towns and villages could deal with individual concerns on the scene with knowledge of situations unique in the area.

He condemned the resolution for its inflexibility in equal population districting requirements, saying that though it might apply to a city situation it would not be fair in a town with diversified population areas such as farms, villages and housing developments.

The County Legislature, under the new arrangement, would assume village and town responsibility in a number of areas now handled on the local level. One of the proposals passed last week would relegate assessment duties to the county body.

Citing the elimination of duality in office, Bell called it "ridiculous." He proposed an amendment which would allow county legislators to hold two offices providing they were not incompatible, thus utilizing the qualified official without a conflict of interests. The amendment was defeated.

Bell said that the County Legislature form was designed to parallel to the city council form familiar to New York City delegates who could not conceive of the existing town-village-county relationship or of the need for it.

Bell Sees 'Pandora Box' In Abolishing of Boards

The Constitutional Convention has "opened a Pandora's Box" abolishing county board of supervisor form of government, H. Clark Bell, delegate from Ulster and Dutchess Counties, declared today.

Counties most deeply affected by the move are Ulster, Dutchess and Westchester, Bell said. In Ulster County, the entire reapportionment which is within the Supreme Court requirements would be thrown out. There would be no more delegate at large elections under the new rule, only legislators elected from equal population districts.

SEN. ROBERT F. KENNEDY

The Kennedy Mystique Is Still in Evidence

By CHARLES BERMPOHL

At 8:50 a. m. on the morning of September 6, the Mayor of Kingston, Raymond W. Garrahan, while standing by the entrance to Poughkeepsie's Edison Motor Inn, was asked if he thought Senator Robert F. Kennedy could be lured over to Ulster County to view the urban renewal situation.

'May Be in Tennessee'

"No, there's no such move underway," the Mayor answered, adding, "In fact, I don't even think he'll show up here. He's probably in Tennessee somewhere."

Then, just after the Mayor offered his observations, a 1962 Ford convertible turned off Route 55 and onto the drive of the Inn, followed by police cars with flashing red lights.

Democratic candidates seeking public office, their wives, employees of the Inn, squealing young women and smiling, older citizens rushed toward the opening door of the convertible, all stopping at a safe distance as one of the more powerful figures in American public life stepped out.

Robert Kennedy at 41 still has the youthful appearance he had when he ran his late brother's successful presidential bid in 1960, when the now junior Senator from New York was 34. But there are flecks of grey in his hair now, along with lines on his forehead and under his eyes that were not there then.

But the reaction of the crowd is still the same: the requests for autographs; the desire to touch him; the shy glances; the timid outstretching of hands to grip his hand; the effort to be casual in his presence.

From the enthusiasm of the people, the response to the fact of his existence among them, it was obvious that they did not feel they were with just another politician.

The Kennedy Touch

Kennedy received roses from an elderly couple who wanted him to know that he had their vote, then he shook hands with varied Ulster and Dutchess politicians, got a big kiss from a round little woman who was all arms in the air screaming, "Senator Kennedy, Senator Kennedy," and signed several autographs.

chief of the U.S. Army's Chemical Warfare Service in Washington, D. C. He joined the Army as a major and was assigned as assistant to the chief of operations in the Chemical Warfare Service. Sen. Javits served in the European and Pacific theaters of operation in World War II and was discharged as a lieutenant colonel.

The senator has lectured on economic and political subjects. He wrote the book, "Discrimination USA" in 1960, and also has written a series of articles on political philosophy.

Sen. Javits is married to the former Marian Ann Boris, and they have three children. The family resides in New York City.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and his office cooperated in obtaining Sen. Javits for this occasion. Upwards of 1,500 students are expected to be enrolled for the first semester at the new, permanent home of the college on the Stone Ridge campus. Of this number, 850 will be full-time students.

Registration for the 1967-68 year is scheduled next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the George Clinton Administration Building on the Stone Ridge campus.

Those planning to attend evening courses at the college in Stone Ridge will register next Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 12 and 13, from 6 until 9 p. m. at the Stone Ridge campus. The evening courses will be conducted both in Stone Ridge and at the Kingston address of the college, 214 West Chestnut Street.

The full-time enrollment at the college has grown from an original 193 in 1963 to 369 in 1964 and to 595 in September, 1965. About 700 were part of the operation in 1966.

It took a little while before Kennedy could get into the motor inn to deliver a pep talk to the Democratic candidates.

"I want to express my appreciation for all those who are running for political office under the Democratic flag," he said, adding, "If there is anything I can do to help you during the next few months, I will do it."

A baby let out a little yelp and Kennedy said, "Thank you very much. There's somebody who really got the message." The people laughed.

Hopes to Visit Ulster

Before entering another room to pose for pictures with some of the candidates, the Senator told The Freeman reporter, "I'd like to get to Ulster County before the election year is over."

Then he was off past a line of State Troopers and their inevitable sunglasses and into the room where the pictures were to be taken.

The Tour

It took about 15 minutes to drive to Poughkeepsie and the Municipal Building on Main Street where RFK was to meet Mayor W. Mitchell and City Manager Theodore W. Maurer. Kennedy was treated to wondrous plans for Poughkeepsie's future amply demonstrated by drawings and models.

The Senator was more concerned about jobs however, and when he asked about the unemployment rate in the urban re-

Ulster Junkyard Control To Be Tested in Courts

An action has been started in Supreme Court 'attacking the validity of the Town of Ulster ordinance for the control of junkyards.

The action is brought by Robert Ablove of Kingston, who for 26 years has been engaged in business on Saugerties Road under the name of Bob's Auto Parts.

Town Restrained

A temporary injunction has been granted by Supreme Court Justice Lawrence H. Cooke restraining the town from taking action pending trial of the action.

Originally, the matter came before the courts last April 7, under a show cause order issued by Supreme Court Justice Louis G. Bruhn. At that time, Arthur B. Ewig, counsel for Ablove, with Jules Ewig of counsel, sought a declaratory judgment on the grounds the Town of Ulster Junk Yard ordinance requiring the registration of auto junkyards in the town is unconstitutional, illegal and void and asking for a permanent injunction restraining the Town of Ulster from enforcing the ordinance.

A cross-motion was filed by Town of Ulster Attorney Seymour Werbalowsky seeking dismissal of the action on the grounds it did not state facts sufficient to constitute a cause of action. This application was denied by Justice Cooke, the temporary injunction was granted and the action of Ablove must be tried out in Supreme Court.

Motion papers were filed in the office of the County Clerk. Ablove contends in his moving papers that he has been engaged in the sale of used auto parts, operates a repair shop and sells used cars and has a license for the conduct of that business. He denies that he is conducting a junk yard for cars.

In his moving papers, he contends that the Town ordinance is unconstitutional and that the action of the town board is "solely an effort of the town board to act as a legislative body and in effect to control the operation and management of my business or perhaps legislate me out of business." He contends there is no provision to enforce the ordinance.

Called Nuisance, Peril

In his cross-motion, Town Attorney Werbalowsky said that the operation being conducted by Ablove was "unsightly storage of vehicles on the property," was a nuisance and also a "peril to children."

The temporary injunction granted by Justice Cooke applies only to the operation conducted by Ablove and applies to no other business operation in the town.

The Ulster town board approved the ordinance on Sept. 1, 1966, after a public hearing had been held.

Price Increases Indicated On Wide Variety of Goods

NEW YORK (AP) — Prices are headed up on a wide variety of products ranging from trucks to tennis balls.

The increases mean that the consumer will have to reach deeper into his pocket today for transportation, home building and furnishing, and leisure time activities.

Manufacturers contend that higher prices are necessary to meet rising costs of materials, labor, freight and taxes.

Steel Higher

The price of steel bars, which are used for such things as industrial fasteners and railroad axles, just has gone up 1.8 per cent.

Earlier the steel companies had raised prices on hot rolled carbon and high strength plates, tinplate and tubular products. So far this year the increases have covered more than 40 per cent of industry shipments.

Chrysler Corp. and Ford Motor Co. tentatively raised the wholesale prices of their 1968 model cars $100, which would mean an extra $125 at retail. General Motors Corp. didn't disclose its intentions, but it was considered likely that GM would take similar action.

Color TV Up

Radio Corp. of America boosted prices of 46 of its 1968 model color television sets 2 to 3 per cent—$10 to $55 on sets costing $479.95 to $1,650.

FCA said the raises were to "offset steadily rising labor and material costs which have spiraled far beyond our expectations in the past 90 days since we priced our 1968 models."

A tennis player is going to have to pay 10 cents more for a can of three balls manufactured by General Tire & Rubber Co.

Price increases have been widespread recently in the rubber industry and cover tires and tubes; automotive belts, conveyor belts, hose and other industrial products; shoe soles and heels; vinyl flooring and counter topping, and some plastic film and sheeting.

Admiral Corp. announced this week it will raise the prices of selected 1968 model refrigerators, freezers and room air conditioners 1.5 to 3 per cent.

Several big companies advanced prices of carpeting. Prices of liquid chemicals have also gone up.

A prolonged drought and a rash of major forest fires in the Pacific Northwest have resulted in price boosts for lumber and plywood.

7 Brothers Serve

TWIN FALLS, Idaho (AP)—Residents celebrate "Newman Day" Sept. 20 in honor of John Michael Newman who is enlisting to join his six brothers in the U. S. Navy.

City Commission Chairman Egon Kroll, who issued the proclamation honoring the Kirby Newman family, Twin Falls, said this is the first time in the history of the Navy that seven members of one family have served at one time.

The six older brothers have a total of 49 years of service.

Picket Teamsters

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Eight housewives marching with picket signs in front of the Teamsters Union building Wednesday protested labor demands for higher wages and fringe benefits.

"You're negotiating with my grocery money," one sign read. "Teamsters, please be considerate," said another.

The women, identifying themselves as members of a group called Homemakers for Lower Prices, were invited inside the building by Teamsters officials. The union spokesmen said their demands were needed to keep up with costs of living.

Spokesmen for major supermarket chains in Southern California, who oppose the Teamsters' demands, have said a threatened strike would raise prices.

Highway Slaughter

There were 605 fatalities in the United States over the Labor Day weekend. Death's holiday spree in New York State claimed 48 lives. One death in Ulster County boosted the highway toll here to 29 so far this year.

Jim Bishop in his column published in the Freeman Tuesday declares: "Congress complains about the weakness of the automobile, but nobody takes a second look at the driver. There are over 90,000,000 vehicles on our roads. This year the drivers will kill each other and their passengers at the rate of about 132 per day. In all the time the U.S. has been in Vietnam, America has lost less than 14,000. At home, we kill at the rate of more than 50,000 each year."

The amount of driving increases every year with more cars on the road, but the death rate in relation to the miles traveled shows no improvement.

Drivers prone to accidents are usually found to be selfish, anti-social and hostile to authority. It seems to us that a man drives as he lives.

The motor vehicle is seldom to blame; it is generally the operator.

A crackdown on drunken drivers, speeders and other traffic-law violators is one way to make better drivers.

171,300 Teachers Wanted

As a record of 50.7 million grade and high school children return to their classrooms this week, they will be short 171,300 teachers at the optimum level to man the nation's schools from kindergarten through high school.

The shortage is nationwide. Of 46 states reporting in a survey conducted by the National Education Association, only Arizona said it had enough applicants to fill its need. Recruiting problems were more severe than last year in 20 states when unusually critical shortages were found. Twenty-four reported extreme difficulty in recruitment. Many others reported they would have to employ teachers with sub-standard qualifications to fill vacancies. Rural and small town school system faced the most severe strains.

Nor was the situation helped by the new-found belligerency among teachers in big city school systems that threatened to keep the schools closed until their extraordinary demands were met, not alone for money not available in public treasuries but for big steps toward control of the educational system itself.

The nations' teachers' colleges are producing greater number of qualified teachers than ever before. However, 19 states attribute their shortages to Federal recruitment, unattractive salaries, greater opportunities in business and industry, induction into the military services and longtime teachers quitting their jobs. Some of these causes can and should be remedied. Teaching should not be left to take the leavings after all other resources are filled. It is axiomatic that on teaching depends the future of the nation.

Wide Popular Backing

American experts observing the election in South Vietnam found it as efficient, free and honest as an American election. It superseded American presidential elections in that 83 per cent — more than five sixths of the registered voters — cast ballots despite the violence that visited death and injury on the electorate before and even on election day. Compared to the lackadaisical two thirds or less who vote here, that was a tremendous showing of determination to govern themselves.

Now that the military government has been given the popular support it sought, Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu can change hats from Chief of State to President and Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky from Premier to Vice President with the confidence that they have the country behind them. The question that Washington and the people of this country are asking is, will President Thieu and Vice President Ky be more effective in bringing the war to successful conclusion than they have been as Chief of State and Premier?

Surely, they fulfill the American military command's desire for a strong, informed government that should be able to coordinate native forces with the allied. They also fulfill the desire of our pacification group for the push needed to pacify the country and give the people the security they have been denied for so long.

The election revealed an understandably strong sentiment for peace, when Truong Dinh Dzu, the peace candidate, ran second to the military and ahead of all ten civilian slates. That may accelerate Thieu's campaign promise to meet with any peace emissary of the Vietcong at any place and time to seek a mutual understanding toward peace. Not that peace is in sight, but moves to secure peace are. If North Vietnam accepts the results of the election as it should, then some peace moves should be forthcoming very soon. The United States would welcome them, if they produced the independence and security for South Vietnam for which we have been fighting.

"If We Can Find the Key to That One, It'll Lead Right Into the White House!"

Governor Romney Has Made a Political Mistake

WASHINGTON — When the American people get ready to vote in the next presidential election, they will ask themselves whether the candidate opposing President Johnson is a man of maturity, experience, judgment and knowledge not only of domestic affairs but of the intricacies of world problems. If the Republican nominee is deficient in these respects, many voters—much as they may dislike to do so will vote again for President Johnson.

Governor George Romney, in his latest statement discussing the Vietnam problem, made a political mistake as he said:

"When I came back from Vietnam, I just had the greatest brainwashing that anybody can get when you go over to Vietnam. Not only by the generals, but also by the diplomatic corps over there, and they do a very thorough job; and, since returning from Vietnam, I've gone into the history of Vietnam, all the way back into World War II and before that."

"And as a result, I have changed my mind, in that particularly I no longer believe that it was necessary for us to get involved in South Vietnam to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and to prevent Chinese Communist domination of Southeast Asia."

Maybe if the Michigan governor had been a member of the cabinet or vice president with access to all confidential information from abroad—and if he had had some intimate experience with the vicissitudes of international life as they change from day to day, he might be able now to see more objectively the circumstances surrounding America's involvement in Vietnam.

Hindsight is, of course, supposed to be better than foresight. It is easy to criticize Presidents Kennedy and Johnson for what they did in the Vietnam situation and to argue that some other course would have been better.

The theory that, if Dwight Eisenhower had remained president, the United States would not have become involved in a land war in Southeast Asia is a hypothetical assumption that the steady pressures of the Communists to take over Southeast Asia would have been ignored by the man in the White House. The Michigan governor will be reminded that, while president, Mr. Eisenhower did not hesitate to act promptly in the Suez crisis and against other serious threats to world peace. These did not result in war. Perhaps it was because the Eisenhower policy showed a firmness which the enemy could not mistake.

Certainly it is tragic that the United States had to become engaged in the Vietnam War. But the same might equally be said about the Korean War and World War II. Blame cannot be placed on any individual who happened to be president of the United States during these world crises. A decision had to be made on the basis of the facts available at the time.

Communist plotting and intrigue and military threats to world peace are no things that can be penetratingly studied merely by reading history books. The Asian governments which have sent troops to South Vietnam have all along been well informed about the objectives of Communist policy, and it is amazing to read Governor Romney's statement that "we have involved other nations in Southeast Asia."

Mr. Romney now will be asked how he would have dealt with the threats that have confronted the United States in Southeast Asia in the last several years. What would his answer have been if, subsequent to 1960, all of Vietnam had been overrun by the Communists, and Cambodia, Thailand, and Laos were grabbed at the same time, and there ensued a growing menace to South Korea, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand?

Spread of Communist imperialism in Asia would have given the Soviets a chance to exploit their hold on Eastern Europe. The United States has taken the position since World War II that Communist aggression must be checked. The American government has acted to thwart such a takeover in Africa and has not hesitated to face up to the Soviets in Berlin and in the Cuban missile crisis.

Would Governor Romney be a president with enough background to deal with an international problem like that in Vietnam? This is the question which his statements pose to many people today. Certainly before the Republican National Convention next year he will have to clarify his viewpoint and reveal just what steps he would have taken had he been identified with the party in power in a prominent position during the last six or seven years.

Brazilian Editorial Has High Praise for America

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Critics of U. S. policy in Vietnam should read and reread the following editorial.

It was carried Aug. 7, 1967, in A Tarde, a newspaper in Sao Salvador, Bahia, Brazil.

The editorial says, in its own way, what this reporter has heard many American servicemen and civilians say in Vietnam. Men and women in Japan, the Philippines, Thailand, Hong Kong told me the same thing last fall.

We sometimes lose sight of this daily budget of protest in the news.

Here then is the Brazilian editorial:

"The United States government is going to increase taxes by 10 per cent to support the war in Vietnam. What this means for the western world is probably not well understood. But we shudder to think what a collapse of democracy in the Orient would signify."

"Fighting in Asia, in the swamps and jungles of Vietnam against ambushes of the Viet Cong, the North American people and their allies... are fulfilling a pledge not only to the South Vietnamese. The lives being sacrificed there are for the freedom of the whole world, because if they were to leave Vietnam, we would have the war on our own frontiers."

"An empire like the American one does not need to resort to territorial expansion. The Vietnam war has a well-defined ideological meaning and the fate of two different worlds is in balance there."

"And now all of the American people are being called to contribute to this war. Giving their blood is not enough. It is also necessary for them to make a material contribution, from the national wealth, in favor of a long and tiring campaign with no end in sight."

"Whether or not one agrees with the reasons the United States is in Vietnam, one must admire the tenacity, inspiration and bravery of the young American generation who risk their lives defending an ideal which made their country a truly universal symbol—the ideal of liberty."

American Stoicism

"The stoicism of the Americans in this war, in the face of accusations of all types and sometimes from those who should be fighting at their side, is impressive. For the responsibility for maintaining the status quo in Vietnam should fall much more to other countries than to the United States which is there defending interests which were not theirs and which led them into a war in defense of all the democratic nations of the world."

"Nevertheless, the United States still considers itself

committed to give economic help to the democratic nations, especially to the less-developed ones, in a second front in the war against communism."

"On this other front, the American people are also in the vanguard. Recent statistics show that in the past year more than 100 million Americans gave more than $13½ billion to help the well-being of others, whether in their own country or in other nations around the globe."

"There is no parallel in all the history of mankind to this vast and substantial solidarity. Since the end of the Second World War the United States has helped the world to free itself from poverty and has made great efforts to defend the dearest accomplishments of man and the self-determination of people. Devastated Europe was rebuilt under the Marshall Plan and many Asian, African and American nations have counted on the United States for substantial assistance in the fight against underdevelopment."

"It is really admirable that a nation so tormented by such serious external and internal problems can still find the spiritual and material reserves, which seem inexhaustible, to help other peoples."

"This example should be sufficiently dissuading to those who lightly presume that the United States is in a phase of incurable decadence."

Drew Pearson Says

Poor Sihanouk's Reward

WASHINGTON — Cambodia's capricious Prince Norodom Sihanouk, living next door to South Vietnam, has been of great aid to North Vietnam. He has let communist supplies and troops pour across his border. In return, here is the story of how the rulers in Hanoi and Peking have repaid him.

It is hard to imagine what more Sihanouk could have done to please Hanoi and Peking. He parroted the communist line calling the Americans "imperialists" and other nasty names. He spurned American aid and even kicked the Americans out of his country with a great thumbing of his nose. He opened Cambodia's borders to the communist guerrillas but screamed shrilly if U.S. troops so much as set a GI boot across the line. He permitted the communists to use his port of Phnom Penh to smuggle supplies down the Mekong River to the Viet Cong. He offered not only haven and hospitality, but food and medicine, to the guerrillas while they camped in his country.

All the while, he arranged guided tours for outside observers to prove he was doing none of these things. But in a useful statement from Phnom Penh, he has now come close to confessing that he has been playing a double game.

"We have given a great deal of aid to the Viet Minh (North Vietnamese troops) and Viet Cong (South Vietnamese guerrillas)," said Sihanouk. "The Americans are aware of the fact that we have aided them in the political and diplomatic fields. We have also given them aid in many other fields, which I cannot explain in detail. However, our compatriots are already aware that we have given a good deal of aid to the Viet Minh and the Viet Cong."

Sihanouk's Reward

What has been poor Sihanouk's reward? The communists have taken advantage of the open door to infiltrate Cambodia against him. They have already started guerrilla action in the hinterlands, attacking his provincial guard and massacring anti-communist peasants.

In Phnom Penh, the communists are tightening their hold on Sihanouk's government. They drove two anti-communist ministers, Mau Say and Douc Rasy, out of the cabinet with charges of corruption. They also forced the resignation of Prime Minister Lon Nol.

This has brought plaintive protests from Sihanouk, who had supposed his pro-communist posturing would buy him immunity from red intrigue. The story is best told in his own words, which U.S. intelligence has picked up.

"A number of Viet Minh and Viet Cong have infiltrated," the prince protested recently. "Thus, can we in point of fact be sure that our territory will be safe in the future if we turn communist? ... I must tell you now that the Vietnamese communists and the Viet Cong negotiated with us three or four times but that absolutely nothing came out of the negotiations. They did not sign a pledge of respect for our present frontiers."

In another statement, the prince declared: "We only love Cambodia more than we love other countries, and we do not want to be lackeys of the Vietnamese, Chinese and Americans. That is our only faith."

"I am always very severe and strict with the Americans. With the Americans we absolutely do not want a reconciliation, and we are very strict and severe with them. Yet the Viet Minh have repaid me by saying that Sihanouk has sold the nation to the Americans because Sihanouk is rotten and a lackey of imperialism. Such an accusation is very unjust."

Lesson to Others
The unhappy prince isn't the first Asian leader who thought he could play ball with the communists. India's late Prime Minister Nehru tried to curry favor in Peking, and his successors still are more sympathetic to Hanoi than to Saigon. Nehru was repaid with a Red Chinese invasion in 1962.

Indonesia's ousted President Sukarno virtually became a Peking puppet. Confiscated evidence now shows that the communists intended to reward him by taking over his government.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, trying to walk a neutral line in Laos, joined with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in opposing the Americans. The Pathet Lao, bolstered by more than 20,000 North Vietnamese troops, merely stepped up its military drive to take over the country. Now the neutralist prince is cooperating wholeheartedly with the United States.

Few have tried harder than the Burmese to get along with their northern neighbors. To placate the communists, Gen. Ne Win eradicated U. S. influence in Burma. Today Burma is one of the chief targets of Radio Peking and Radio Hanoi.

Even tiny Nepal, which has been safe near the top of the Himalayas for centuries, has now been bitterly denounced for conspiring with "imperialists."

Armed communist guerrillas are also active in most other Asian countries from Thailand to the Philippines. Yet astonishingly, the prevailing sentiment in Asia is more anti-American than anti-communist. Even the Buddhists, whose co-religionists have been brutally tortured and dehumanized in Tibet, find themselves repeating communist clichés.

Tax Increase to Be Based On Needs of U.S. Economy

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress eventually votes an income tax increase it will be from conviction that the chronically borrowing U.S. economy can't stand competition from a government trying to float $29 billion in loans in a single year.

This technical, banker-like argument—more than fear of inflation or appeals to back the Vietnam effort—is the one apparently having the most impact on the House Ways and Means Committee as it continues its hearings on President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal.

The argument gains force from a painfully practical demonstration last year of what happens when money gets tight—when the demands for credit by the government and the millions of individual and corporate borrowers press against the national total of savings and bank funds made available through the Federal Reserve System.

Interest rates soared. Worse, credit for some purposes simply dried up. Small businesses got elbowed aside in the scramble for loans and one big, basic business—housing—suffered as higher interest rates offered elsewhere sluiced away saver's funds from the institutions that traditionally finance home building.

Unemployment in the building trade went up and industries associated with construction took fright. Students seeking government-backed college loans found banks uninterested.

Congressmen heard plenty from affected constituents and they haven't forgotten.

So, for many of them, the prospect of the government, faced with a deficit on the order of $29 billion, having to go into the still not-too-easy much credit is simply not to be contemplated.

Those who continue to oppose Johnson's proposals usually take one of two positions.

One is that the government could cut spending enough to bring the deficit down to manageable proportions—nobody thinks it can be erased—without a tax increase. At least, those who take this line insist, no tax increase should be voted until the administration has done much more budget-cutting than has yet been undertaken. A manageable deficit has been estimated at $10 billion to $15 billion. The other main alternative offered to Johnson's program is to demand tax reform, loop-hole closings to raise more revenue without imposing a greater burden on all taxpayers. Many, of course, call for a combination of tax reform and spending restraint.

To all this administration spokesmen say the government is making an all-out effort to cut spending but there is no realistic possibility of reducing it enough to substitute for a tax increase.

Need More Revenue

As for tax reform, they have promised to send a bill to Congress later this year, after the increase measure is out of the way. The need for more revenue, they insist, is immediate, while loophole closing, which calls into action the last ditch defenders of every loophole, is a long and painful process.

In the fiscally happier days of 1962 and 1963, there was an effort to combine reforms with a tax cutting measure. The arguments over reforms stretched out interminably; one by one they were dropped, and the bill that finally passed had practically nothing in it but tax reduction.

Johnson's formula for handling the budget is to save some, tax some and borrow some. More and more, the argument in Congress appears to be not so much whether to accept or reject the formula, but in what proportions to spell it out.

Home, Parents Influence Attitudes Toward Studies

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been putting considerable emphasis for a number of years on why some students do better than others in school, why creativity and original thinking seem to decline heavily in school children at about the third or fourth grade, never to reappear again with their original force and why some schools consistently turn out students who do better in life.

One such series of studies looks into students who do very well in high school—the so-called high achievers. These excellent students are compared with those who do poorly in high school—the low achievers. The comparisons are statistical.

Researchers found that high achievers name their fathers as having been an important influence in their lives significantly more often than did low achievers.

More than half of the high achievers were judged as being "very active" in religious affairs. Less than a third of the low achievers were listed as religiously "very active."

Only 11 per cent of the high achievers were catalogued as "not very active" in religion. Almost a fourth of the low achievers were listed as "not very active."

The research indicated that children in families with three or less children have a better chance of becoming high achievers than do children from large families.

First-born and only children apparently have even a better chance of ranking high in their school work.

Strangely enough, these studies seemed to indicate that boys were more likely to be high achievers if their mothers were more democratic and less autocratic in dealing with their sons, but that girls were more likely to be high achievers if their mothers believed more in authoritarian control.

High achievers on the whole had better-educated parents. They came from homes with a higher "socio-economic status." They were more independent in their outlook and actions.

More of the high achievers had mothers who wanted their children to go to college. The higher achievers tended to engage in more educationally related hobbies—reading, electronics, collections, chess, science, dramatics and poetry.

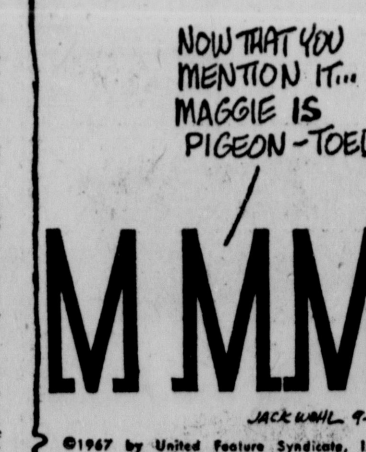

High achievers in general scored higher on adjustment than did the low achievers. More were listed by their parents as assuming responsibility. They tended to be more active in school-related activities during their junior high school years.

This research deals in averages. But these averages indicate there are simple things that parents can do—train their children in responsibility and individuality, set high standards, provide a strong religious background, encourage sound hobbies, and, above all, be the kind of parents their youngsters can look up to.

These things won't guarantee success. But they will raise the chances for success in turning out young men and women who will achieve.

Wide Popular Backing

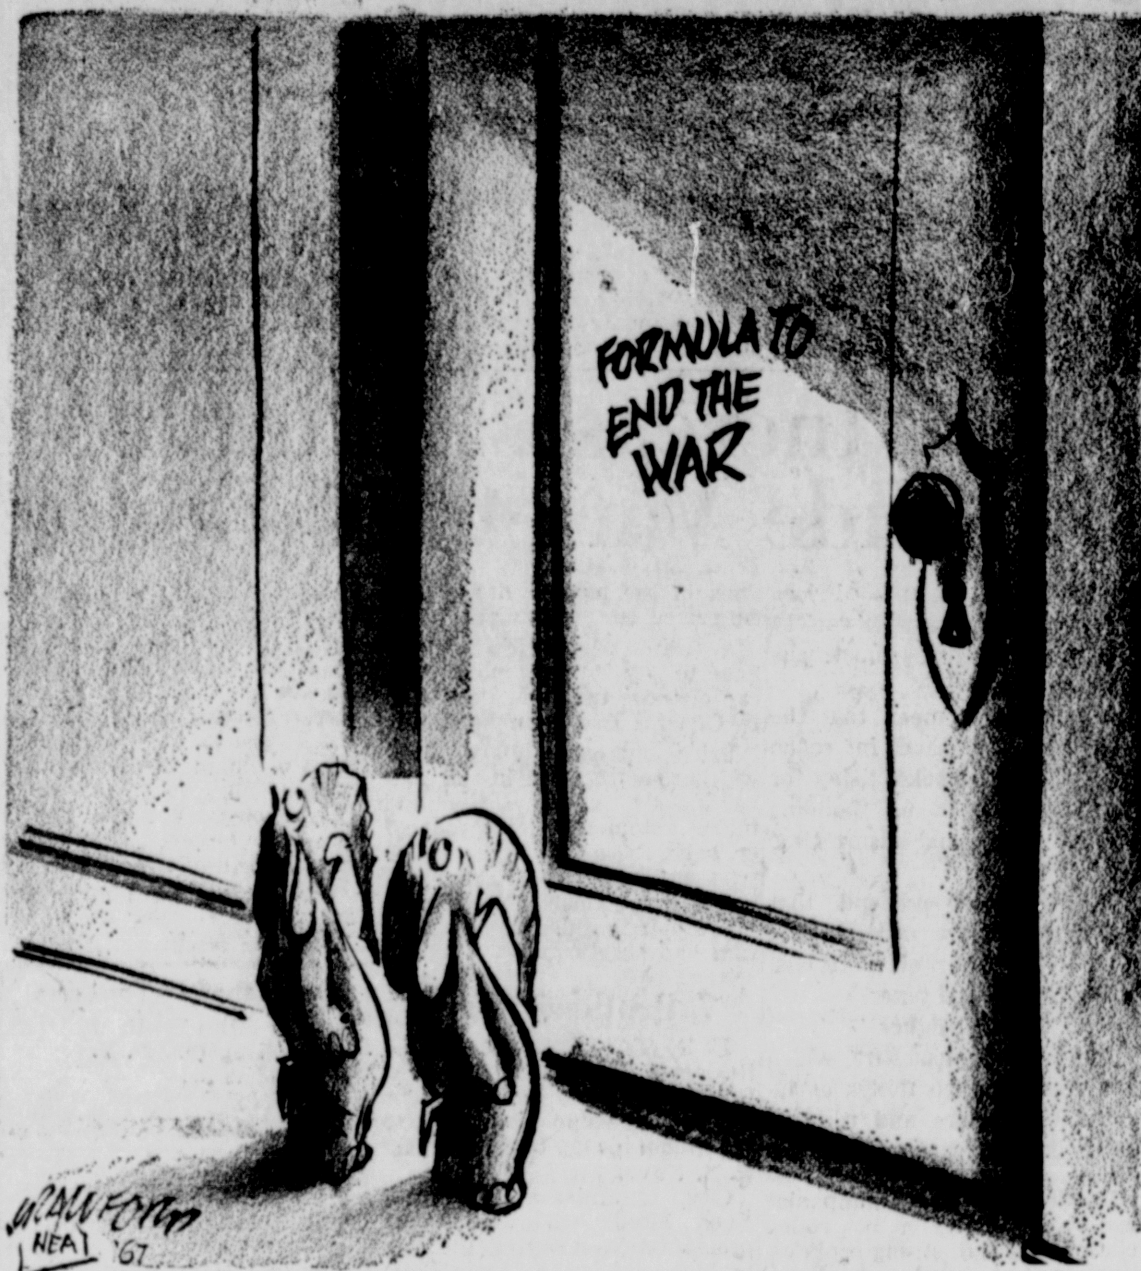

American experts observing the election in South Vietnam found it as efficient, free and honest as an American election. It superseded American presidential elections in that 83 per cent — more than five sixths of the registered voters — cast ballots despite the violence that visited death and injury on the electorate before and even on election day. Compared to the lackadaisical two thirds or less who vote here, that was a tremendous showing of determination to govern themselves.

Now that the military government has been given the popular support it sought, Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu can change hats from Chief of State to President and Air Marshal Nguyen Cao Ky from Premier to Vice President with the confidence that they have the country behind them. The question that Washington and the people of this country are asking is, will President Thieu and Vice President Ky be more effective in bringing the war to successful conclusion than they have been as Chief of State and Premier?

Surely, they fulfill the American military command's desire for a strong, informed government that should be able to coordinate native forces with the allied. They also fulfill the desire of our pacification group for the push needed to pacify the country and give the people the security they have been denied for so long.

The election revealed an understandably strong sentiment for peace, when Truong Dinh Dzu, the peace candidate, ran second to the military and ahead of all ten civilian slates. That may accelerate Thieu's campaign promise to meet with any peace emissary of the Vietcong at any place and time to seek a mutual understanding toward peace. Not that peace is in sight, but moves to secure peace are. If North Vietnam accepts the results of the election as it should, then some peace moves should be forthcoming very soon. The United States would welcome them, if they produced the independence and security for South Vietnam for which we have been fighting.

Governor Romney Has Made a Political Mistake

WASHINGTON — When the American people get ready to vote in the next presidential election, they will ask themselves whether the candidate opposing President Johnson is a man of maturity, experience, judgment and knowledge not only of domestic affairs but of the intricacies of world problems. If the Republican nominee is deficient in these respects, many voters — much as they may dislike to do so — will vote again for President Johnson.

Governor George Romney, in his latest statement discussing the Vietnam problem, made a political mistake as he said:

"When I came back from Vietnam, I just had the greatest brainwashing that anybody can get when you go over to Vietnam. Not only by the generals, but also by the diplomatic corps over there, and they do a very thorough job; and, since returning from Vietnam, I've gone into the history of Vietnam, all the way back into World War II and before that."

"And, as a result, I have changed my mind, in that particularly I no longer believe that it was necessary for us to get involved in South Vietnam to stop Communist aggression in Southeast Asia and to prevent Chinese Communist domination of Southeast Asia."

Maybe if the Michigan governor had been a member of the cabinet or vice president with access to all confidential information from abroad — and if he had had some intimate experience with the vicissitudes of international life as they change from day to day, he might be able now to see more objectively the circumstances surrounding America's involvement in Vietnam.

Hindsight is, of course, supposed to be better than foresight. It is easy to criticize Presidents Kennedy and Johnson for what they did in the Vietnam situation and to argue that some other course would have been better.

The theory that, if Dwight Eisenhower had remained president, the United States would not have become involved in a land war in Southeast Asia is a hypothetical assumption that the steady pressures of the Communists to take over Southeast Asia would have been ignored by the man in the White House. The Michigan governor will be reminded that, while President, Mr. Eisenhower did not hesitate to act promptly in the Suez crisis and against other serious threats to world peace. These did not result in war. Perhaps it was because the Eisenhower policy showed a firmness which the enemy could not mistake.

Certainly it is tragic that the United States had to become engaged in the Vietnam War. But the same might equally be said about the Korean War and World War II. Blame cannot be placed on any individual who happened to be president of the United States during these world crises. A decision had to be made on the basis of the facts available at the time.

Communist plotting and intrigue and military threats to world peace are no things that can be penetratingly studied merely by reading history books. The Asian governments which have sent troops to South Vietnam have all along been well informed about the objectives of Communist policy, and it is amazing to read Governor Romney's statement that "we have involved other nations in Southeast Asia."

Mr. Romney now will be asked how he would have dealt with the threats that have confronted the United States in Southeast Asia in the last several years. What would his answer have been if, subsequent to 1960, all of Vietnam had been overrun by the Communists, and Cambodia, Thailand and Laos were grabbed at the same time, and there ensued a growing menace to South Korea, the Philippines, Australia and New Zealand?

Spread of Communist imperialism in Asia would have given the Soviets a chance to exploit their hold on Eastern Europe. The United States has taken the position since World War II that Communist aggression must be checked. The American government has acted to thwart such a takeover in Africa and has not hesitated to face up to the Soviets in Berlin and in the Cuban missile crisis.

Would Governor Romney be a president with enough background to deal with an international problem like that in Vietnam? This is the question which his statements pose to many people today. Certainly before the Republican National Convention next year he will have to clarify his viewpoint and reveal just what steps he would have taken had he been identified with the party in power in a prominent position during the last six or seven years.

Poor Sihanouk's Reward

WASHINGTON — Cambodia's capricious Prince Norodom Sihanouk, living next door to South Vietnam, has been of great aid to North Vietnam. He has let communist supplies and troops pour across his border. In return, here is the story of how the rulers in Hanoi and Peking have repaid him.

It is hard to imagine what more Sihanouk could have done to please Hanoi and Peking. He parroted the communist line calling the Americans "imperialists" and other nasty names. He spurned American aid and even kicked the Americans out of his country with a great thumping of his nose.

He opened Cambodia's borders to the communist guerrillas but screamed shrilly if U.S. troops so much as set a GI boot across the line. He permitted the communists to use his port of Phnom Penh to smuggle supplies down the Mekong River to the Viet Cong. He offered not only haven and hospitality, but food and medicine to the guerrillas while they camped in his country.

All the while, he arranged guided tours for outside observers to prove he was doing none of these things. But in a rueful statement from Phnom Penh, he has now come close to confessing that he has been playing a double game.

"We have given a great deal of aid to the Viet Minh (North Vietnamese troops) and Viet Cong (South Vietnamese guerrillas)," said Sihanouk. "The Americans are aware of the fact that we have aided them in the political and diplomatic fields. We have also given them aid in many other fields, which I cannot explain in detail. However, our compatriots are already aware that we have given a good deal of aid to the Viet Minh and the Viet Cong."

Sihanouk's Reward

What has been poor Sihanouk's reward? The communists have taken advantage of the open door to infiltrate Cambodia against him. They have already started guerrilla action in the hinterlands, attacking his provincial guard and massacring anti-communist peasants.

In Phnom Penh, the communists are tightening their hold on Sihanouk's government. They drove two anti-communist ministers, Mau Say and Douc Rasy, out of the cabinet with charges of corruption. They also forced the resignation of Prime Minister Lon Nol.

This has brought plaintive protests from Sihanouk, who had supposed his pro-communist posturing would buy him immunity from red intrigue. The story is best told in his own words, which U.S. intelligence has picked up.

"A number of Viet Minh and Viet Cong have infiltrated," the prince protested recently. "Thus, can we in point of fact be sure that our territory will be safe in the future if we turn communist? . . . I must tell you now that the Vietnamese communists and the Viet Cong negotiated with us three or four times but that absolutely nothing came out of the negotiations. They did not sign a pledge of respect for our present frontiers."

In another statement, the prince declared: "We only love Cambodia more than we love other countries, and we do not want to be lackeys of the Vietnamese, Chinese and Americans. That is our only fault."

"I am always very severe and strict with the Americans. With the Americans we absolutely do not want a reconciliation, and we are very strict and severe with them. Yet the Viet Minh have repaid me by saying that Sihanouk has sold the nation to the Americans because Sihanouk is rotten and a lackey of imperialism. Such an accusation is very unjust."

Lesson to Others
The unhappy prince isn't the first Asian leader who thought he could play ball with the communists. India's late Prime Minister Nehru tried to curry favor in Peking, and his successors still are more sympathetic to Hanoi than to Saigon. Nehru was repaid with a Red Chinese invasion in 1962.

Indonesia's ousted President Sukarno virtually became a Peking puppet. Conspicuous evidence now shows that the communists intended to reward him by taking over his government.

Prince Souvanna Phouma, trying to walk a neutral line in Laos, joined with the pro-Communist Pathet Lao in opposing the Americans. The Pathet Lao, bolstered by more than 20,000 North Vietnamese troops, merely stepped up its military drive to take over the country. Now the neutralist prince is cooperating wholeheartedly with the United States.

Few have tried harder than the Burmese to get along with their northern neighbors. To placate the communists, Gen. Ne Win eradicated U. S. influence in Burma. Today Burma is one of the chief targets of Radio Peking and Radio Hanoi. Even my Nepal, which has been safe near the top of the Himalayas for centuries, has now been bitterly denounced for conspiring with "imperialists."

Armed communist guerrillas are also active in most other Asian countries from Thailand to the Philippines. Yet astonishingly, the prevailing sentiment in Asia is more anti-American than anti-communist. Even the Buddhists, whose co-religionists have been brutally tortured and dehumanized in Tibet, find themselves repeating communist clichés.

The World Today

By EDMOND LEBRETON

WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress eventually votes an income tax increase it will be from conviction that the chronically borrowing U.S. economy can't stand competition from a government trying to float $29 billion in loans in a single year.

This technical, banker-like argument—more than fear of inflation or appeals to back the Vietnam effort—is the one apparently having the most impact on the House Ways and Means Committee as it continues its hearings on President Johnson's 10 per cent income tax surcharge proposal.

The argument gains force from a painfully practical demonstration last year of what happens when money gets tight—when the demands for credit by the government and the millions of individual and corporate borrowers press against the national total of savings and bank funds made available through the Federal Reserve System.

Interest rates soared. Worse, credit for some purposes simply dried up. Small businesses got elbowed aside in the scramble for loans and one big, basic business—housing—suffered as higher interest rates offered elsewhere sluiced away saver's funds from the institutions that traditionally finance home building.

Unemployment Up
Unemployment in the building trade went up and industries associated with construction took fright. Students seeking government-backed college loans found banks uninterested.

Congressmen heard plenty from affected constituents and they haven't forgotten.

So, for many of them, the prospect of the government, faced with a deficit on the order of $29 billion, having to go into the still not-too-easy much credit is simply not to be contemplated.

Those who continue to oppose Johnson's proposals usually take one of two positions.

One is that the government could cut spending enough to bring the deficit down to manageable proportions—nobody thinks it can be erased—without a tax increase. At least, those who take this line insist, no tax increase should be voted until the administration has done much more budget-cutting than has yet been undertaken. A manageable deficit has been estimated at $10 billion to $15 billion.

The other main alternative offered to Johnson's program is to demand tax reform, loophole closings to raise more revenue without imposing a greater burden on all taxpayers. Many, of course, call for a combination of tax reform and spending restraint.

To all this administration spokesmen say the government is making an all-out effort to cut spending but there is no realistic possibility of reducing it enough to substitute for a tax increase.

Need More Revenue
As for tax reform, they have promised to send a bill to Congress later this year, after the increase measure is out of the way. The need for more revenue, they insist, is immediate, while loophole closing, which calls into action the last ditch defenders of every loophole, is a long and painful process.

In the fiscally happier days of 1962 and 1963, there was an effort to combine reforms with a tax cutting measure. The arguments over reforms stretched out interminably; one by one they were dropped, and the bill that finally passed had practically nothing in it but tax reduction.

Johnson's formula for handling the budget is to save some, tax some and borrow some. More and more, the argument in Congress appears to be not so much whether to accept or reject the formula, but in what proportions to spell it out.

Home, Parents Influence Attitudes Toward Studies

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has been putting considerable emphasis for a number of years on why some students do better than others in school, why creativity and original thinking seem to decline heavily in school children at about the third or fourth grade, never to reappear again with their original force and why some schools consistently turn out students who do better in life.

One such series of studies looks into students who do very well in high school—the so-called high achievers. These excellent students are compared with those who do poorly in high school—the low achievers. The comparisons are statistical.

Researchers found that high achievers name their fathers as having been an important influence in their lives significantly more often than did low achievers.

More than half of the high achievers were judged as being "very active" in religious affairs. Less than a third of the low achievers were listed as religiously "very active."

Only 11 per cent of the high achievers were catalogued as "not very active" in religion. Almost a fourth of the low achievers were listed as "not very active."

The research indicated that children in families with three or less children have a better chance of becoming high achievers than do children from large families.

First-born and only children apparently have even a better chance of ranking high in their school work.

Strangely enough, these studies seemed to indicate that boys were more likely to be high achievers if their mothers were more democratic and less autocratic in dealing with their sons, but that girls were more likely to be high achievers if their mothers believed more in authoritarian control.

High achievers on the whole had better-educated parents. They came from homes with a higher "socio-economic status." They were more independent in their outlook and actions.

More of the high achievers had mothers who wanted their children to go to college. The higher achievers tended to engage in more educationally related hobbies—reading, electronics, collections, chess, science, dramatics and poetry.

High achievers in general scored higher on adjustment than did the low achievers. More were acted by their parents as assuming responsibility. They tended to be more active in school-related activities during their junior high school years.

This research deals in averages. But these averages indicate there are simple things that parents can do—train their children in responsibility and individuality, set high standards, provide a strong religious background, encourage sound hobbies, and, above all, be the kind of parents their youngsters can look up to.

These things won't guarantee success. But they will raise the chances for success in turning out young men and women who will achieve.

Brazilian Editorial Has High Praise for America

By RAY CROMLEY

NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Critics of U. S. policy in Vietnam should read and reread the following editorial.

It was carried Aug. 7, 1967, in A Tarde, a newspaper in Sao Salvador, Bahia, Brazil.

The editorial says, in its own way, what this reporter has heard many American servicemen and civilians say in Vietnam. Men and women in Japan, the Philippines, Thailand, Hong Kong told me the same thing last fall.

We sometimes lose sight of this daily budget of protest in the news.

Here then is the Brazilian editorial:

"The United States government is going to increase taxes by 10 per cent to support the war in Vietnam. What this means for the western world is probably not well understood. But we shudder to think what a collapse of democracy in the Orient would signify."

"Fighting in Asia, in the swamps and jungles of Vietnam against ambushes of the Viet Cong, the North American people and their allies . . . are fulfilling a pledge not only to the South Vietnamese. The lives being sacrificed there are for the freedom of the whole world, because if they were to leave Vietnam, we would have the war on

"An empire like the American one does not need to resort to territorial expansion. The Vietnam war has a well-defined ideological meaning and the fate of two different worlds is in balance there."

"And now all of the American people are being called to contribute to this war. Giving their blood is not enough. It is also necessary for them to make a material contribution, from the national wealth, in favor of a long and tiring campaign with no end in sight."

"Whether or not one agrees with the reasons the United States is in Vietnam, one must admire the tenacity, inspiration and bravery of the young American generation who risk their lives defending an ideal which made their country a truly universal symbol—the ideal of liberty."

"The stoicism of the Americans in this war, in the face of accusations of all types and sometimes from those who should be fighting at their side, is impressive. For the responsibility for maintaining the status quo in Vietnam should fall much more to other countries than to the United States which is there defending interests which were not theirs and which led them into a war in defense of all the democratic nations of the world."

"Nevertheless, the United States still considers itself

committed to give economic help to the democratic nations, especially to the less-developed ones, in a second front in the war against communism."

"On this other front, the American people are also in the vanguard. Recent statistics show that in the past year more than 100 million Americans gave more than $13½ billion to help the wellbeing of others, whether in their own country or in other nations around the globe."

"There is no parallel in all the history of mankind to this vast and substantial solidarity. Since the end of the Second World War the United States has helped the world to free itself from poverty and has made great efforts to defend the dearest accomplishments of man and the self-determination of people. Devastated Europe was rebuilt under the Marshall Plan and many Asian, African and American nations have counted on the United States for substantial assistance in the fight against underdevelopment."

"It is really admirable that a nation so tormented by such serious external and internal problems can still find the spiritual and material resources which seem inexhaustible, to help other peoples."

The Second School System

Can There Ever Be 'Quality' Education?

(Last in a Series)
By L. F. PALMER JR.
NEA Special Writer

CHICAGO—(NEA)—"The most important challenge facing the city... as it considers the program of public education is the challenge to adequately provide for the education of culturally disadvantaged children."

That statement was made in 1964 by Prof. Robert J. Havighurst of the University of Chicago about the public schools of Chicago. It probably could be made today about most of the major metropolitan centers of the North.

In Chicago, three years after the Havighurst public school survey submitted its many recommendations, Warren Bacon, one of two Negro members of the board of education, said in an interview:

"The board has done virtually nothing about the report. All it does is pass resolutions but words won't solve the problem. I am not yet convinced that the board of education is ready or willing to face up to the problem of quality education in ghetto schools."

Who is to blame for school conditions which send into society a steady stream of alienated, poorly trained, low-goaled Negroes?

Who is to blame when ghetto schools fail the city by producing countless candidates for relief rolls and legions who turn to the laws of the jungle and make violence their way of life—or death?

Dr. Donald H. Smith, director of the Center for Inner City Studies in Chicago, says slum children do not achieve as they should "not because of the linguistic sterility and lack of educational motivation of deprived homes but because of the attitudes of their teachers."

"Because teachers have decided that disadvantaged children can't learn, many teachers don't teach, and nobody is very surprised when no learning takes place."

The Rev. Arthur Brazier, president of The Woodlawn Organization, a militant community group, also blames the schools.

"They have found ways to educate other handicapped children, the blind, the deaf, the crippled. Now let them find a way to educate the child handicapped by his life in the slum."

Many teachers, principals and social scientists feel that the avenues to teaching the ghetto child are choked off even before the youngster shows up for kindergarten.

His home life, festering with the poisons of poverty, neglect, family deterioration and an aura of despair, erects a barrier to normal learning, they say.

John E. Coons, of the Northwestern University Law School, concluded:

"No matter what improvements we make in the educational system, no matter how stringently we enforce school attendance, we will not solve the problem until we attack it at its source—in the home."

However, Harold Baron, director of research for the Chicago Urban League, insists the blame falls in no one area, not on the school system but on THE system under which black Americans live.

"Racial segregation and the inferior education which Negro students receive, while basically dependent upon the nature of the school system itself, are made much more complete by barriers maintained by noneducational institutions."

He described these as employment discrimination, housing segregation, the lack of Negro power and the ideology of racism.

"Barriers from those other systems bolster the racial rigidity of the school system while, in turn, the school system operates to make these other systems more rigid," Baron explained.

What must be done to erase the ravages of the ghetto school?

In Chicago, Edwin C. Berry, director of the Urban League, and Dr. Virginia F. Lewis, assistant superintendent of schools for integration and human relations, agree on four factors, which could apply to any city, as chief requisites to the solution of the problem:

- Restoring the family to a level where parents can provide the child with both the preschool training needed to prepare him for this new experience and back-up support so the child can maintain a satisfactory rate of progress.
- Integration.
- Proper teacher personality, attitudes and training.
- Reduce class size.

An infusion of federal money has spawned a variety of programs to upgrade the education of deprived children. Some educators view these developments as promising. Others question their validity.

Perhaps the best known is Project Head Start which is designed to make up for the deprivations of poverty and to give preschoolers a head start toward formal learning. An increasing number of experts, however, are reporting that Head Start makes significant strides as far as it goes. But, they say, once the child enters school, the gains are lost because there is no follow-through in the primary grades.

The program to teach remedial reading and arithmetic to ghetto children after school drew this comment from one teacher:

"At 3:15, this child is like a bottle of warm pop that has been unstopped. At the end of the first week of the program, teachers complained that it took almost a whole period to get the children fastened down to their seats."

And one member of the Teacher Corps, another federal program, wrote to the dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, where she received her master's degree:

"Please to God, if you are going to send Harvard graduates into urban school, prepare them a bit more than I was prepared. The dynamics of the classroom situation are overwhelming; they must be studied and solved before anything can be taught and learned."

The crisis in our ghetto schools is growing into a dilemma. As Dr. Donald H. Smith put it: "We are playing brinkmanship with the human condition."

Until education does become "the first work" of America, Dr. Smith says those who teach "must paste and patch and do whatever else we can to give these deprived children the same chance for happiness that is promised for all Americans."

Police Offered Anti-Riot Tank

By PETER LAINE
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—A 20-ton answer to civil disorders has come to town. It offers air-conditioned comfort while it spews out a stream of bullets, tear gas or a mind-boggling noise.

Born in quiet Leesburg, Va., the anti-riot tank costs $28,700 for any police department that wants it.

Bullet-proofed and rubber-tracked, it can carry 15 fully equipped lawmen at 35 miles an hour while they fire through gunports in the two-inch plexiglass dome.

"Then it can stop and let them out to go hunting," beamed retired Col. Rex Applegate, riot specialist and consultant to B & H Enterprises Inc.

The Leesburg firm is headed by contractor Joe Hill. The other initial belongs to George Brown, vice president and former Palm Beach (Fla.) county sheriff's detective.

They turned on the curdler—an electronic, directional noise-maker—and rent the Virginia countryside for miles.

"It destroys the thought train," said Hill modestly. "At 100 yards you can't stand in front of the beam."

"Clears off looters," chimed in the Colonel, "and does the gas bit, too."

Tear gas pours out of one front jet. The other jet fights fires or crowds, depending on the circumstances. Another nozzle douses flames on the tank itself.

A light rises like a periscope to flash and floodlight darkness. A heavy winch is said to have "unlimited uses."

A chemical toilet is standard.

Could it be used as a paddy wagon?

Yes, but it's really an offensive vehicle, the Colonel explained.

Hill said response has been enthusiastic from even medium-sized communities. The tank will show its paces at the International Association of Chiefs of Police meeting in Kansas City.

"Some places are very touchy," said Hill. "They want it but they don't want people to see it."

Reminiscent of Hitler Era

By DONALD R. SHANOR
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

BONN, Sept. 2—The headlines read "The Israeli Nazis," "Zionists Don't Want to Belong to the German Nation," "Boni's Love for Israel."

Articles and editorials accuse the anti-Hitler plotters of 1944 of high treason, attack the German war crimes trials, draw attention to Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's illegitimate birth, and predict racial civil war in the United States.

The newspaper is the National Zeitung, a weekly edited by Gerhard Frey, who often reminds his readers that he could not have been a Nazi because he was too young.

Its avowed aim is to give "German Nationalists the plain, unvarnished truth." It sells 100,000 copies a week.

Many of those copies go to West German authorities for a close reading of Frey's weekly balancing act between what he perceives to be the truth and what is against the law.

The German and Austrian governments have banned individual issues of the paper but have been reluctant to act more often because of concern for freedom of the press.

But now Frey stands under indictment in Munich on charges of inciting hatred, defamation, and violation of the Constitution.

He is accused specifically of charging "World Jewry" or "Zionists" with "eternal hatred, revenge for Auschwitz, blackmail, and boycott."

This is an apparent reference to the tack the newspaper has taken since the Middle Eastern War.

None of the articles are overtly anti-semitic. That would be a clear violation of the law in Germany and would put the paper out of business at once.

But readers accustomed to the newspapers of Josef Goebbels must find Frey's concentration on the Jewish theme familiar.

In a recent and typical issue, more than half of the paper's 12 pages was devoted to articles about Jews, Israel, or Zionism.

Frey's secondary interest seems to be U. S. domination of Germany. Here, too, racism plays a role.

This theme has two parts: Germany is being subjected to "a system of oppression and exploitation" that is worse than colonialism, on the one hand.

On the other, the United States is a poor bet for Germany. It is on the verge of civil war between white and black.

And integration is not the answer because "the mentality of the Negro is not equal to that of the white."

Canada Political Parties May Take on U.S. Look

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

OTTAWA, Ontario, Sept. 1—New ground rules for political parties in Canada may be established at next week's Progressive-Conservative convention in Toronto. They may well come close to the American practice of nominating conventions for presidential candidates every four years.

The Toronto convention's job is to choose a leader for the Progressive-Conservative Party. The man chosen will be the party's nominee for the job of prime minister of Canada at the next election.

The convention is unique in that it is the first one held without the consent of the man in the leadership job. Other conventions have followed the death or resignation of a leader.

John Diefenbaker has not resigned and is still lively at 72 years of age. He has led the party for 10 years and was prime minister for six. He hasn't even recognized the convention as a fact.

His friends suggest he may be a candidate for re-endorsement. They have seen to it that he has a chance to address the delegates but they object to the way in which some delegates hostile to Diefenbaker have been chosen.

While the nine new candidates for the leadership have been campaigning actively among party members Diefenbaker has ignored the contest, but has taken care to get his share of publicity through interviews and speeches on other topics.

If the convention is a success and chooses a new leader, it will have established a precedent that can't be ignored in the future. That is that leadership conventions may be held by the major parties, regardless of the wishes of the current leader and his supporters in Parliament.

This, seasoned politicians think, is a long step towards a convention every few years and an end to the indefinite tenure of party leaders in their jobs.

Canada's other major party, the Liberals, now in power with Lester Pearson as prime minister has been lucky enough to have had few changes in leadership in recent years. In the past half century they have had three leaders, all chosen by convention and all subsequent election winners. The latest, Pearson, is now prime minister.

The other two resigned and requested a convention. One did so because of age and ill-health, the other following defeat at a general election.

Anti-Diefenbaker conservatives resent his failure to tender his resignation. They say he is both old for the job—72—and after defeat should have given the party a chance to choose a new man. He lost the last two general elections to the Liberals by small margins.

If Diefenbaker seeks reelection and it will endorse his stand that the calling of a convention should be the business of the leader.

If he doesn't run out of runs and loses, it will establish the right of rank and file members of a party to organize a convention independent of the leader and force him to fight for his job or get out.

The convention could even write a provision for a regular contest for the leadership into the party constitution.

Meantime, loyal party people worry about a split in the party with Diefenbaker's followers walking out in the event of his defeat on a convention ballot or his by-passing the convention to attack the organizers who acted without his approval.

A short time ago I talked with Miss Pauline Homnell, a retired school teacher and author of Saugetories. Her book, Teacup Tales, which came out in 1958, is now out of print. In fact, she did not keep a copy for herself. I mentioned it in a previous column that she would like to obtain a copy of her own book and the same day that my column appeared in The Freeman Miss Homnell had a telephone call from a lady in Kingston with an offer of a copy. The lady delivered the book from Kingston, and they had a very nice visit. Miss Homnell called me up and we both agreed about the power of the press and the instant response to the request of my column.

This fall of 1967 will be just 190 years since Sir John Vaughan, a Britisher, sailed up the Hudson River and burned Kingston on October 16, 1777. Kingston had been burned twice by the Indians in the earlier days, but Vaughan's destruction was a staggering blow to Kingston and its people. All they had in the world was destroyed. Even their winter stores were gone and they were left with neither shelter nor food. This wanton act aroused a feeling of sympathy which quickly spread over the land and there was a cry of indignation and shame on all sides. The residents of Kingston spent a miserable winter but came spring and they started to rebuild.

Now, in 1967, we have Kingston partly destroyed again. On October 19, 1777, General Horatio Gates, in a stinging letter to General Vaughan, said in part, "With unexampled cruelty, you have reduced the fine village of Kingston to ashes, and most of the wretched inhabitants to ruin."

The Second School System

Can There Ever Be 'Quality' Education?

(Last in a Series)
By L. F. PALMER JR.
NEA Special Writer

CHICAGO—(NEA)—"The most important challenge facing the city... as it considers the program of public education is the challenge to adequately provide for the education of culturally disadvantaged children."

That statement was made in 1964 by Prof. Robert J. Havighurst of the University of Chicago about the public schools of Chicago. It probably could be made today about most of the major metropolitan centers of the North.

In Chicago, three years after the Havighurst public school survey "submitted its many recommendations, Warren Bacon, one of two Negro members of the board of education, said in an interview:

"The board has done virtually nothing about the report. All it does is pass resolutions but words won't solve the problem. I am not yet convinced that the board of education is ready or willing to face up to the problem of quality education in ghetto schools."

Who is to blame when ghetto schools fail the city by producing countless candidates for relief rolls and legions who turn to the laws of the jungle and make violence their way of life—or death?

Dr. Donald H. Smith, director of the Center for Inner City Studies in Chicago, says slum children do not achieve as they should "not because of the linguistic sterility and lack of educational motivation of deprived homes but because of the attitudes of their teachers."

"Because teachers have decided that disadvantaged children can't learn, many teachers don't teach, and nobody is very surprised when no learning takes place."

The Rev. Arthur Brazier, president of The Woodlawn Organization, a militant community group, also blames the schools.

"They have found ways to educate other handicapped children, the blind, the deaf, the crippled. Now let them find a way to educate the child handicapped by his life in the slum."

Many teachers, principals and social scientists feel that the avenues to teaching the ghetto child are choked off even before the youngster shows up for kindergarten.

His home life, festering with the poisons of poverty, neglect, family deterioration and an aura of despair, erects a barrier to normal learning, they say.

John E. Coons, of the Northwestern University Law School, concluded:

"No matter what improvements we make in the educational system, no matter how stringently we enforce school attendance, we will not solve the problem until we attack it at its source—in the home."

However, Harold Baron, director of research for the Chicago Urban League, insists the blame falls in no one area, not on the school system but on THE system under which black Americans live.

"Racial segregation and the inferior education which Negro students receive, while basically dependent upon the nature of the school system itself, are made much more complete by barriers maintained by noneducational institutions."

He described these as employment discrimination, housing segregation, the lack of Negro power and the ideology of racism.

"Barriers from those other systems bolster the racial rigidity of the school system while, in turn, the school system operates to make these other systems more rigid," Baron explained.

What must be done to erase the ravages of the ghetto school?

In Chicago, Edwin C. Berry, director of the Urban League, and Dr. Virginia F. Lewis, assistant superintendent of schools for integration and human relations, agree on four factors, which could apply to any city, as chief requisites to the solution of the problem:

- Restoring the family to a level where parents can provide the child with both the preschool training needed to prepare him for this new experience and back-up support so the child can maintain a satisfactory rate of progress.
- Integration.
- Proper teacher personality, attitudes and training.
- Reduce class size.

An infusion of federal money has spawned a variety of programs to upgrade the education of deprived children. Some educators view these developments as promising. Others question their validity.

Perhaps the best known is Project Head Start which is designed to make up for the deprivations of poverty and to give preschoolers a head start toward formal learning.

An increasing number of experts, however, are reporting that Head Start makes significant strides as far as it goes. But, they say, once the child enters school, the gains are lost because there is no follow-through in the primary grades.

The program to teach remedial reading and arithmetic to ghetto children after school drew this comment from one teacher:

"At 3:15, this child is like a bottle of warm pop that has been unstopped. At the end of the first week of the program, teachers complained that it took almost a whole period to get the children fastened down to their seats."

And one member of the Teacher Corps, another federal program, wrote to the dean of the Harvard Graduate School of Education, where she received her master's degree:

"Please to God, if you are going to send Harvard graduates into urban school, prepare them a bit more than I was prepared. The dynamics of the classroom situation are overwhelming; they must be studied and solved before anything can be taught and learned."

The crisis in our ghetto schools is growing into a dilemma. As Dr. Donald H. Smith put it: "We are playing brinkmanship with the human condition."

Until education does become "the first work" of America, Dr. Smith says those who teach "must paste and patch and do whatever else we can to give these deprived children the same chance for happiness that is promised for all Americans."

Police Offered Anti-Riot Tank

By PETER LAINE
Chicago Daily News Service

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2—A 20-ton answer to civil disorders has come to town. It offers air-conditioned comfort while it spews out a stream of bullets, tear gas or a mind-dazing noise.

Born in quiet Leesburg, Va., the anti-riot tank costs $28,700 for any police department that wants it.

Bullet-proofed and rubber-tracked, it can carry 15 fully equipped lawmen at 35 miles an hour while they fire through gunports in the two-inch plexiglass dome.

"Then it can stop and let them out to go hunting," beamed retired Col. Rex Applegate, riot specialist and consultant to B & H Enterprises Inc.

The Leesburg firm is headed by contractor Joe Hill. The other initial belongs to George Brown, vice president and former Palm Beach (Fla.) county sheriff's detective.

They turned on the curdler—an electronic, directional noise-maker—and rent the Virginia countryside for miles.

"It destroys the thought train," said Hill modestly. "At 100 yards you can't stand in front of the beam."

"Clears off looters," chimed in the Colonel, "and does the gas bit, too."

Tear gas pours out of one front jet. The other jet fights fires or crowds, depending on the circumstances. Another nozzle douses flames on the tank itself.

A light rises like a periscope to flash and floodlight darkness. A heavy winch is said to have "unlimited uses." A chemical toilet is standard.

Could it be used as a paddy wagon?

Yes, but it's really an offensive vehicle, the Colonel explained.

Hill said response has been enthusiastic from even medium-sized communities. The tank will show its paces at the International Association of Chiefs of Police meeting in Kansas City.

"Some places are very touchy," said Hill. "They want it but they don't want people to see it."

Reminiscent of Hitler Era

By DONALD R. SHANOR
Chicago Daily News Service

BONN, Sept. 2—The headlines read "The Israeli Nazis," "Zionists Don't Want to Belong to the German Nation," "Bonn's Love for Israel."

Articles and editorials accuse the anti-Nazi plot of 1944 of high treason, attack the German war crimes trials, draw attention to Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's illegitimate birth, and predict racial civil war in the United States.

The newspaper is the National Zeitung, a weekly edited by Gerhard Frey, who often reminds his readers that he could not have been a Nazi because he was too young.

Its avowed aim is to give "German Nationalists the plain, unvarnished truth."

It sells 100,000 copies a week. Many of those copies go to West German authorities for a close reading of Frey's weekly balancing act between what he perceives to be the truth and what is against the law.

The German and Austrian governments have banned individual issues of the paper but have been reluctant to act more often because of concern for freedom of the press.

But now Frey stands under indictment in Munich on charges of inciting hatred, defamation, and violation of the Constitution.

He is accused specifically of charging "World Jewry" or "Zionists" with "eternal hatred, revenge for Auschwitz, blackmail, and boycott."

This is an apparent reference to the tack the newspaper has taken since the Middle Eastern War.

None of the articles are overtly anti-semitic. That would be a clear violation of the law in Germany and would put the paper out of business at once.

But readers accustomed to the newspapers of Josef Goebbels must find Frey's concentration on the Jewish theme familiar.

In a recent and typical issue, more than half of the paper's 12 pages was devoted to articles about Jews, Israel, or Zionism.

Frey's secondary interest seems to be U. S. domination of Germany. Here, too, racism plays a role.

This theme has two parts: Germany is being subjected to "a system of oppression and exploitation" that is worse than colonialism, on the one hand.

On the other, the United States is a poor bet for Germany. It is on the verge of civil war between white and black.

And integration is not the answer because "the mentality of the Negro is not equal to that of the white."

Canada Political Parties May Take on U.S. Look

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Chicago Daily News
Foreign Service

OTTAWA, Ontario, Sept. 1—New ground rules for political parties in Canada may be established at next week's Progressive-Conservative convention in Toronto. They may well come close to the American practice of nominating candidates for presidential candidates every four years.

The Toronto convention's job is to choose a leader for the Progressive-Conservative Party. The man chosen will be the party's nominee for the job of prime minister of Canada at the next election.

The convention is unique in that it is the first one held without the consent of the man in the leadership job. Other conventions have followed the death or resignation of a leader.

John Diefenbaker has not resigned and is still lively at 72 years of age. He has led the party for 10 years and was prime minister for six. He hasn't even recognized the convention as a fact.

His friends suggest he may be a candidate for re-endorsement. They have seen to it that he has a chance to address the delegates but they object to the way in which some delegates hostile to Diefenbaker have been chosen.

While the nine new candidates for the leadership have been campaigning actively among party members Diefenbaker has ignored the contest, but has taken care to get his share of publicity through interviews and speeches on other topics.

If the convention is a success and chooses a new leader, it will have established a precedent that can't be ignored in the future. That is that leadership conventions may be held by the major parties, regardless of the wishes of the current leader and his supporters in Parliament.

This, seasoned politicians think, is a long step towards a convention every few years and an end to the indefinite tenure of party leaders in their jobs.

Canada's other major party, the Liberals, now in power with Lester Pearson as prime minister has been lucky enough to have had few changes in leadership in recent years. In the past half century they have had three leaders, all chosen by convention and all subsequent election winners. The latest, Pearson, is now prime minister. The other two resigned and requested a convention.

One did so because of age and ill-health, the other following defeat at a general election. Anti-Diefenbaker conservatives resent his failure to tender his resignation. They say he is both old for the job—72—and after defeat should have given the party a chance to choose a new man. He lost the last two general elections to the Liberals by small margins.

If Diefenbaker seeks re-election and it will endorse his stand that the calling of a convention should be the business of the leader.

If he doesn't run out of runs and loses, it will establish the right of rank and file members of a party to organize a convention independent of the leader and force him to fight for his job or get out.

The convention could even write a provision for a regular contest for the leadership into the party constitution.

Meantime, loyal party people worry about a split in the party with Diefenbaker's followers waiting out in the event of his defeat on a convention ballot or his bypassing the convention to attack the organizers who acted without his approval.

A short time ago I talked with Miss Pauline Hommel, a retired school teacher and author of Saugerties. Her book, Teacup Tales, which came out in 1958, is now out of print. In fact, she did not keep a copy for herself. I mentioned it in a previous column that she would like to obtain a copy of her own book and the same day that my column appeared in The Freeman Miss Hommel had a telephone call from a lady in Kingston with an offer of a copy. The lady delivered the book from Kingston and they had a very nice visit. Some Buildings Saved

Flames Sweep Wallkill Barns

Flames fanned by a strong northwest wind swept through two large barns and a good-sized shed on the farm of Mrs. Philip McCord, Plains Road, Wallkill, but firemen from four communities saved the main farmhouse and three other buildings.

No Less Estimate

Mrs. McCord said this morning that she could give no estimate of the loss. She said the largest barn was empty, with the exception of some apple crates. Livestock and farm equipment had been sold at auction after the death of her husband, she said.

A passing motorist discovered the fire at about 4:30 p. m. He ran to the farmhouse and told Mrs. McCord and Wallkill fire units were called. They made a fast run to the farm in command of Chief Robert Roeder, and calls through mutual aid made immediately were answered by fire companies from Modena, Plattekill and Shawangunk Valley.

"When we arrived the two large barns were totally engulfed in fire," Chief Roeder told The Freeman. "The two barns and large shed were totally destroyed. Firemen saved the main farmhouse and three other frame buildings that were nearby."

Goodwill Visit

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato arrived in Taipei today for a 44-hour goodwill visit branded by Peking as a hostile act against Red China.

There were fears in Tokyo that Red China retaliate by restricting trade relations with Japan. Some Japanese newspapers cautioned Sato not to give the impression that Japan was joining the anti-Communist campaign against Peking.

The chief noted there were about 1,000 bales of straw in one of the barns. He said firemen saved a tractor and other farm equipment in the other buildings. Water was pumped from a nearby pond.

Mrs. McCord highly praised the work of the firefighters from Wallkill and the neighboring communities.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Outside fire companies were back in service before 7 p. m. Wallkill volunteers stayed at the farm wetting down the debris because of the closeness of the burned buildings to the farmhouse and other frame structures. The Wallkill units were back in service shortly after midnight today.

Shelling Resumes Across Suez Canal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel reported a two-hour machine-gun and artillery duel across the Suez Canal Wednesday night, the fourth breach this week of the Arab-Israeli ceasefire.

An Israeli spokesman accused the Egyptians of firing first toward Israeli-held positions in the Ismailia area, midway along the canal. He said the Israelis suffered no casualties.

There was no immediate counter claim from Cairo.

Egyptian and Israeli forces fought for seven hours across the canal Monday, and Egyptian authorities claimed that the Israeli shelling of the Red Sea port of Suez killed 44 civilians and wounded 170, wrecked 40 homes and damaged many more.

That battle was followed by an exchange of fire across the canal Tuesday night and by a duel between Jordanian and Israeli forces across the Jordan River Tuesday.

At the United Nations, Egypt blamed Israel for triggering Monday's naval and artillery battle despite a report from a team of U.N. truce observers that the Egyptians shot first.

hammad A. El-Kony wrote the president of the Security Council that two Israeli motorboats and a tug tried "to force their passage through the canal at the Suez entrance." He said the boats continued despite a warning and "simultaneously opened fire on our positions at Port Taufiq."

Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of staff of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in the Middle East, reported that Egypt started the fighting with fire directed at an Israeli motorboat. Foreign newsmen toured Suez, a city of 200,000 people, and found wailing women huddled around the wreckage of their homes. An elderly woman moaned, "I lost four of my children."

Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol said Israel, which captured almost all of Egypt east of the canal in the June 5-10 war, would not budge from the occupied territories as long as the Arabs held to their Khartoum summit position of no direct negotiations with the Jewish nation.

The Jordanian newspaper Al Difa said the Arab states were working on a plan to be submitted to the U.N. General Assembly Sept. 19 that would "remove the consequences" of the six-day war with Israel.

3 Girls Slain, Seek Young Man

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Three young girls were slain today, and a former suitor of another girl who escaped was charged with three counts of murder.

Police Chief Fred Hammock said three warrants were issued for Edward Albert Siebold, 21, a former Auburn University student who once dated an older sister of two of the slain girls. He was not apprehended immediately.

The victims were identified as Mary Lynn Sinclair, 9; her sister, Sarah Elizabeth Sinclair, 18; and Mary Dwyer, 18. Police said Mrs. Juanita Sinclair, about 40, a widow and the mother of two of the victims, was wounded.

Officers said two other Sinclair sisters, Kathy, 20, and Faye, a teenager, were in the house but escaped. The killings occurred at the family's two-story home in downtown Auburn.

Police said Kathy had once dated Siebold. They said, also, that Siebold was once put under a peace bond to stay away from the Sinclair residence.

Planning Highlights Rosendale Meet

Planning took the spotlight at the regular monthly meeting of the Town of Rosendale Board Wednesday night.

It was reported the town planning continues with no stoppage or problems because a valid contract exists. It was noted planning in the village had stopped the end of August.

A special meeting will be held within the next 10 days to approve Local Law No. 1 governing junk cars in the town. The law will go into effect 30 days after approval by the town board and violators will receive notices from the town clerk.

A communication was received from the Rosendale Fire Department concerning fire protection in east and west districts. Councilman Karl Strobel was named to study the matter in cooperation with the fire department. The High Falls Fire Company which has supplied protection to the west district at no charge for the past three months will stop service as of Sept. 15. The area will still have protection under the mutual aid arrangement, however, Supervisor Gerard DeFelice said.

Crossing Guard

Frank Arnold was named crossing guard at the Tillson School, replacing Elias Sheeley who resigned this week due to ill health.

Plans are underway to add rest room facilities at the community building in Maple Hill. Study is being made to provide a recreation area at the community building site where the two acres of land could be used for swings, picnic tables and the like.

It was decided to replace signs marking the entrance to the Town of Rosendale and prices are being investigated.

DWI Charged

A Fairmont Avenue man, charged with driving while intoxicated, was released in the custody of his lawyer following a traffic mishap Wednesday night, Kingston Police reported this morning.

Accused of driving while intoxicated is Raymond J. Hrbek of 92 A. Fairmont Avenue. He was arrested around 9:32 p. m. after the car he was operating collided with a parked vehicle along Lucas Avenue.

Police said Hrbek collided with an auto registered to Helen Louise Herbert of 130 Lucas Avenue. He is slated to appear in City Court today.

MOUNT POCONO, Pa. (AP) — Mrs. Mayme Kemp, 74, and her daughter Doris, 43, both of Waukegan, N.Y., were killed when their automobile crashed off the side of Pennsylvania 191 and hit a tree. State Police said Miss Kemp was driving the auto when the accident occurred Wednesday near the village of Cresco, nine miles northeast of here.

Sandburg Memorial Gay Just as He Wanted It

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — It was said Tallulah Bankhead downing a bourbon, "just the kind of memorial evening Carl Sandburg would have wanted, gay and no crying."

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, and writer Harry Golden agreed, but there was more of tears than laughter in their voices as they joined 200 other friends in honoring the late poet, biographer and historian Wednesday night at the Overseas Press Club.

"I'll be seeing you," sang Tallulah in her fathom-deep voice, "in all the old familiar places and places that dominated the evening as Sandburg's friends reminisced."

"We're just talking about him as he lives on in the memories of his oldest and dearest friends," said Whit Burnett, editor and publisher, who organized the tribute. Sandburg died July 21 at the age of 80. Soviet specialist Isaac Don Levine brought a never-before-published poem of Sandburg's, written in 1920 for colleagues on the Chicago Daily News who were about to depart.

Levine recalled that Sandburg wrote the untitled poem for him, playwright Ben Hecht, book critic Harry Hansen and Henry Blackman, who was leaving Chicago to take over as editor of Harper's Bazaar.

Levine was leaving for Russia and Sell for New York with a stopover in Palm Beach. Hansen—the only other of the five men left alive—Hecht and Sandburg were staying behind.

The poem begins: Let the four winds blow. They will have us, have us all. The four wild winds. One of us goes to Palm Beach. Another one goes to Siberia. Three of us hang by an eyelash to Chicago. And the winds, the four winds, will blow.

The Kennedy Mistake Is Still in

new core area, the scene of recent racial disturbances, someone answered, "Oh, about 12 to 15 per cent."

A Questionable Squirrel "It must be more than that," Kennedy said.

Officials looked around at one another.

One man offered, "Yeah, it's much more than that. Close to 40 per cent."

Asking about the size of a park that looked enormous on a cardboard platform, Kennedy was told, "75 by 170 feet."

The Senator squinted question-

"Like His Brother" At 10:10 a. m. the Senator's party, along with city officials, were out on the street again.

One woman said, "He looks like his brother."

She was answered by a man who observed, "He looks like one of Dr. Leary's customers."

Kennedy was in an open Cadillac convertible now and everyone recognized him. There was hand waving, children crying.

"It's Kennedy, it's Kennedy," women screaming "Bobby, Bobby," and teen age girls keeping up and down cheering, "He looked at me."

Stopping at the office of the Poughkeepsie Opportunity Center, in the heart of the Negro section, the Senator was greeted with a line of pickets holding placards which read: "Senator Kennedy, what's happening to Head Start in Poughkeepsie?"

"Don't stop here," and "Don't stop for unfair prices."

Poughkeepsie Plans Inside the Opportunity Center, RFK was hit with more plans for the future and teased with the idea of the great potential that exists in Poughkeepsie.

But the Senator wanted to know about job opportunities and he did not appear to be satisfied with the answers.

Outside, the picketers were protesting about typical ghetto area prices in the food stores. "A pound of coffee is $1.10," a man said, "and the city average is .85. Butter is $1.20 a pound and the average is .80."

When Kennedy left the Opportunity Center, a young Negro activist, Richard Irving, approached the Senator and asked him to see a "typical" lower Main Street apartment.

Kennedy agreed, and in a few minutes Kennedy, city officials, and pressmen were treated to one of the more uncomfortable sights of the ghetto.

Squeezed into one small room with exposed wiring, peeling walls and a light switch that produced an exquisite electric shock for the unaware, were cameras, microphones, the Senator and his aides, Poughkeepsie officials, pressmen, Mrs. Eshkol Hill, the woman who lived in the hotel, her three children, along with a relative and her baby.

Later, Kennedy talked to Poughkeepsie's officials on the possibility of court action against the landlord, but all the officials could say was that such actions were difficult and that if the landlord was pushed, he could close down his apartments and evict the tenants.

The Speech

The tour brought the Senator into St. Francis Hospital at 11:45 a. m. to meet shy and wide-eyed nurses and beaming interns.

Visits Newspaper At 12:10, Kennedy stopped at the offices of the Poughkeepsie Journal where everyone lined up for pictures.

At 12:50 the Senator was at Hellenic Center to deliver his speech to a combined Rotary-Kiwanis meet. He was greeted by the yells of children and two right-wing pickets with placards exclaiming, "Kennedy for dogcatcher," and "Hanoi loves RFK."

The Senator looked at the two and smiled in Poughkeepsie fashion—without much passion for the task.

The speech dealt with the decline of the cities ("As the agricultural revolution has freed large areas of land for nonfarm use, we have indiscriminately devoured it—for endless miles of garish, neon-lit roadside shops and cafes, for sprawling suburban developments which scar the landscape.") the failure of U. S. foreign policy ("We built a foreign policy on the rhetoric of anti-Communism—and found ourselves trapped by that rhetoric when the Communist monolith began to crumble") the Vietnam War ("... we spend three million dollars every hour... we do not seem to know how we came to a war of this breadth... nor did we see that this commitment abroad would drain us of resources so vitally needed at home.") and the unfair tax structure ("Today, because of the gaps in our tax structure, the wealthiest of our citizens—those who earn more than $200,000 annually—pay an average of only 27 per cent in taxes...").

World Stop Bombing "I would stop the bombing (of North Vietnam) and go to the negotiating table with the North Vietnamese," the Senator said, and he added that he would negotiate with the National Liberation Front (NLF), the political arm of the Viet Cong.

During the question and answer period later, Kennedy demonstrated his passion in explaining his positions.

He wanted people to know that he was not just making another speech, he wanted everybody to know that he was involved, concerned, he was committed.

It appeared later that the people were impressed with the man, and his remarks.

"He made a definite stand on Vietnam, he stated his opinion and you got to give him credit on that," one man said.

"I agreed with his stand on taxation," said another.

"He's still one of the top politicians," added another, "and I'm a Republican."

After signing the autographs of at least a dozen children, Kennedy got into a Cadillac sedan this time, waved to the "crowds," said almost timidly "Goodbye now," and was off.

It was a long time before the grounds around the Hellenic Center were cleared. Many people had to share their impressions with others.

Coast's Battle Of Forest Fires In Mop Up Stage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

An end to the Northwest's siege of timber blazes appeared in sight today as a break in summer weather gave fire fighters their first big advantage in weeks.

The remaining trouble spots—North Idaho and British Columbia—were expecting only light breezes and temperatures in the 70s and low 80s, the U.S. Weather Bureau said.

Elsewhere in the vast forest areas from the Pacific to Montana, mop up operations were under way.

A Pacific front which moved across the region Wednesday night brought an apparent end to a month of 80- to 100-degree readings.

Damage estimates—though still unofficial—ran as high as 350,000 acres for the summer. In western Canada—where officials say 200,000 acres have been blackened—a second mile Pacific front was reported en route.

In Oregon and Washington, most of the forest lands closed last week were being reopened.

Civil Service Employees Seek 20 Pct. Wage Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — The State Civil Service Employees Association, representing 132,000 state employees, will seek a wage and benefits package amounting to more than $150 million.

Association delegates met Wednesday to outline their demands, which include a 20 per cent across-the-board wage hike for all state workers, with a minimum of $1,000 per employee.

Another resolution called for legislation which would provide $150 per employee per year for establishment of a welfare fund. The cost of the salary increase would be $132 million. The cost of the welfare provision was set at $19.8 million.

The special association meeting was called in line with the new Public Employees' Fair Employment Act, under which an adequate negotiating period is necessary before the date of submission of the state budget.

A negotiating team of association members will meet with a panel to be named by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller to deal with the union's proposals.

Methodists Plan to Invest In Apartments

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — When Dallas Methodists decided they couldn't get enough apartment dwellers into church, they decided to get into apartments—about $1 million worth.

Methodist officials said Wednesday they plan to build a no profit apartment complex so that the church will be "working from the inside out rather than from the outside in."

In the 75-unit complex, the Rev. John Rasmussen Jr., of suburban Mesquite will be pastor. He said residents other than Methodists will be welcomed to the apartment complex which will include a parsonage, a church, a swimming pool and possibly a beauty shop.

The project, the Rev. Mr. Rasmussen explained is a pilot effort to show the way to deal with the problem of getting apartment residents interested in religion.

Rentals will be about the same as for other apartments, Methodist officials said, and they emphasized the project could not be styled "low-rent."

Methodist Bishop W. Kenneth Pope and the Rev. Earl Harvey, both of Dallas, were among Methodist leaders suggesting the new project.

Probably to be completed within a year, the project will have the support of various Methodist agencies and boards, the pastor said.

Some Buildings Saved

Flames Sweep Walkkill Barns

Flames fanned by a strong northwest wind swept through two large barns and a good-sized shed on the farm of Mrs. Philip McCord, Plains Road, Walkkill, but firemen from four communities saved the main farmhouse and three other buildings.

No Less Estimate
Mrs. McCord said this morning that she could give no estimate of the loss. She said the largest barn was empty, with the exception of some apple crates. Livestock and farm equipment had been sold at auction after the death of her husband, she said.

A passing motorist discovered the fire at about 4:30 p. m. He ran to the farmhouse and told Mrs. McCord and Walkkill fire units were called. They made a fast run to the farm in command of Chief Robert Roeder, and calls through mutual aid made immediately were answered by fire companies from

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Japanese Prime Minister Eisaku Sato arrived in Taipei today for a 44-hour goodwill visit branded by Peking as a hostile act against Red China.

There were fears in Tokyo that Red China retaliate by restricting trade relations with Japan. Some Japanese newspapers cautioned Sato not to give the impression that Japan was joining the anti-Communist campaign against Peking.

The chief noted there were about 1,000 bales of straw in one of the barns. He said firemen saved a tractor and other farm equipment in the other buildings. Water was pumped from a nearby pond.

Mrs. McCord highly praised the work of the firefighters from Walkkill and the neighboring communities.

The cause of the fire was not determined. Outside fire companies were back in service before 7 p. m. Walkkill volunteers stayed at the farm wetting down the debris because of the closeness of the burned buildings to the farmhouse and other frame structures. The Walkkill units were back in service shortly after midnight today.

Shelling Resumes Across Suez Canal

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
hammed A. El-Kony wrote the president of the Security Council that two Israeli motorboats and a tug tried "to force their passage through the canal at the Suez entrance." He said the boats continued despite a warning and "simultaneously opened fire on our positions at Port Taufiq."

An Israeli spokesman accused the Egyptians of firing first toward Israeli-held positions in the Ismailia area, midway along the canal. He said the Israelis suffered no casualties. There was no immediate counter claim from Cairo.

Egyptian and Israeli forces fought for seven hours across the canal Monday, and Egyptian authorities claimed that the Israeli shelling of the Red Sea port of Suez killed 44 civilians and wounded 170, wrecked 40 homes and damaged many more.

That battle was followed by an exchange of fire across the canal Tuesday night and by a duel between Jordanian and Israeli forces across the Jordan River Tuesday.

At the United Nations, Egypt blamed Israel for triggering Monday's naval and artillery battle despite a report from a team of U.N. truce observers that the Egyptians shot first.

Lt. Gen. Odd Bull of Norway, chief of staff of the U.N. Truce Supervision Organization in the Middle East, reported that Egypt started the fighting with fire directed at an Israeli motorboat. Foreign newsmen toured Suez, a city of 200,000 people, and found wailing women huddled around the wreckage of their homes. An elderly woman moaned, "I lost four of my children."

Israeli Prime Minister Levi Eshkol said Israel, which captured almost all of Egypt east of the canal in the June 5-10 war, would not budge from the occupied territories as long as the Arabs held to their Khartoum summit position of no direct negotiations with the Jewish nation.

The Jordanian newspaper Al Difa said the Arab states were working on a plan to be submitted to the U.N. General Assembly by Sept. 19 that would "remove the consequences" of the six-day war with Israel.

3 Girls Slain, Seek Young Man

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — Three young girls were slain today, and a former suitor of another girl who escaped was charged with three counts of murder.

Police Chief Fred Hammock said three warrants were issued for Edward Albert Siebold, 21, a former Auburn University student who once dated an older sister of two of the slain girls. He was not apprehended immediately.

The victims were identified as Mary Lynn Sinclair, 9; her sister, Sarah Elizabeth Sinclair, 18, and Mary Dugan, 18. Police said Mrs. Juanita Sinclair, about 40, a widow and the mother of two of the victims, was wounded.

Officers said two other Sinclair sisters, Kathy, 20, and Faye, a teen-ager, were in the house but escaped. The killings occurred at the family's two-story home in downtown Auburn.

Police said Kathy had once dated Siebold. They said also that Siebold was once put under a peace bond to stay away from the Sinclair residence.

By STANLEY JOHNSON

NEW YORK (AP) — It was said Tallulah Bankhead downing a bourbon, "just the kind of memorial evening Carl Sandburg would have wanted, gay and no crying."

Fannie Hurst, the novelist, and writer Harry Golden agreed, but there was more of tears than laughter in their voices as they joined 200 other friends in honoring the late poet, biographer and historian Wednesday night at the Overseas Press Club.

"I'll be seeing you," Tallulah in her fathom-deep voice, "in all the old familiar places. . . and it was the old familiar things and places that dominated the evening as Sandburg's friends reminisced."

"We're just talking about him as he lives on in the memories of his oldest and dearest friends," said Whit Burnett, editor and publisher, who organized the tribute. Sandburg died July 21 at the age of 80.

Soviet specialist Isaac Don Levine brought a never-before-published poem of Sandburg's, written in 1920 for colleagues on the Chicago Daily News who were about to depart.

Levine recalled that Sandburg wrote the untitled poem for him, playwright Ben Hecht, book critic Harry Hansen and Henry Blackman Sell, who was leaving Chicago to take over as editor of Harper's Bazaar.

Levine was leaving for Russia and Sell for New York with a stopover in Palm Beach. Hansen—the only other of the five men left alive—Hecht and Sandburg were staying behind.

The poem begins: Let the four winds blow. They will have us, have us all. The four wild winds. One of us goes to Palm Beach. Another one goes to Siberia. Three of us hang by an eyelash to Chicago. And the winds, the four winds, will blow.

The Kennedy Mystique Is Still in

A Questionable Squire
"It must be more than that," Kennedy said. Officials looked around at one another.

One man offered, "Yeah, it's much more than that. Close to 40 per cent."

Asking about the size of a mark that looked enormous on a cardboard platform, Kennedy was told, "75 by 170 feet."

The Senator squinted questionably. "Like his brother?"

At 10:10 a. m. the Senator's party, along with city officials, were out on the street again. One woman said, "He looks like his brother."

She was answered by a man who observed, "He looks like one of Dr. Leary's customers."

Kennedy was in an open Cadillac convertible now and everyone recognized him. There was hand waving, children crying, "It's Kennedy, it's Kennedy," women screaming "Bobby, Bobby," and teen age girls leaping up and down exclaiming, "He looked at me."

Stopping at the office of the Poughkeepsie Opportunity Center, in the heart of the Negro section, the Senator was greeted with a line of pickets holding placards which read: "Senator Kennedy, what's happening to Head Start in Poughkeepsie? Don't stop here, and Don't stop for unfair prices."

Inside the Opportunity Center, RFK was hit with more plans for the future and teased with the idea of the great potential that exists in Poughkeepsie.

But the Senator wanted to know about job opportunities and he did not appear to be satisfied with the answers.

Outside, the picketers were protesting about typical ghetto area prices in the food stores. "A pound of coffee is $1.16," a man said, "and the city average is .85. Butter is $1.29 a pound and the average is .80."

When Kennedy left the Opportunity Center, a young Negro activist, Richard Irving, approached the Senator and asked him to see a "typical" lower Main Street apartment.

Kennedy agreed, and in a few minutes Kennedy, city officials, and pressmen were treated to one of the more uncomfortable sights of the ghetto.

Squeezed into one small room with exposed wiring, peeling walls and a light switch that produced an exquisite electric shock for the unaware, were cameras, microphones, the Senator and his aides, Poughkeepsie officials, pressmen, Mrs. Essie Hill, the woman who lived in the hotel, her three children, along with a relative and her baby.

Later, Kennedy talked to Poughkeepsie's officials on the possibility of court action against the landlord, but all the officials could say was that such actions were difficult and that if the landlord was pushed, he could close down his apartments and evict the tenants.

The Speech
The tour brought the Senator into St. Francis Hospital at 11:45 a. m. to meet shy and wide-eyed nurses and beaming interns.

Visits Newspaper
At 12:10, Kennedy stopped at the offices of the Poughkeepsie Journal where everyone lined up for pictures.

At 12:50 the Senator was at Hellenic Center to deliver his speech to a combined Rotary-Kiwanis meet. He was greeted by the yells of children and two right-wing pickets with placards exclaiming, "Kennedy for dogcatcher," and "Hanoi loves RFK."

The Senator looked at the two and smiled in Poughkeepsie Journal fashion — without much passion for the task.

The speech dealt with the decline of the cities ("As the agricultural revolution has freed large areas of land for nonfarm use, we have indiscriminately devoured it — for endless miles of garish, neon-lit roadside shops and cafes, for sprawling suburban developments which scar the landscape," the failure of U. S. foreign policy ("We built a foreign policy on the rhetoric of anti-Communism — and found ourselves trapped by that rhetoric when the communist monolith began to crumble") the Vietnam War ("... we spend three million dollars every hour . . . we do

Allstate Reports Business Growth On Anniversary

The Allstate Life operations, launched in a single state in 1937, celebrated its tenth anniversary Tuesday in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Canada with more than $5 billion 675 million worth of insurance in force.

Allstate sold its first life policy to the Dale Huddleston family of Newton, Ill., September 3, 1957. Since then, the company has established one of the most spectacular growth records in the history of the life insurance business.

Allstate broke all existing production records by surpassing the billion dollar in force mark for individual and group insurance 17 months after entering the field. It surpassed the historic one billion dollar level of individual policyholder's insurance, in force just six years after its founding, a record which has been unequalled in the history of the life insurance business.

Today, Allstate's life operation stands among the top 2 per cent of more than 1,700 U. S. legal reserve life insurance companies, ranking 28th at the end of 1966 with total insurance in force of $5 billion 175 million. This fine ranking of the Allstate Life operations is a testimonial to the hard driving marketing operation behind Allstate which will in the 10th year of operation produce an excess of $1 billion of new individual life insurance. Only 17 companies in the U. S. equalled this production in 1966.

Of the $5 billion 675 million total life insurance in force on its tenth anniversary, $2 billion 725 million represents insurance on individuals and $2 billion 950 million represents group insurance.

"An even more intensive marketing program is being developed to expand life insurance sales in the years ahead," Allstate's Chairman Judson B. Branch said. "The public's need for life insurance is still very great. For example, while most men will insure their cars for full value, they insure themselves for only a small fraction of their actual earning value to their families."

Allstate offers a full range of life contracts, including policies guaranteeing money for college education, for retirement, or to help pay off the mortgage in event of death.

The Allstate Life Insurance Company is a subsidiary of Allstate Insurance Company, which is wholly owned by Sears, Roebuck and Co. Allstate's agents offer Allstate Insurance for the auto, family, home and business.

Avnet Earnings, Sales Show Gain

Assuming the acquisition of Channel Master Corporation is completed, record sales and earnings were achieved by Avnet, Inc. for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1967, reported Lester Avnet, president and chairman of the Board.

Net sales for fiscal 1967 were $146,378,933, as compared to $132,303,097 for fiscal 1966, an increase of 11 per cent. Earnings rose to $9,358,334, or $2.33 per share, on 3,472,939 average number of common shares during the year ending on June 30, 1967, as compared to last year's earnings of $7,698,204 or $1.87 per share on 3,435,450 average number of common shares during the year ending June 30, 1966, a rise of 22 per cent.

Avnet indicated that the posting of record earnings per share were "especially significant in view of the fact that in fiscal 1967, stock dividends of 7 per cent were paid, and there was an additional dilution of 2 per cent through exercising of stock options."

The company's Shaw Process scored notable advances. IBM became a full production licensee for its Rochester, Minnesota plant. The Boeing Company and its major subcontractors for the supersonic transport program became research licensees, as did Grumman for the F-111 program. A third, General Electric plant, in Johnson City, N. Y., became a Shaw licensee.

Avnet reported on the company's performance for fiscal 1967 at a special meeting held today at which Avnet, Inc. shareholders voted in favor of the acquisition of Channel Master Corporation. This followed receipt of a favorable tax ruling by the Treasury Department.

Channel Master Corporation's business will be continued under its well-established name as the Electronics Manufacturing Division of Avnet, Inc. Harry Resnick, president of Channel Master Corporation, will be a senior vice president of Avnet, Inc. in charge of this new fourth division.

"We consider this acquisition to be the most significant in the history of the company," said Avnet, "for it will make Avnet, Inc. the largest manufacturer and marketer of outdoor television antennas and accessories, as well as an important factor in consumer electronic products such as black-and-white and color picture tubes, transistor radios, tape recorders and other electronic products. Further, Avnet will be a leading designer, manufacturer and marketer of Master Antenna Television Systems (MATV), a field expected to expand."

NOTE: Comparative figures for 1966 have been restated to include the operating results of companies acquired during the year, including Channel Master Corporation, as poolings of interests.

Effect of Social Security Tax on Employers

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chances are most workers know their Social Security tax is withheld. The tax makes a noticeable dent in the paycheck—and the family budget.

But what about the matching tax paid by employers—and its effects? Is it passed on the consumers in the cost of goods? Does it affect management decisions about hiring, or buying machinery that could substitute for men? Is it approaching a limit beyond which it cannot be raised without damaging the economy?

No one seems to know for sure, conclude specialists who reported to the Senate-House Economic Committee on Social Security and a variety of other "Federal Programs for the Development of Human Resources."

The information in the report was compiled last year, after the inauguration of Medicare had caused an increase in payroll tax. The subject is again very much alive, now that the House has passed and a Senate committee is considering Social Security benefit increases that would again raise the tax on employers and employees—a maximum of $44 each next year, more later.

"No clear consensus has emerged as to the effect of the employer portion of the payroll tax," the committee study said.

"This constitutes a nearly universal cost of doing business in the United States. It might therefore be considered an encouragement to employers to introduce labor saving machinery (but) there is little tangible evidence that the tax has had this effect."

The compilers noted some producers may be able to pass the tax along in prices, and therefore have not had to come to grips with its effect.

It presumably will be more difficult to pass on the tax as it increases. Even if the new Social Security bill were not to pass, the tax—now 4.4 per cent each on employers and employees—would increase by stages to 5.65 per cent in 1973. This is on a wage base of $6,600. The House-passed bill would increase the tax ultimately to 5.9 per cent on a base of $7,600.

For years, a theory was prevalent among some high Social Security officials that a payroll tax might become a dangerous economic drag if it exceeded 5 per cent each on employers and employees.

But Congress, when it provided for financing of medicare, set up a tax increase schedule that would pierce that ceiling by 1973. Under the new Social Security bill, the breakthrough would come in 1971, with a rate of 5.2 per cent.

Three Senior Girl Scouts Accorded Special Honors

Special honors were given the three Ulster County Senior Girl Scouts who attended the International Adventuring in the Arts Encampment held recently at Camp Addison Boyce, at Tompkins Cove, Rockland County.

The three girls selected by the local Council to attend were Pat Shekita, Wittenberg; Cathy Fisher, Glenford; Kathy Hatt, Lake Katrine. All are active members of Senior troops in the Ulster County Council area. Pat Shekita had the honor of being selected president of the Camp Council, which was made up of representatives of each of the 13 Scout Troops of New City. After supper that night they had a camp meeting to become acquainted with the camp directors and advisors. They discussed the purpose of the encampment, and the theme, Values to Hold, Worlds to Explore. This was followed by a song fest, the first of many throughout the 10 days.

During the two-week encampment, several hikes were taken, including a backpacking hike up West Mountain, and a three mile hike to Stony Point Battlefield. A day was also spent at West Point and the Cantonment at New Windsor, a replica of the American Revolutionary days. On Visitor's taken of activities in each unit, and of the staff.

In keeping with the theme, International Adventuring in the Arts, each patrol was asked to contribute to the program by songs, dances or dramatic presentation based on a culture of a foreign country or ethnic group. The local girls chose the Hudson Valley Indians as their theme, and prepared costumes, a skit and songs to take to camp. Their skit was selected to be presented on five different occasions.

At the start of the encampment, the girls were "piped in" by the Scottish Pipers of a Boy Scout Troop of New City. After supper that night they had a camp meeting to become acquainted with the camp directors and advisors. They discussed the purpose of the encampment, and the theme, Values to Hold, Worlds to Explore. This was followed by a song fest, the first of many throughout the 10 days.

Allstate Reports Business Growth On Anniversary

The Allstate Life operations, launched in a single state in 1957, celebrated its tenth anniversary Tuesday in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and Canada with more than $5 billion 675 million worth of insurance in force.

Allstate sold its first life policy to the Dale Huddleston family of Newton, Ill., September 3, 1957. Since then, the company has established one of the most spectacular growth records in the history of the life insurance business.

Allstate broke all existing production records by surpassing the billion dollar in force mark for individual and group insurance 17 months after entering the field. It surpassed the historic one billion dollar level of individual policyholder's insurance, in force just six years after its founding, a record which has been unequalled in the history of the life insurance business.

Today, Allstate's life operation stands among the top 2 per cent of more than 1,700 U. This fine ranking of the Allstate Life operations is a testimonial to the hard driving marketing operation behind Allstate which will in the 10th year of operation produce in excess of $1 billion of new individual life insurance. Only 17 companies in the U. S. equalled this production in 1966.

Of the $5 billion 675 million total life insurance in force on its tenth anniversary, $2 billion 725 million represents insurance on individuals and $2 billion 950 million represents group insurance.

great. For example, while most men will insure their cars for full value, they insure themselves for only a small fraction of their actual earning value to their families."

Allstate offers a full range of life contracts, including policies guaranteeing money for college education, for retire-

All are active members of Senior troops in the Ulster County Council area. Pat Shekita had the honor of being selected president of the Camp Council, which was made up of representatives of each of the 13 patrols in the encampment.

The regional encampment was in a primitive setting, where the girls lived in Roundup tents, cooked their meals over fires and joined with other patrols in camp and unit activities such as swimming and hiking. One hundred girls representing 16 councils in New York, New Jersey and Puerto Rico attended the event.

The Ulster County girls, in a patrol with Senior Scouts from Camden, N. J., had the honor of writing the camp song, which was chosen to be recorded and made available in record form for all the girls to purchase. Motion pictures were taken of activities in each unit, and of the staff.

In keeping with the theme, International Adventuring in the Arts, each patrol was asked to contribute to the program by songs, dances or dramatic presentation based on a culture of a foreign country or ethnic group. Lutheran Church Lists Activity

Activities and services at Atonement Lutheran Church, Market Street, Saugerties were announced this week by the Rev. Walter Cowen, pastor.

Rally Sunday will be observed Sunday at Atonement Sunday school and church. Books will be distributed and pupils assigned to their classes. New pupils will be registered. Two services Sundays will be resumed at 8 and 11 a.m. Senior choir will be in attendance, and the regular fall and winter schedule organizations will be in operation.

Luther League will hold its first meeting Sunday at 7 p.m. The group will be directed by Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey Buchle, Market Street.

The Rev. Walter Cowen, will be liturgist at the installation of the Reverend Helmut Deitrich as pastor of First Lutheran Church, Mill Street, Poughkeepsie Sunday at 4 p.m.

Tuesday, Sept. 12 at 7:30 p.m. a special meeting of the budget committee will be held at the church to prepare a budget for presentation to the congregation.

Plans will be made for the presentation of the needs of the congregation to the congregation in October, through the budget, information mailed to the membership, and talks by members of the church council to the congregation at four Sunday services. Visitation this year will be made on families not in attendance during the October Loyalty and Inspiration Sundays. Erwin Tate, council president will be in charge of the program.

Thursday, Sept. 13 at 8 p.m. Lutheran Church Women of Atonement will have their first fall meeting. Mrs. Harry Olson of Austin Avenue, president will conduct the meeting. Mrs. David Hildebrandt Jr., Simmons Street, will have the topic, Parents on the Run, by Margaret Beecher. Mrs. William Goetz Jr., Mt. Marion, Mrs. J. Henry Schmidt of West Saugerties, Mrs. Carl Baus of Blue Mountain will be on the refreshment committee. Mrs. Donald Gentner of Elm Street will lead in the devotions.

Tuesday, Sept. 19 at 7 p.m. the postponed meeting of the church council will be conducted. The pastor will present the first chapter of The Lutheran Manifesto, a statement of the church's function and purpose for study. Matters coming up for consideration will be renewing the porch and rear roofs of the parsonage, plans for presentation of the needs of the parish to the membership, observance of the 450th Anniversary of the Lutheran Reformation.

Sunday, Sept. 24 after the 8 and 11 a.m. services there will be registration for confirmation classes, both junior and senior.

Lutheran Church Women of the Metropolitan New York Synod will hold its convention at St. John's Lutheran Church, Poughkeepsie, Friday and Saturday, Sept. 29, 30. Convention will bring together representatives of this official women's group of the Lutheran Church in America from some 250 congregations of New York State from West Camp and below.

Ticket Sales Brisk for GOP Annual Picnic

A brisk advance ticket sale indicates that a record number will attend the second annual picnic of Saugerties Republican Club slated 1 p.m. at Cantine Field on Sunday, Sept. 17.

General Chairman Paul Pavovich has announced that county officials led by County GOP Chairman Judge John B. Sterley will be in attendance. It was also announced that efforts are being made to obtain the services of a leading state official for the day. A definite announcement will be made once plans have been finalized.

Those attending will have an opportunity to meet Republican candidates for the County Legislature as well as those seeking office on the town level.

Louis Francello, Saugerties GOP chairman will act as master of ceremonies for the day. Speeches will not be allowed and introductions in a formal program will be kept to an absolute minimum. The idea is to have all enjoy themselves and a program is being planned. The Musical Monarchs will lead the entertainment part of the program.

Tickets are still available through any member of the Republican Club or town committeeman. The prospects of a banner crowd should not deter anyone from attending. Food and refreshments will be in abundance regardless of the numbers.

Synagogue News

Ahavath Israel

Seeks Second Term as JOP In Rosendale

While nearing the close of his first four-year term as Town of Rosendale justice of the peace, Daniel J. McMonagle today announced he will seek nomination at the Republican Caucus Saturday night for another term.

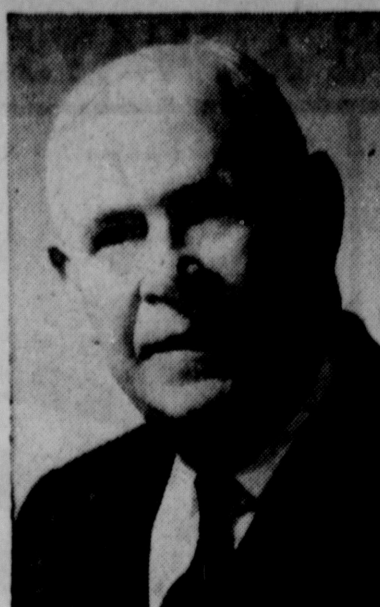

The caucus is planned for 8 p.m. Sept. 9 at the Rosendale Grange Hall.

Nominations will be made for town supervisor, councilman, one justice of the peace, two assessors, a town clerk and a tax collector.

McMonagle, who had been frequently mentioned as a potential candidate for town supervisor, said he had withdrawn as a candidate and will seek the party support for justice of the peace. He is a practicing attorney for more than 18 years and has resided in Tillson with his wife and four daughters for more than 10 years. His daughters each have three children.

McMonagle attended the College of the City of New York and is a graduate of St. John's University School of Law. A member of the Ulster County Bar Association he is counsel to the Tillson Fire District Commissioners and Tillson Fire Company.

A veteran of World War I having served in the U.S. Marine Corps, he is a past commander of Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219, American Legion, and past judge advocate of Ulster County American Legion. He is quartermaster of the Pangburn-McBroom Barracks 164, Veterans of World War I of U.S.A., and legislative chairman in the Department of New York. He has served as judge advocate of that organization the last four years.

DANIEL J. McMONAGLE

A member of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, he is vice president of the Civil Service Employees Association of the county. He had been with the County Welfare Department for six years. McMonagle said that by the close of the term as justice of the peace he expects receipts for the Town of Rosendale in his office will total $15,000.

Two Executed

TOKYO (AP)—Two "counter-revolutionary" supporters of Chinese President Liu Shao-chi were sentenced to death and executed publicly before cheering thousands in Shanghai Aug. 28, according to a Shanghai Radio report received in Tokyo today.

The broadcast said the victims were two of eight anti-Maoists tried before more than 10,000 persons in the big port city. They were Shan Shung-lin, described as a counter-revolutionary, and Liu Yung-ching, a "counterrevolutionary killer."

It was the first officially circulated report of an execution of anti-Maoists since Mao's purge began in June 1966. He calls the purge the great proletarian cultural revolution.

Wyoming's game population includes 10,000 black bears and only 80 of the rapidly disappearing grizzly bears, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Seeks Second Term as JOP In Rosendale

While nearing the close of his first four-year term as Town of Rosendale justice of the peace, Daniel J. McMonagle today announced he will seek nomination at the Republican Caucus Saturday night for another term.

The caucus is planned for 8 p.m. Sept. 9 at the Rosendale Grange Hall.

Nominations will be made for town supervisor, councilman, one justice of the peace, two assessors, a town clerk and a tax collector.

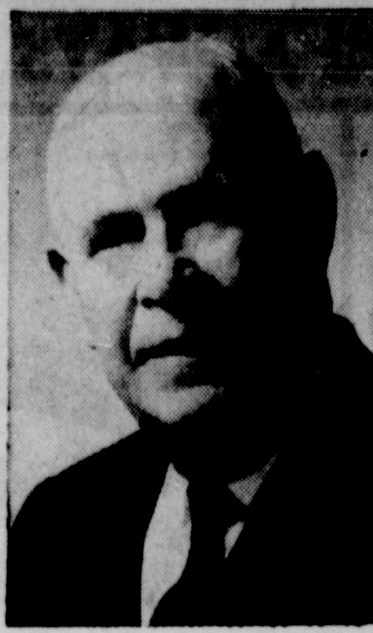

McMonagle, who had been frequently mentioned as a potential candidate for town supervisor, said he had withdrawn as a candidate and will seek the party support for justice of the peace. He is a practicing attorney for more than 18 years and has resided in Tillson with his wife and four daughters for more than 10 years. His daughters each have three children.

McMonagle attended the College of the City of New York, Rosendale, he is vice president of the City of St. John's University School of Law. A member of the Ulster County Bar Association he is counsel to the Tillson Fire District Commissioners and Tillson Fire Company.

A veteran of World War I for having served in the U.S. Marine Corps, he is a past commander of Rosendale-Tillson Post 1219, American Legion, and past judge advocate of Ulster County American Legion. He is quartermaster of the Pangburn-McBroom Barracks 164, Veterans of World War I of U.S.A., and legislative chairman in the Department of New York. He has served as judge advocate of that organization the last four years.

A member of the Holy Name Society of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, he is vice president of the Civil Service Employees Association of the county. He had been with the County Welfare Department for six years.

McMonagle said that by the close of the term as justice of the peace he expects receipts of his office will total $15,000.

Two Executed

TOKYO (AP)—Two "counter-revolutionary" supporters of Chinese President Liu Shao-chi were sentenced to death and executed publicly before cheering thousands in Shanghai Aug. 28, according to a Shanghai Radio report received in Tokyo today.

The broadcast said the victims were two of eight anti-Maoists tried before more than 10,000 persons in the big port city. They were Shan Shung-lin, described as a counterrevolutionary, and Liu Yung-ching, a "counterrevolutionary killer."

It was the first official report of an execution of anti-Maoists since Mao's purge began in June 1966. He calls the purge the great proletarian cultural revolution.

Wyoming's game population includes 10,000 black bears and only 80 of the rapidly disappearing grizzly bears, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

As Voting Age

GOP Pressing for 20

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Republicans were prepared for a last-ditch effort in the Constitutional Convention today to drop New York State's voting age to at least 20 — and perhaps as low as 19.

Ranking GOP figures drafted amendments to that effect as the convention turned again to a proposed new article on voting rights.

When the suffrage article originally was brought to a vote, in mid-July, it contained a provision that would reduce the voting age from 21 to 18. But it was amended on the floor to transfer the ultimate decision to the Legislature.

Some Misgivings
Later, rank-and-file delegates in both the Republican minority and Democratic majority expressed misgivings about their decision to pass the responsibility to the Legislature.

At the time, Republicans indicated they would try again to mandate a lower voting age, when the article was brought back for final approval, the procedure for all propositions before the convention.

Republican Vice President Perry B. Duryea Jr. said Wednesday he would press for a voting age of 20. Bernard L. Burton, GOP vice chairman of the Committee on Bill of Rights and Suffrage, said he would try for 19. Prospects for approval of either amendment were uncertain.

On Today's Agenda

The suffrage article and an article spelling out the powers and functions of the Legislature were the first to be returned for final approval by the convention, at today's session.

In another development, Gov. Rockefeller sent a special message urging the convention to provide authority for the state government to assist struggling businesses in blighted "inner core" areas of the state's cities. He said the state should be empowered to guarantee loans by private investors to "moderate-sized" businesses and, if necessary, to act as co-lenders on such loans.

Would Drop Literacy

Among other things, the suffrage article would drop all literacy requirements as a qualification for voting in elections in this state. The change was made to conform with recent court decisions striking down such restrictions.

Public Works Employees Die As Trucks Hit

MALONE, N.Y. (AP) — Albert Bishop, 65, of Malone, and Michael Burke, 62, of nearby Constable, were killed Wednesday when two State Department of Public Works trucks collided on Route 37 northwest of this northern New York village.

State police said the truck in which Bishop and Burke were riding veered off the highway and struck a tree. Both were employees of the Public Works Department.

RR Man Killed

BIG FLATS, N.Y. (AP) — Philip Benson, 60, of Lanesboro, Pa., was killed and another man seriously injured when struck by an Erie-Lackawanna train Wednesday as they fastened ties in this community near Elmira.

The injured man, Edward Dickenson, 60, of Susquehanna, Pa., was taken to Arnot-Ogden hospital in Elmira.

The men were employed in maintenance and fastening ties inside an overpass, state police said.

Dies of Injuries

CORNWALL, Ont. (AP) — Miss Mae White, 22, of nearby Cornwall Island, died Tuesday in Hotel Dieu Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday in the collision of three cars that killed two other persons.

The crash near Massena, N.Y., across the St. Lawrence River from here, took the lives of Morris E. Benedict and Abraham C. Lazore Jr., both of Cornwall Island.

ALFRED B. LEWIS

NAACP Lists Speaker for Fall Meeting

The Ulster County Branch, National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will hold a membership mass meeting Sunday, Oct. 8, at 7 p. m., in the New Central Baptist Church.

Alfred Baker Lewis, national treasurer, will be guest speaker. Lewis of Greenwich, Conn., has been a member of the NAACP for 42 years, a member of the board of directors for 25 years and national treasurer for eight years. He also serves actively in the Greenwich Branch as chairman of the legislative committee and while he lived in Massachusetts, was secretary of the Greater Boston Branch of the NAACP.

He has appeared at hearings before the state legislatures of Massachusetts and Connecticut on behalf of labor, social security and civil rights legislation. For example, he drew up the first bill on unemployment insurance to be presented to the Massachusetts State Legislature and was co-chairman with Father Loughlin of Hartford, of the successful Connecticut Committee for a Fair Employment Practice Law.

He was one of the founders of Americans for Democratic Action, a liberal group that is more effectively anti-Communist than reactionary organizations; and is a supporter of the American Civil Liberties Union.

Lewis is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, both college and law school, and has a Phi Beta Kappa key. He is a retired insurance man and taught economics briefly at the University of Pennsylvania while studying law there. He holds membership in the American Federation of Teachers, affiliated with the AFL-CIO. He is a member of the Second Congregational Church in Greenwich.

Proceeding the mass meeting a silver offering tea will be sponsored by the branch in the dining area of the church beginning at 5 p. m. The public may attend.

Ask Dismissal Of Regents Ouster

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state will move Friday for dismissal of a court suit against the Legislature demanding the seating of Syracuse banker Ransom G. MacKenzie as a member of the State Board of Regents.

State sources said that Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz would ask a State Supreme Court justice in Albany to throw out Republican MacKenzie's bid to oust Democrat Stephen K. Bailey from the prestigious post.

Bailey, a Syracuse University professor, was elected Feb. 21 in a joint session of the Senate and Assembly to succeed former Regent Thad Collum of Syracuse.

Leaders of the Republican-controlled Senate protested at the time that the Democratic-ruled Assembly had an unfair advantage in the voting.

Pursuing that line, MacKenzie contends that, since there are 150 assemblymen and only 57 senators, each senator should edit.

have had 2.62 votes for each vote of an assemblyman. Under this system, Republicans would have had superior voting power.

He argues that the existing system for election of regents violates the U.S. Supreme Court's 1964 ruling that state legislatures must be chosen on a one-man, one-vote basis to assure equal representation of each voter.

Republican Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson, presiding over the joint session Feb. 21, rejected the Republican bid to have the regent's selection made on the basis of one vote for each assemblyman and .262 votes for each senator.

The attorney general, sources said, will seek dismissal on the grounds that:

—The existing constitution and state laws contain no provision authorizing or requiring the Legislature to use weighted voting when acting in joint session.

—The Board of Regents is not a legislative body and thus is not subject to the one-man, one-vote senators, each senator should edit.

Classes Postponed For Over 600,000

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Classes have been postponed for more than 600,000 youngsters as several of the nation's school systems have closed because of teacher salary disputes. The number could increase to more than two million by next week.

Detroit School Supt. Norman Drachler put off indefinitely today's scheduled school opening for 300,000 youngsters. In New York a deadlock continued toward a Monday deadline.

Michigan was the hardest hit of the states, with almost a half-million youngsters in some 17 districts on extended vacations "until further notice." Teachers picketed in some Michigan cities.

In New York the Board of Education accepted a proposal by Mayor John V. Lindsay's mediation panel for a two-year, $125-million contract between the teachers union and the board.

In a telegram to the United Federation of Teachers the board called for a membership vote on the proposal. The union agreed to the vote but predicted the rank and file would reject it as the negotiating team had earlier.

The package would boost most teachers' salaries by $1,050 over two years to a starting $6,600 next September. The teachers had called for a scale from $7,500 to $15,000.

The union is also seeking a say in educational policy. The teachers have threatened a mass resignation for the scheduled opening Monday to circumvent a state law prohibiting strikes by public employee unions.

Michigan also has a statute prohibiting strikes by public employees but the measure has never been tested and does not outline penalties.

Little Detroit Progress
Detroit teachers have rejected a Detroit Board of Education contract offer of a $6,400 to $10,100 salary range. The current scale is $5,800 to $9,500 after 11 years. The Board of Education and Detroit Federation of Teachers reported little progress in negotiations Wednesday.

Some 24,000 pupils in East St. Louis, Ill., continued to remain home from school as a dispute there went into its ninth day. More than 600 of the 850 teachers in the system have stayed away from schools in a salary dispute.

Youngsters were going to beaches or playing in school playgrounds also in Broward County, Fla. Fort Lauderdale teachers rejected Wednesday a plea by the county school board to return to work.

The board voted to keep the schools closed to the 90,000 pupils until Sept. 25. Of the 4,000 teachers in the county, 2,732 submitted resignations Tuesday.

Python Returns

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Sherwood, the friendly python who disappeared two weeks ago, turned up Wednesday as friendly as ever.

A gardener spotted the eight-foot snake on the Biltmore Golf Course, a mile from David Salk's home.

Rev. A. W. Olsen, Unitarian Leader to Speak Here

The Rev. Arthur W. Olsen, executive director of the Pacific Southwest District of the Unitarian-Universalist Association, will open the new church season for the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County. His topic will be Some Convictions of A Square.

The Rev. Mr. Olsen has just returned from a two month study-tour of Poland, western Russia, Roumania, Hungary and Austria. A highlight of the trip was a visit to several Unitarian villages in Transylvania.

In his position of executive director, the Rev. Mr. Olsen is responsible for guiding and overseeing the activities of some 45 Unitarian-Universalist churches in Southern California and Arizona. Prior to his current appointment, he was a minister to churches in Phoenix, Ariz.; Toledo, Ohio and Melrose, Mass.

The local Unitarian Fellowship and its Sunday school meet each Sunday 10:30 a. m. in the historic old stone Pickett House at the corner of Neighborhood Road and Lohmair Lane in Lake Katrine, just north of the IBM plant. All meetings are open to the public.

Ask Divine Aid To Meet Parley Deadline Date

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — If the word of God and a Roman Catholic priest are heeded, the Constitutional Convention could meet its adjournment date, set for late this month.

The Rev. Donald J. Curran, S. J., a Canisius College faculty member and a convention staff aide, opened the convention's prayer:

"Almighty God, the time has passed for long sentences. The time has passed for rich, full oratory. Please, dear God, help us to get to the heart of the matter — and help us to get there fast." The Rev. Curran intoned.

The priest also cited the 5th Chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, which says: "Let your speech be yes when you mean yes, and no when you mean no. Whatever is in excess of this is due to the evil in the world."

Less Farmers

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Dr. Verle R. Houghaboom, University of Vermont extension economist, says that the number of dairy farmers in Vermont declined 51 per cent from 1953 to 1966 but milk production increased 20 per cent during that time.

$600 Burglary In Rosendale

A burglary at the Rosendale Pharmacy in the shopping plaza on Route 32 in that community netted drugs, watches and other jewelry and appliances valued at more than $600, Kingston State Police said today.

Trooper Thomas Searles reported that entry was gained through a rear door of the Smart Set Beauty Salon next door to the pharmacy. The intruders cut their way through a wall to enter the drug store operated by Jack Strongin.

BCI Investigator John A. Salters of Kingston State Police is conducting the investigation.

Time on Hands

LAKE TOMAHAWK, Wisc. (AP) — Eight men with time on their hands have helped complete a church construction project that lagged for years.

The eight inmates at Naughton State Prison Camp volunteered their services in their free time. They hauled lumber, cementing and painting the Lake Tomahawk Bible Church. La Vernse Lay, a camp correctional officer, hinted the eight had extra incentive. "After they'd work some evenings," he said, "Mrs. Hickox, the pastor's wife, would treat them to a big feed—which they didn't mind a bit."

Classes Postponed For Over 600,000

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Classes have been postponed for more than 600,000 youngsters as several of the nation's school systems have closed because of teacher salary disputes. The number could increase to more than two million by next week.

Detroit School Supt. Norman Drachler put off indefinitely today's scheduled school opening for 300,000 youngsters. In New York a deadlock continued toward a Monday deadline.

Michigan was the hardest hit of the states, with almost a half-million youngsters in some 17 districts on extended vacations "until further notice." Teachers picketed in some Michigan cities.

In New York the Board of Education accepted a proposal by Mayor John V. Lindsay's mediation panel for a two-year, $125-million contract between the teachers union and the board.

In a telegram to the United Federation of Teachers the board called for a membership vote on the proposal. The union agreed to the vote but predicted the rank and file would reject it as the negotiating team had earlier.

The package would boost most teachers' salaries by $1,050 over two years to a starting $6,600 next September. The teachers had called for a scale from $7,500 to $15,000.

The union is also seeking a say in educational policy. The teachers have threatened a mass resignation for the scheduled opening Monday to circumvent a state law prohibiting strikes by public employees.

Michigan also has a statute prohibiting strikes by public employees but the measure has never been tested and does not outline penalties.

Little Detroit Progress
Detroit teachers have rejected a Detroit Board of Education contract offer of a $6,400 to $10,100 salary range. The current scale is $5,800 to $9,500 after 11 years. The Board of Education and Detroit Federation of Teachers reported little progress in negotiations Wednesday.

Some 24,000 pupils in East St. Louis, Ill., continued to remain home from school as a dispute there went into its ninth day. More than 600 of the 850 teachers in the system have stayed away from schools in a salary dispute.

Youngsters were going to beaches or playing in school playgrounds also in Broward County, Fla. Fort Lauderdale teachers rejected Wednesday a plea by the county school board to return to work.

The board voted to keep the schools closed to the 90,000 pupils until Sept. 25. Of the 4,000 teachers in the county, 2,732 submitted resignations Tuesday.

Ask Divine Aid To Meet Parley Deadline Date

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — If the word of God and a Roman Catholic priest are heeded, the Constitutional Convention could meet its adjournment date, set for late this month.

The Rev. Donald J. Curran, S. J., a Canisius College faculty member and a convention staff aide, opened the convention's prayer.

"Almighty God, the time has passed for long sentences. The time has passed for rich, full oratory. Please, dear God, help us to get to the heart of the matter — and help us to get there fast." The Rev. Curran intoned.

The priest also cited the 5th Chapter of St. Matthew's Gospel, which says:

"Let your speech be yes when you mean yes, and no when you mean no. Whatever is in excess of this is due to the evil in the world."

Less Farmers

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — Dr. Verle R. Houghaboom, University of Vermont extension economist, says that the number of dairy farmers in Vermont declined 51 per cent from 1953 to 1966 but milk production increased 20 per cent during that time.

$600 Burglary In Rosendale

A burglary at the Rosendale Pharmacy in the shopping plaza on Route 32 in that community netted drugs, watches and other jewelry and appliances valued at more than $600, Kingston State Police said today.

Trooper Thomas Searles reported that entry was gained through a rear door of the Smart Set Beauty Salon next door to the pharmacy. The intruders cut their way through a wall to enter the drug store operated by Jack Strongin.

BCL Investigator John A. Salter of Kingston State Police is conducting the investigation.

Time on Hands

LAKE TOMAHAWK, Wisc. (AP) — Eight men with time on their hands have helped complete a church construction project that lagged for years.

The eight inmates at Naughton State Prison Camp volunteered their services in their free time. They hauled lumber, cementing and painting the Lake Tomahawk Bible Church.

La Vernie Lay, a camp correctional officer, hinted the eight had extra incentive.

"After they'd work some evenings," he said, "Mrs. Hickox, the pastor's wife, would treat them to a big feed — which they didn't mind a bit."

Python Returns

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Sherwood, the friendly python who disappeared two weeks ago, turned up Wednesday as friendly as ever.

A gardener spotted the eight-foot snake on the Biltmore Golf Course, a mile from David Salk's home.

Rev. A. W. Olsen, Unitarian Leader to Speak Here

The Rev. Arthur W. Olsen, executive director of the Pacific Southwest District of the Unitarian-Universalist Association, will open the new church season for the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County. His topic will be Some Convictions of A Square.

The Rev. Mr. Olsen has just returned from a two month study-tour of Poland, western Russia, Roumania, Hungary and Austria. A highlight of the trip was a visit to several Unitarian villages in Transylvania. The local Unitarian Fellowship and its Sunday school meet each Sunday 10:30 a. m. in the historic old stone Pickett House at the corner of Neighborhood Road and Lohmair Lane in Lake Katrine, just north of the IBM plant. All meetings are open to the public.

GEORGE H. FREER

Seeks Esopus Democrat Nod As Supervisor

An Ulster Park man, George H. Freer, will be seeking the Democratic nomination for the Town of Esopus Supervisor at the party caucus tonight.

Freer, who took over the position of Democratic committeeman upon the death of his father, Reed Freer, almost 20 years ago, favors the continued expansion of the town and "would encourage both new residential and business growth," according to his campaign committee.

Reportedly, Freer has "consistently attended regular meetings of the Town Board and public hearings to keep abreast of town problems," and "firmly believes all residents should take part in local government and express their views to the governing body."

Besides being president of the steering committee which founded the Esopus Democratic Club, the hopeful candidate was a charter member and first secretary of the Esopus Fire Co.

He is a past vice-president of the Town Volunteer Firemen's Association and remains an active member of the St. Remy Fire Co. He is currently serving his fourth year as a commissioner of the St. Remy district.

Freer has served as scout committeeman of Boy Scout Troops 9 and 82. He is an active member of the Sacred Heart Church of Esopus and a 22-year man of the New York Telephone Company having started as a lineman, working his way up to his present post as cable maintenance supervisor of the Poughkeepsie District.

The Esopus Democratic caucus will be held at the Town Hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

Teen Victory

NEW YORK (AP) — Teen-agers won a victory over adults in a recent survey taken by Keep America Beautiful, Inc., to determine which age groups litter the most.

The survey, conducted among litter-prevention experts in all 50 states, found that 50 per cent of those questioned believe adults are the most frequent litterers.

Teen-agers were named by 42 per cent. The other eight per cent picked the child as the most frequent villain.

Cost of Education Still Zooms But Programs Are Easing Burden

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—The cost of a college education continues to rise but, paradoxically, some students this fall will pay out less of their parents' money than students of a few years ago.

New methods of financing, more scholarships, a growing number of programs that alternate study with work, low-cost community colleges, and increasing support of industry are evidence and proof of the change.

Tuition, Fees

The motivation for most of these programs aimed at lessening the financial burden are the demands of society for better educated citizens, and the rising cost of education.

A survey just completed by the Life Insurance Management Association shows that more than two-thirds of the colleges reporting will charge higher tuition or fees this year.

At Harvard College the fixed costs—tuition and room and board—are $3,170, at Tulane

$2,625, Stanford $2,910 and the University of Chicago $3,330—all hundreds of dollars higher than a few years ago.

Even state colleges, whose low tuition represent the easiest answer for financially pressed parents, have hiked their rates for nonresidents. At Oklahoma State, for example, residents will pay $938, nonresidents $448 more.

As a result of these costs, many programs are being developed to lessen the burden. And in the process, incidentally, comes a departure from an honored American custom—a custom that dictated that the parents deny themselves to educate their offspring.

Some students now are studying on loans which must be paid back when their earning power develops. Most of these loans are at very low cost and very easy terms since government money backs them.

Corporations Help

A change is also evident in the support coming from large corporations which see an opportunity not only to assist students but to provide talent for corporate ranks.

American business long has been a very strong supporter of the nation's colleges, but most of their contributions went directly to the institution. Some of this money now is going directly to students, especially since sensitive corporations have been disturbed to hear reports of growing alienation of students and business. Money, which a corporation has and a student needs, is being used as a communications link. The growing need of corporations for skilled workers also is part of the motivation. By helping a student when he is in need, some companies are finding it easier to recruit him when he graduates.

Jobs and Grants

At Johns-Manville Corp., for example, 31 students worked this summer at jobs paying about $110 a week. This fall they will return to school with tuition grants of from $300 to $500.

During the student's summer employment the company had a chance to observe his talents and intelligence, and now eight of the 10 students in their senior year soon will be offered permanent jobs. The other two intend to go on to graduate school.

An added incentive to return to the company after graduation is that the usual company benefits, including seniority rights and insurance, remain in force while the student studies.

A company spokesman this week said the company is very pleased with results. Since the company employs 1,000 temporary workers each summer, he said, there is a good possibility the program might be enlarged.

At Aluminum Co. of America a program is under way to employ students five hours a day for 10 weeks during the school year. During his 50 hours on the job the student receives an average of $5 an hour.

The Alcoa program is aimed at recruiting talent for industrial sales through on-the-job training. But in these days of high tuitions it has the added advantage of lessening the financial strain as well.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market made a small gain on balance early Thursday in active trading.

Ford was unchanged despite the start of a strike against the company by the United Auto Workers union.

Other big three auto stocks also showed little reaction. General Motors gained a fraction. Chrysler eased.

American Motors also was unchanged at the start. Gainers outnumbered losers by nearly 100 in the over-all list, and the Dow Jones industrial average showed a gain of less than a point.

Steel took fractional losses. Fractional gains were made by Parke Davis, American Telephone, National Propane, Arlan's Department Stores and Collins Radio.

Consider Living Trust For Children's Funds

Q) "I have just inherited $25,000 and would like to set up a trust fund for my children. Please explain what a trust fund is, where to buy one, how safe it is in the future, and will I be able to draw from it myself, even if it is set up for my children?"

B.T. A) What you are considering is called a living trust. Most such trusts provide for a bank as trustee, and you can have your lawyer write up the trust agreement so that you could withdraw funds from it if this ever became necessary. You don't buy a trust; you turn the funds over to your bank—or some other fiduciary—to handle on an annual fee basis. A trust, under these circumstances, is very safe indeed. Your first step is to see your lawyer who must draw up your trust agreement and who will tell you better than I can its benefits or shortcomings.

Q) "I propose to keep some funds in the bank, some in government bonds, some in stocks. Perhaps you would explain the advantages and disadvantages of long-term Treasury bonds as compared with savings bonds." C.O.

A) The main advantage in holding a long-term Treasury issue is that you get at present a higher yield than on a savings bond. A series E bond is as liquid as any Treasury security, since it is redeemable any time, after two months holding. An H-bond is redeemable on one month's notice after six months of issue date. The big advantage that savings bonds have over Treasuries is that they cannot fluctuate, since they are always redeemable at face value plus accrued interest. Treasuries, on the other hand, can decline in price on any rise in money rates. A major advantage in holding series E bonds is that you can defer reporting your interest for income tax purposes until the bonds are cashed or they finally mature.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST of the Emily Post Institute
NIGHT BEFORE TRIP IS A BUSY TIME

Dear Mrs. Post: When people travel overseas (or, for that matter, any long distance) friends and relatives usually like to say good-bye or even bring a little present. This is a lovely gesture and I am always delighted to have company any time during the week before departure—except the very last night. Here we come to the point of disagreement. On the very last night there is so much to think about (especially if you travel with children) and there are always last minute preparations to be made, that I myself find it impossible to concentrate on company. Some relatives and friends, however, feel this is the customary time to wish a Happy Voyage. Will you please tell me if there is such a custom or etiquette law, or am I correct in thinking that it is a matter of the wishes of an individual?—Mrs. J. M.

Dear Mrs. M.: There is no custom or etiquette law which says that visitors should go to wish travellers Bon Voyage the night before they leave. In fact, like you, I consider it an imposition. I highly recommend to those who make this sort of visit that they call and arrange a time a day or two ahead.

Where to Send Wedding Present When No Address Is Given

Dear Mrs. Post: Recently we received a wedding invitation from the parents of the girl my husband's nephew is to marry. The date, time, and place of the wedding were stated in the invitation. There was no return address on the envelope, but a reply had been requested for the reception. I immediately wrote my sister-in-law requesting the bride's address so that the wedding gift would arrive in time. I mentioned that there was nothing to go by other than the time-stamp of the post office that it came from Milwaukee. My sister-in-law replied it is proper etiquette to omit the return address on the wedding invitation, but that it was giving her quite a bit of trouble because she had been receiving numerous requests for Jane's address. How did the bride's parents expect us to reply when they sent no return address?—Mrs. E. Kirby

Dear Mrs. Kirby: One solution to this problem is to imprint the address of the bride or her parents on the envelope flap. Without the ink, this is not considered improper. However, if this is not done, you may, as you did, write to someone you know who can give you the address, and you may send a gift in care of the address on the reception card.

Better Prenatal Care Discussed in CP Book

Better prenatal care, newer techniques of childbirth and improved protection of the newborn are gradually eliminating many cases of cerebral palsy.

These are among the encouraging gains being made in prevention and control of the disorder which are reported in a new booklet now available from United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County according to Mr. Edward deGross, president.

Titled "Cerebral Palsy — More Hope Than Ever," the 28-page booklet was published by the Public Affairs Committee in cooperation with United Cerebral Palsy Association. It was written by Jacqueline Seaver, well-known writer in the field of health education.

In the introduction to the booklet, Dr. Brewster S. Miller, UCPA medical director, says that treatment and services to cerebral palsy victims are becoming increasingly effective. One important reason for this, he notes, is the change from the "orthopedic emphasis on treatment to the treatment of the total person."

"We're now equally concerned with the individual's educational, social, psychological, and vocational needs as well as his physical condition," Dr. Miller said.

Cerebral palsy is a life-time disability, the result of damage to the motor control centers of the brain which usually occurs before or during birth. It is characterized by lack of muscle control and coordination and can prevent the individual from using his arms and legs. Defects in speech, hearing, sight and intellect frequently occur.

Despite the advances in prevention, Miss Seaver notes that last year 25,000 babies were born with cerebral palsy. For them and more than 600,000 victims in the United States, the author writes, "there is hope resulting from new scientific understanding, new approaches to neuro-muscular problems, new educational and vocational opportunities."

According to Miss Seaver, parents and family are a key to successful treatment of the child with cerebral palsy. To help them, a team of professional specialists working under the direction of the physician can contribute to the youngster's total welfare.

With adulthood, problems of emotional adjustment, social balance and job training come into focus. Miss Seaver emphasizes the importance of ongoing evaluation of the child's progress and potentialities so changes can be dealt with as they arise.

Another example of progress Miss Seaver cites is the increasing number of persons who are becoming at least partially self-supporting. Training opportunities are offered by sheltered workshops and other rehabilitation services. Some can do only simple jobs, the author reports. But others "can hold their own in the competitive world."

Anyone interested in obtaining a copy of "Cerebral Palsy—More Hope Than Ever" should write to United Cerebral Palsy of Ulster County Inc., 400 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

LARGER FLUID INTAKE CUTS SUMMER LOAD ON KIDNEYS

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My doctor has prescribed Furadantin for a kidney infection. Is this an antibiotic? Could it cause me to have headaches?

A—Nitrofurantoin (Furadantin) is an antibiotic that is especially useful in combating kidney and bladder infections. Its side effects include nausea and headache.

Q—My wife has had a kidney infection for about six years. Is there any cure for it?

A—Cure is not easy, especially in a person who has had this disease for several years. A kidney specialist (urologist) should be able to help your wife.

Q—What dietary or other measures will control uremia? water is recommended. Is it possible to take so much you will overload the kidneys? Is there any drug that would help?

A—Uremia is a serious condition and usually requires surgery or the use of an artificial kidney. In a recent study, however, a team of doctors in Italy reported good results with a low protein diet consisting of starch (spaghetti), unsaturated fats, fruit and vegetables; 2,000 calories are allowed and 18 to 25 grams of protein daily supplied by milk, cheese and eggs. If the patient does not improve after a few days the protein is withdrawn and 8.5 grams of specially prepared amino acids are given. It is very difficult with this diet for the victim to maintain his weight.

Some persons with uremia can't take large amounts of water without showing evidence of waterlogging. Various drugs may be used in the treatment of the patient, depending on his symptoms, but there is no drug that can be considered a specific cure for uremia.

Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Hints From Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

I have learned an easy way to get every bit of that lint and dust out of my husband's shirt pockets before I wash them.

Before they go into the washer, I take them to the bathtub and put the pockets under the tap and turn on the cold water faucet STRONG!

The force of the water cleans the pockets of every iota of lint and dust.

M. D.

This could be done in your kitchen sink, gals, or even the wash basin for that matter. But we do thank M. D. with all of our hearts for telling us how to get that awful little problem settled.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

If you buy onions, etc., in a red or yellow plastic sack, do save the sack.

I use them the same way I use nylon net for dish cloths. Just put your dish cloth inside and scrub away. Oh, how nice for pots and pans!

Also, I have covered many worn and torn sponges with plastic onion and vegetable bags, and they give a most satisfactory result.

Reader

Letter of Thought

Dear Heloise:

A suggestion which we have adopted in our house is a crying room. This is for kiddies who have "tantrums" and such.

Now when my children cry or are bad, they are automatically retired to their rooms, and believe me, this saves a lot of wear and tear on my nerves. Mothers will be surprised what new and happy little children they become when they come out to play again.

Of course, they know that when they are willing to be good and immediately stop crying, they may come out again. It makes for less tantrums in our house, because they think when the door is closed, no one hears them.

Mrs. Dennis Giardinino

Dear Heloise:

You know those old hot pads we all use on our tables? Well, I had an old one and was just about to throw it away or put it under my wastebasket where it rusts on the floor.

Then I got to thinking. Why not tear off a piece of foil and cover the pad so it would look nice under the wastebasket. After I covered it, it was so pretty I didn't even use it under the wastebasket.

I dragged out all of my other pads, covered them and put them back on my table.

I still had the problem of the rust marks caused by the wastebasket.

So I folded up newspapers and covered them with foil and put the foil pad under the wastebasket. Then I got to thinking again. Wouldn't these be useful, inexpensive gifts for girl scouts and boy scouts to make?

Devotee

Dear Heloise:

I cut off the tops of large plastic bleach bottles and use the bottoms for storing children's things. I label them with a marking pencil, and also make drawings, to show what they contain.

One is in the bathroom with small boats and toys for bathtub playing; dart guns and game parts in others are easily stored on a shelf in the children's bedroom.

They can be decorated in so many ways to please the children, and if they are old enough, they like to do it themselves (all but the cutting).

Dorris

Dear Heloise:

After I peel a cucumber I scrape them lengthwise with the prongs of a sharp fork and then slice them.

They are quite nice this way and are ever so decorative on your table.

Mrs. E. M. O.

Dear Heloise:

After reading about the use of vinegar for removing water stains in glass coffee pots, I decided to try your method on my enamel pots and pans.

After boiling a few spoonfuls of white vinegar and enough water to cover the stains (about three minutes), my pans look like new-fallen snow.

Mrs. David Williams

Heloise welcomes all mail, especially household hints which she can pass on to readers as space permits. However, because of the tremendous volume of mail she receives daily, Heloise is unable to answer all individual letters. She will answer readers' questions in her column whenever possible.

A check for $1,900, the net proceeds of a rally held in Woodstock at which Senator Ernest Gruening spoke, was turned over last week to the National Committee for an Effective Congress.

The Ulster County Committee for Independent Senators, a recently-formed citizens' group, sponsored the rally in cooperation with the NCEC. An estimated 500 persons attended the meeting Aug. 20 in the Woodstock Playhouse.

The money will be contributed to the 1968 campaign funds of five Senators, including Gruening, who have taken an independent stand on Administration policies, notably as critics of United States military involvement in Vietnam.

Barbecue Next Time

DOTHAN, Ala. (AP) — Businessman Charles Woods, a former Alabama gubernatorial candidate, says he's giving up Labor Day outings on his yacht. And he has reason.

Last year on Labor Day, he and his family went boating in the Gulf of Mexico. The boat caught fire and exploded, injuring Woods and his two sons. The boat was destroyed.

Monday, the family was on the Gulf again in a new yacht. A fire broke out in the engine room. This time, with the help of the Coast Guard, it was extinguished safely.

"Next year," said Woods, "We'll have a barbecue in the back yard."

Registration Reports

School Population Gains

Early enrollment figures in area schools indicate the student population is on the rise.

As scholars trekked back to classrooms throughout the county Wednesday leaving summer fun in favor of book learning, registration figures went well over last year's totals in most districts.

10,487 in System

In the Kingston Schools Consolidated 10,487 students were recorded in the public schools. Of this figure, only the afternoon kindergarten classes were estimated, based on early registrations.

Parochial school enrollments in the city totaled 1,968, down slightly from last year. However, John A. Coleman Catholic High School registration was up more than 60 students from last year, totaling 310.

A sizeable increase in student population was noted in the Onteora School District. Wednesday's registration by school is as follows:

Woodstock, 535; Bennett, 373; Phenicia, 323 and West Hurley, 547, totaling 1,778 enrolled in elementary schools. High school students number 1,167 in grades seven through 12 making a total enrollment in the district of 2,945.

Construction was pushed ahead on the two million dollar high school expansion at Boiceville to provide 20 additional classrooms on opening day. Other facilities at the site are expected to be in service shortly.

Saugerties Central Schools registered 3,930 pupils in kindergarten through 12th grade on the first day. It is estimated enrollment is up by about 170 students in that area.

RV Gains

Rondout Valley Central Schools also noted a sizeable increase over last year's student enrollment. First day registration totaled 2,781 with more expected during the first full week of the term.

First day registration at the Ellenville Central Schools, kindergarten through 12, totaled 2,200 with other last minute registration anticipated through the week. Comparison figures were not readily available as enrollment in that district is incomplete.

State Pilot Killed

FALFURRIAS, Tex. (AP) — Navy Ensign Bruce Watts, 24, was killed Wednesday when the jet training plane he was aboard crashed in an open field about 10 miles south of this south Texas town.

Watts was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Watts of Skaneateles, N.Y.

He was assigned to Training Squadron 22 at the Kingsville, Tex., Naval Air Auxiliary Air Station.

The cause of the crash was not determined immediately.

Woodstock Event Aids Senators

A check for $1,900, the net proceeds of a rally held in Woodstock at which Senator Ernest Gruening spoke, was turned over last week to the National Committee for an Effective Congress.

The Ulster County Committee for Independent Senators, a recently-formed citizens' group, sponsored the rally in cooperation with the NCEC. An estimated 500 persons attended the meeting Aug. 20 in the Woodstock Playhouse.

The money will be contributed to the 1968 campaign funds of five Senators, including Gruening, who have taken an independent stand on Administration policies, notably as critics of United States military involvement in Vietnam.

In backing them, the NCEC is pursuing the goal set when the committee was organized in 1948 to help elect outstanding congressional leaders, regardless of party affiliation.

Those besides Gruening, Democrat of Alaska, who will share in the proceeds from the rally are Senators Frank Church of Idaho, J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, George S. McGovern of South Dakota and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

The fund raised by the local group included money collected in a drawing for paintings or prints by six leading Woodstock artists, who donated their work. They were Tommy Beere, Arnold Blanch, Edward Chavez, Eugene Ludins, Anton Refregier and Arthur Zaidenberg.

The 30-member committee, headed by Pamela Sturges, has arranged to have tape recordings of Senator Gruening's speech available at a nominal charge to interested individuals and schools, colleges, civic groups and other organizations. Mimeographed copies of the text are also available. Inquiries should be directed to the Ulster County Committee for Independent Senators, Post Office Box 562, Woodstock.

Among the members of the committee were Mrs. Charles Ball, Ruth Elias, Mrs. Harvey Fite, Mrs. Robert Gannon, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jamieson, Mrs. Wendell Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jones, Howard Koch, Peter Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Ludins, Harry Matzen, Mrs. Michael Piere, Alec Refregier, Mr. and Mrs. Tad Richards, Mrs. Stephen Robbins, Barbara Sproul, Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Sturges, Holly Sturges, Edgar Villechur, Miriam Villechur and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Zaidenberg.

Barbecue Next Time
DOTHAN, Ala. (AP) — Businessman Charles Woods, a former Alabama gubernatorial candidate, says he's giving up Labor Day outings on his yacht. And he has reason.

Last year on Labor Day, he and his family went boating in the Gulf of Mexico. The boat caught fire and exploded, injuring Woods and his two sons. The boat was destroyed.

Monday, the family was on the Gulf again in a new yacht. A fire broke out in the engine room. This time, with the help of the Coast Guard, it was extinguished safely.

"Next year," said Woods, "We'll have a barbecue in the back yard."

Registration Reports

School Population Gains

Early enrollment figures in area schools indicate the student population is on the rise.

As scholars trekked back to classrooms throughout the county Wednesday leaving summer fun in favor of book learning, registration figures went well over last year's totals in most districts.

10,487 in System
In the Kingston Schools Consolidated 10,487 students were recorded in the public schools. Of this figure, only the afternoon kindergarten classes were estimated, based on early registrations.

Parochial school enrollments in the city totaled 1,968, down slightly from last year. However, John A. Coleman Catholic High School registration was up more than 60 students from last year, totaling 310.

A sizeable increase in student population was noted in the Ontario School District. Wednesday's registration of school is as follows:

Woodstock, 535; Bennett, 373; Phoenixia, 323 and West Hurley, 547, totaling 1,778 enrolled in elementary schools.

High school students number 1,167 in grades seven through 12 making a total enrollment in the district of 2,945.

Construction was pushed ahead on the two million dollar high school expansion at Boiceville to provide 20 additional classrooms on opening day. Other facilities at the site are expected to be in service shortly.

Saugerties Central Schools registered 3,930 pupils in kindergarten through 12th grade on the first day. It is estimated enrollment is up by about 170 students in that area.

RV Gains
Rondout Valley Central Schools also noted a sizeable increase over last year's student enrollment. First day registration totaled 2,781 with more expected during the first full week of the term.

First day registration at the Ellenville Central Schools, kindergarten through 12, totaled 2,200 with other last minute registration anticipated through the week. Comparison figures were not readily available as enrollment in that district is incomplete.

List Signals of Gaining Status

Four Resignations In Probation Office Delay Sentencing

A wholesale resignation of employees in the Ulster County Probation Department has created a serious problem for Charles E. Schultz, Ulster County director of probation.

Ulster County has apparently become a "training grounds" for probation workers, who, after serving a short period of duty move to other counties or better jobs where the pay is more in keeping with present day cost of living. Schultz charges that the rate of pay in Ulster County for probation workers is so low that it is difficult to compete with other areas.

Serious Condition

The serious condition in the Probation Department was revealed Tuesday in County Court when County Judge Raymond J. Mino inquired how long it would take to secure a pre-sentence probation report, as required by law prior to imposition of sentence in criminal cases.

Director of Probation Schultz stated that "approximately 90 per cent of my staff is resigning" and it was impossible to determine when pre-sentence reports would be available.

Meanwhile defendants awaiting sentence languish in jail or remain out of jail under bail. Schultz said assistant probation officers come to Ulster County, remain for a time but after receiving thorough training seek other jobs because of the low salary paid in Ulster County.

Among the requirements is a college degree, Schultz said. The starting salary is $5,500 a year with the prospects of a $120 a year increment for four years when the probation officer reaches the maximum.

"This is no incentive for a good probation officer to remain in Ulster County," Director Schultz said. "After a few months of training they leave for better paid positions, leaving us without sufficient staff to carry on the work," he concluded.

Resignation has been received from Robert Goodbread, Woodstock, who is leaving to take a position with the Youth Parole Department of New York State which supervises young people released from training schools. He will operate in the Orange-Sullivan County area. He had been with the local department two years.

Going to Law School

John Hetsco of Kingston, who has been with the local department for nine months, has resigned to attend law school.

Harry Vogt, Walkill, who has been with the local department for 10 months, is resigning to take a position with the Department of Correction at the Catskill Reformatory, Napanoch.

The fourth resignation is that of Nanita Harris of Kingston, account clerk who has been with the department for two years. She is resigning to assume a better paid position. "There is no incentive to keep young people who are able to find better opportunities outside Ulster County," Schultz said, and he added that Ulster County had developed into a "training field" for other jobs in the correctional field and schools.

Just Two Officers

The current resignations leaves the Ulster County Probation Department with only two probation officers, Andrew L. F. Deyo of Gardiner, and M. Dorothy Grigsby, New Paltz, who is engaged primarily in investigations for intake for Family Court. In addition to the two probation officers who are available for investigations, there is a force of three clerical assistants in the office.

State Campsites List Closings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sunday marks the end of the season for most State Conservation Department campsites in the Adirondacks and Catskills.

The department said Wednesday, however, that caretakers would remain on duty at seven campsites until later this fall. In addition, camping will be permitted at 22 other sites where caretakers will not be on duty.

Cumberland Bay and Wilmington Notch will remain open, with caretakers, until Sept. 17; Thompson Lake and Mongaup Pond until Oct. 1, and Forked Lake, Limekiln Lake and Lewey Lake will stay open until Dec. 5. Mongaup Pond will reopen for the big-game hunting season from Nov. 20 to Dec. 5. A caretaker will be on duty.

The department also said that water and sanitary facilities will be turned off with the "first hint of freezing weather" at the 22 sites where caretakers will not be available.

Rights Member

George E. Yerry Jr., a member of the Kingston Commission of Human Rights, was absent from last Thursday's meeting. The occasion was the installation of Richard L. Treat, vice president and general manager of The Freeman, as a new member.

FIRST NEGRO EXECUTIVE—President Johnson Wednesday announced the selection of Walter E. Washington (left) to head the new District of Columbia government. He will be the first Negro Chief Executive of a major U. S. city. Washington is leaving his post as chairman of the New York City Housing Authority to accept the appointment. Washington, 51, is a native of Dawson, Ga. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Uptown Plans

Gala events are being planned by the Uptown Kingston Businessmen's Association for fall and winter.

At a meeting of the board of directors Wednesday committees were named for Halloween window painting, Fall Shower and Christmas season activities.

Headed the annual window painting promotion will be Carmen Wiley, George Manson, Adrian Kaplan, Gordon Dew and Norman Shapiro.

Committee for the Fall Shower will be Fred Firstenberg, Elmore Yal-lum, Irwin Miller and Larry Swars.

Holiday planners are:

Streetsighting, Gus Foerschler, Fred Firstenberg, Santa Claus, his house and candy, Gordon Dew, Paul Mezer and Irwin Miller. Music and loudspeakers, George Manson, Carmine Wiley and Leo Alpert.

Advertising, Stanley London, Elmore Yal-lum, Larry Swars and Robert Saehloft.

With schools open again, children hurrying to classes may overlook the rules of safety. The Automobile Club of Newburg, Leo Alpert, Elmore Yal-lum, Irwin Miller and Larry Swars, urges drivers to be especially careful when driving near schools and playgrounds.

Director of Probation Schultz stated that "approximately 90 per cent of my staff is resigning" and it was impossible to determine when pre-sentence reports would be available.

Meanwhile defendants awaiting sentence languish in jail or remain out of jail under bail. Schultz said assistant probation officers come to Ulster County, remain for a time but after receiving thorough training seek other jobs because of the low salary paid in Ulster County.

Among the requirements is a college degree, Schultz said. The starting salary is $5,500 a year with the prospects of a $120 a year increment for four years when the probation officer reaches the maximum.

"This is no incentive for a good probation officer, to remain in Ulster County," Director Schultz said. "After a few months of training they leave for better paid positions, leaving us without sufficient staff to carry on the work," he concluded.

Resignation has been received from Robert Goodbread, Woodstock, who is leaving to take a position with the Youth Parole Department of New York State which supervises young people released from training schools. He will operate in the Orange-Sullivan County area. He had been with the local department two years.

Going to Law School

John Hetsco of Kingston, who has been with the local department for nine months, has resigned to attend law school.

Harry Vogt, Watkill, who has been with the local department for 10 months, is resigning to take a position with the Department of Correction at the Catskill Reformatory, Napanoch.

The fourth resignation is that of Nanita Harris of Kingston, account clerk who has been with the department for two years. She is resigning to assume a better paid position.

"There is no incentive to keep young people who are able to find better opportunities outside Ulster County," Schultz said, and he added that Ulster County had developed into a "training field" for other jobs in the correctional field and schools.

Just Two Officers

The current resignations leaves the Ulster County Probation Department with only two probation officers, Andrew L. F. Deyo of Gardiner, and M. Dorothy Grigsby, New Paltz, who is engaged primarily in investigations for intake for Family Court. In addition to the two probation officers who are available for investigations, there is a force of three clerical assistants in the office.

State Campsites List Closings

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Sunday marks the end of the season for most State Conservation Department campsites in the Adirondacks and Catskills.

The department said Wednesday, however, that caretakers would remain on duty at seven campsites until later this fall. In addition, camping will be permitted at 22 other sites where caretakers will not be on duty.

Cumberland Bay and Wilmington Notch will remain open, with caretakers, until Sept. 17; Thompson Lake and Mongaup Pond until Oct. 1, and Forked Lake, Limekiln Lake and Lewey Lake will stay open until Dec. 5. Mongaup Pond will reopen for the big - game hunting season from Nov. 20 to Dec. 5. A caretaker will be on duty.

The department also said that water and sanitary facilities will be turned off with the "first hint of freezing weather" at the 22 sites where caretakers will not be available.

Rights Member

George E. Yerry Jr., a member of the Kingston Commission of Human Rights, was absent from last Thursday's meeting. The occasion was the installation of Richard L. Treat, vice president and general manager of The Freeman, as a new member.

FIRST NEGRO EXECUTIVE—President Johnson Wednesday announced the selection of Walter E. Washington (left) to head the new District of Columbia government. He will be the first Negro Chief Executive of a major U. S. city. Washington is leaving his post as chairman of the New York City Housing Authority to accept the appointment. Uptown Plans

Gala events are being planned by the Uptown Kingston Businessmen's Association for fall and winter.

At a meeting of the board of directors Wednesday committees were named for Halloween window painting, Fall Shower and Christmas season activities. Heading the annual window painting promotion will be Carmen Wiley, George Manson, Adrian Kaplan, Gordon Dew and Norman Shapiro.

Committee for the Fall Shower will be Fred Firstenberg, Leo Alpert, Elmore Yallum, Irwin Miller and Larry Swars.

Holiday planners are: Streetlighting, Gus Foerschler, Fred Firstenberg, Santa Claus, his house and candy, Gordon Dew, Paul Mezer and Irwin Miller. Music and loudspeakers, George Manson, Carmine Wiley and Leo Alpert.

Advertising, Stanley London, Elmore Yallum, Larry Swars and Robert Saehloff.

With schools open again, children hurrying to classes may overlook the rules of safety. The Automobile Club of New York urges drivers to be especially careful when driving near schools and playgrounds.

Smoke Inhalation Claims Children

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP) — A three-year-old boy and a four-year-old girl, Kevin and Benita Jackson, have died apparently of smoke inhalation from a fire in an apartment building Wednesday, police said.

The fire was blamed on a young boy playing with matches and was confined to another apartment, police said.

The Jackson address is 112½ Bartlett St.

Fordham to Pay $100,000 Costs For State Chair

NEW YORK (AP)—A spokesman for Fordham University says the school will provide $100,000 from its own funds to keep communications theorist Marshall McLuhan on its faculty, even if the state refuses to grant the money for a special state chair.

Reports circulated in Albany that State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz might reject contracts for a special $100,000 chair at Fordham because, as a Roman Catholic institution, it is not eligible for state aid.

Lefkowitz said Wednesday, however, "No decision has been made, the matter is still under study." He said he might announce his decision next week.

The state constitution bans aid to sectarian schools.

Robert A. Kidera, vice president for university relations, commented Wednesday: "Even if the state reneges, we can't."

There's no doubt about that," the academic fall term starts Sept. 18.

Kidera also said Fordham would take the issue to court, even, if necessary, to the U.S. Supreme Court.

McLuhan, author of "The Medium is the Message," moved to New York Thursday from the University of Toronto. He could not be reached immediately for comment.

The professorship in question is one of 10 created in 1964 by the state legislature. Each professorship carries funds of $100,000 to attract noted scholars and their staffs to universities in New York State.

School Board Meets Tonight

Collective bargaining procedures for the Kingston School District Consolidated may be decided by resolution tonight at the September meeting of the Board of Education. The matter has been a controversial topic between teachers' groups and the Board for the last few years.

Approval of a bond resolution for buildings, the awarding of a contract for renovations to the Vocational Building, approval of bids for school supplies and materials and appointment of tax collectors in the district, are some items on the agenda for the session scheduled for 8:30 p. m. at the George Washington School.

Appointment of teachers and action on resignations also will come up at the session.

Buried Treasure

CAROLTON, Mo. (AP) — Sixteen years ago, Mrs. Albert Ward, Jr. lost her diamond wedding ring in the yard of some neighbors. After searching unsuccessfully she gave up, but recently, armed with a metal detecting device, she decided to try again. The ring was found about three inches below the surface in excellent condition, considering its 16-year burial.

Employment Reaches New High

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's total employment hit an all-time August high of 76.1 million, the Labor Department said Wednesday. A spokesman called it evidence of "a moderate and orderly resumption of economic expansion." At the same time, the nation's unemployment rate edged down to 3.8 per cent of the civilian labor force, a decline of one-tenth of one per cent from July.

"After the soft period in the economy the first half of the year, the economic expansion has begun to resume in an orderly way," said Commissioner Arthur M. Ross of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The record August figure for total employment followed July's all-time high job figure for any month of 76.2 million, and Ross said the two-month figures showed employment rising in most segments of the economy.

He said the rate of growth was such that skilled manpower shortages that caused production bottlenecks in late 1965 and early 1966 can probably be avoided.

"It was necessary to cool off the economy in 1966 because of the inflationary pressures," Ross said. "The expansion was too great," he added.

He said the moderate rate of growth in recent months was necessary to avoid "excessive price increases and oversized wage increases" that occur when rapid expansion boosts employment and causes shortages of workers.

"We want to continue it," he said of the present economic growth, "but not at such a rapid pace."

The bureau said the unemployment rate for Negroes showed substantial improvement since May, dropping from 7.8 to 6.9 per cent. But the Negro jobless rate is still double that for white workers.

Recovery Inc. To Meet 15th

Recovery, Inc., a non-profit organization which offers a proven system of self-help aftercare to prevent chronicity in nervous patients and relapses in former mental patients, will hold a meeting Friday, Sept. 15 at 8:30 p. m. at Tom Sawyer Hotel, in Albany.

Headquarter leaders from Chicago and New York will present panel demonstrations of the Recovery system which was developed by the late Dr. Abraham A. Low, a psychiatrist.

With the exception of some headquarters' personnel, the organization is managed and controlled by former patients, all non-professionals who have had Recovery training.

A non-sectarian organization, it is not allied or connected with any other organization. Doctors, nurses, social workers and the public are invited to attend.

A Recovery organization will begin in Kingston in the near future. Further plans will be announced.

UR Front Calm

Honor Hemphill Tonight

While manual activities and verbal oratory appeared calm on the Kingston Urban Renewal front today, plans were completed for a testimonial dinner tonight at the Governor Clinton Hotel to honor Eric Hemphill, resigned executive director of KURA.

Hemphill leaves Kingston Saturday for Charleston, W. Va., where he will take over the office of executive director of urban renewal in that city on Monday at a salary of $19,000.

60 Expected

Approximately 60 persons including Hemphill's office staff, the members of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and friends have made reservations for the dinner slated for 7:30 p. m. following a social hour at the hotel.

Attorney Vincent G. Connelly, who recently resigned as a member of the Agency, will be toastmaster. S. James Matthews, resigned counsel to the Agency; George A. Beck, who was appointed to replace Matthews, and former Mayor John J. Schwenk and their wives plan to attend the event.

Meanwhile, Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan despite a heavy cold, went to his office at City Hall to consider potential successors to the resigned members of the KURA. Ward Tongue is serving as acting executive director, and Attorney Beck has been named counsel.

Here Since 1964

Hemphill came to Kingston from Glen Holden, Pa., in April, 1964 while Mayor Schwenk was in office. He succeeded Tongue, presently temporary executive director. An Oklahoman and graduate of the University of Oklahoma, he continued graduate studies at the University of Pennsylvania before joining the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority.

Mayor Garrahan emphasized today that he hadn't "asked anyone" to serve on the KURA.

"We have got to get some people who will work together in the best interests of Kingston," he said. He noted that it is difficult to get men to devote their time to the job.

Contests Appear For Area Caucuses

Three or more contests appear on the political scene as both the GOP and Democrat parties caucus and hold conventions this week and next lining up tickets for the fall election.

Esopus Tonight

In Esopus tonight, Democrats will choose between Lewis Kirschner and George Freer, who having the councilman's nomination once, lost out to the GOP by a mere six votes.

In Saugerties Saturday GOP Councilman Elden Myer is reported not to be seeking renomination. Interested in getting the nod however is Bernard Rinaldi.

Several challengers for incumbent councilman Philip Breithaupt's post are also reported but unnamed in what appears to be a call for an open convention.

Supervisor Peter M. Williams and town clerk, Marion Newkirk are expected to be on the ticket again.

In Saugerties and Wawarsing the GOP holds a convention rather than caucusing as a town.

Convention delegates are selected at district caucuses held prior to the confab.

This year an increase in Saugerties' districts from 11 to 14 adds more delegates to the roster.

Ulster Saturday

A three-way contest for Justice of the Peace in the Town of Ulster is expected at a GOP caucus to be held Saturday 7 p. m. at Chambers School.

Seeking the nomination are incumbent Robert S. Stedje, Sherwood E. Davis, an attorney and Edward J. Devine, presently serving the town as chairman of the Planning Board.

Councilman Anthony Cicoria, will seek the nomination for his first four-year term as assessor and two men will seek the nomination for tax collector. Nick Valenzano and Harold Atkins.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz is expected to get the nod for the nomination to seek a second term as is Mrs. Alma Macholdt, town clerk. Incumbent Edward Callahan seeks renomination for assessor.

Rosendale Monday In Rosendale Democrats will caucus Monday at 8 p. m. in the Grange Hall. Hurley also plans to make its Democrat designations the same night.

Other announced caucuses for Democrats include: tonight, Esopus and Wawarsing; Friday, Woodstock, Hardenberg, Shawangunk, Lloyd and Plattkill; Saturday, New Paltz and Saugerties; Sunday, Olive.

The GOP has announced its conventions and caucuses for the following dates: tonight, Woodstock; Friday, Lloyd, Shawangunk, Hardenberg, Plattkill and Saugerties; Saturday, Denning, Wawarsing, Esopus, Hurley, Town of Kingston, Olive, Marletown, Rochester, Rosendale and Ulster; Monday, Gardiner and Marlboro.

Capital Footnotes

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, the 59-year-old chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was reported in good condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is being treated for what is called minor heart trouble.

The Defense Department has signed nearly $323 million worth of contracts for research and development of the Nike X anti-missile system. The contracts were awarded to several firms.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 7, 1947—Mayor William F. Edelmutz named Mrs. Jack Clair of Chambers Street a former teacher, to the Kingston Board of Education.

Mrs. Tressa Swibold of Kingston was elected associate state councilor at a Daughters of the American Revolution convention in Albany.

Sept. 7, 1957—Stringent water restrictions were expected in the city. It was reported that the city reservoir, Cooper Lake, was dangerously low.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson planned to offer legislation to make Perrine's Bridge a historical site.

UR Front Calm

Honor Hemphill Tonight

While manual activities and verbal oratory appeared calm on the Kingston Urban Renewal front today, plans were completed for a testimonial dinner tonight at the Governor Clinton Hotel to honor Eric Hemphill, resigned executive director of KURA.

Hemphill leaves Kingston Saturday for Charleston, W. Va., where he will take over the office of executive director of urban renewal in that city on Monday at a salary of $19,000.

60 Expected

Approximately 60 persons including Hemphill's office staff, the members of the Kingston Urban Renewal Agency and friends have made reservations for the dinner slated for 7:30 p. m. following a social hour at the hotel. Attorney Vincent G. Connelly, who recently resigned as a member of the Agency, will be toastmaster. S. James Matthews, resigned counsel to the Agency; George A. Beck, who was appointed to replace Matthews, and former Mayor John J. Schwenk and their wives plan to attend the event. Meanwhile, Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan despite a heavy cold, went to his office at City Hall to consider potential successors to the resigned members of the KURA. Ward Tongue is serving as acting executive director, and Attorney Beck has been named counsel.

Here Since 1964

Hemphill came to Kingston from Glen Holden, Pa., in April, 1964 while Mayor Schwenk was in office. He succeeded Tongue, presently temporary executive director. An Oklahoman and graduate of the University of Oklahoma, he continued graduate studies at the University of Pennsylvania before joining the Philadelphia Redevelopment Authority. Mayor Garraghan emphasized today that he hadn't "asked anyone" to serve on the KURA.

"We have got to get some people who will work together in the best interests of Kingston," he said. He noted that it is difficult to get men to devote their time to the job.

Frank A. Reis, resigned chairman of the UR board, said he hopes the new board will be permitted to do the work without "interference of any elected officials."

Contests Appear For Area Caucuses

Three or more contests appear on the political scene as both the GOP and Democrat parties caucus and hold conventions this week and next, lining up tickets for the fall election.

Esopus Tonight

In Esopus tonight, Democrats will choose between Lewis Kirschner and George Freer, who having the councilman's nomination once, lost out to the GOP by a mere six votes.

In Saugerties Saturday GOP Councilman Elden Myer is reported not to be seeking renomination. Interested in getting the nod however is Bernard Rinaldi.

Several challengers for incumbent councilman Philip Breithaupt's post are also reported but unnamed in what appears to be a call for an open convention.

Supervisor Peter M. Williams and town clerk, Marion Newkirk are expected to be on the ticket again.

In Saugerties and Wawarsing the GOP holds a convention rather than caucusing as a town.

Convention delegates are selected at district caucuses held prior to the confab.

This year an increase in Saugerties' districts from 11 to 14 adds more delegates to the roster.

Ulster Saturday

A three-way contest for Justice of the Peace in the Town of Ulster is expected at a GOP caucus to be held Saturday 7 p. m. at Chambers School.

Seeking the nomination are incumbent Robert S. Stedje, Sherwood E. Davis, an attorney and Edward J. Devine, presently serving the town as chairman of the Planning Board.

Councilman Anthony Cicoria will seek the nomination for his first four-year term as assessor and two men will seek the nomination for tax collector. Nick Valenzano and Harold Atkins.

Supervisor Thaddeus Musialkiewicz is expected to get the nod for the nomination to seek a second term as is Mrs. Alma Machold, town clerk. Incumbent Edward Callahan seeks renomination for assessor.

Rosendale Monday

In Rosendale Democrats will caucus Monday at 8 p. m. in the Grange Hall. Hurley also plans to make its Democrat designations the same night.

Other announced caucuses for Democrats include: tonight, Esopus and Wawarsing; Friday, Woodstock, Hardenberg, Shawangunk, Lloyd and Plattkill; Saturday, New Paltz and Saugerties; Sunday, Olive.

The GOP has announced its conventions and caucuses for the following dates: tonight, Woodstock; Friday, Lloyd, Shawangunk, Hardenberg, Plattkill and Saugerties; Saturday, Denning, Wawarsing, Esopus, Hurley, Town of Kingston, Olive, Marletown, Rochester, Rosendale and Ulster; Monday, Gardiner and Marlboro.

Capital Footnotes

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, the 59-year-old chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, was reported in good condition at Walter Reed Army Hospital, where he is being treated for what is called minor heart trouble.

The Defense Department has signed nearly $323 million worth of contracts for research and development of the Nike X anti-missile system. The contracts were awarded to several firms.

Twenty and Ten Years Ago

Sept. 7, 1947—Mayor William F. Edelmutz named Mrs. Jack Clair of Chambers Street a former teacher, to the Kingston Board of Education.

Mrs. Tressa Swibold of Kingston was elected associate state councilor at a Daughters of the American Revolution convention in Albany.

Sept. 7, 1957—Stringent water restrictions were expected in the city. It was reported that the city reservoir, Cooper Lake, was dangerously low.

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson planned to offer legislation to make Perrine's Bridge a historical site.

67-68 President Of Jewish Center

The Kingston Jewish Community Council has announced the election of Sam Berger as President for the 1967-1968 term, succeeding Arnold Pinsley who served during the past year. The Council serves its 21 member organization by acting as the coordinating agency for various community activities, such as The U.J.A.-Welfare Fund Drive and the J.C.C. Community Calendar and concerns itself with general community relations and special events such as the recent emergency rally during the Israeli war.

Berger, an executive of the Barclay Knitwear Co., Inc., is a past president of the Jewish Community Center, one of the council's member organizations, and is currently serving on their board of directors and on their finance committee. He is also a member of Zephaniah Lodge B'nai B'rith and of Congregation Ahavath Israel.

A World War II Air Force combat veteran, Berger moved to Kingston from New York City in 1956. He is a graduate of Long Island University and holds a BBA degree in accounting and business administration and has obtained certificates of completion in business law from the New York Institute, as well as an extension course in personnel management and business administration from Cornell University. He presently resides in the Town of Ulster with his wife Beatrice, and their two sons, Eric, 13 and Roy, 9.

Other officers elected to the council were: First vice president, Seymour Werbalowsky; second vice president, Dr. David Kline; treasurer, Mrs. Joseph Horowitz and secretary, Mrs. William Helmrich.

County Court Cases Heard

Three criminal matters and one extradition proceeding were brought before County Judge Raymond J. Mino Wednesday afternoon by District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca.

An extradition proceeding under a governor's warrant sought to have Charles Timothy Strait returned to Georgia where it is alleged he violated parole. The matter was adjourned to Sept. 13 in order to allow defendant time to secure counsel.

Michael Frank Lynch, III, 19, Highland, charged with burglary in the first degree; unlawful entry and second degree grand larceny, entered a plea of guilty to unlawful entry to cover the indictment. William Gruner appeared for defendant. Lynch was sentenced to one year in jail, the sentence to run concurrently with a sentence he is now serving in Comstock prison under another charge.

Clifford Alfred Vandergriff entered a plea of guilty to the charge of criminally possessing a loaded firearm as a felony as indicated. Judge Mino adjourned imposition of sentence until Sept. 27 at 11 a. m. pending receipt of a presentence report from the Probation Department. Remanded to jail.

Acie Lee Rudd entered a plea of guilty to the second count of a two count indictment charging assault, second degree, as a felony. Joseph Saccoman appeared for defendant. Judge Mino adjourned imposition of sentence until Sept. 27 at 11 a. m. pending receipt of a presentence probation report.

Action in Court

On trial in Supreme Court before Justice R. Waldron Herzberg is a contract action brought by Kerhonskon attorney Philip Korn against the New York Telephone Company. Appearing on behalf of himself, Korn seeks to recover damages from the telephone company for an alleged erroneous listing of his phone number in the telephone book in 1965. He was to have received three listings in the book, but alleges the company made an error when the book was published. G. Wallace Bates appears for the telephone company. The action is being tried before a jury.

Bobby Shuns Politics

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Former New York Yankee second baseman Bobby Richardson says he has "no plans whatever" for a political career.

Richardson, whose home is Sumter, S.C., has been mentioned in published reports as a possible candidate for South Carolina's 5th District seat now held by Rep. Tom Gettys, a Democrat.

Since his retirement from baseball after the 1966 season, Richardson, 32, has been in the insurance business.

Britain's Hippies Are Different

LONDON (AP) — Britain's happy band of hippies, the Flower People, say they are different from their American counterparts. The declared aim here is not to "drop out" but to remain in society and change it. Simon Barley, a California drama student now living in London, says: "Our Flower Power is like gun power, fire power, man power. We spread lightness, joy, sunshine."

Lot in Common

Even so, the Flower People still have a lot in common with America's hippies. They stroll along King's Road, Chelsea, in bare feet or sandals. They wear caftans—loose eastern-style tunics, Indian amulets, beads or bells swing from their necks.

They say the peaceful tinkling of the bells enables them to tune out the racket of civilization around them. The bells cost from 50 cents to $1.75. One distributor said he sold nearly 10,000 in a couple of weeks. Further supplies are being airfreighted from India. The Flower People's anthem seems to be the pop song "San Francisco" and they follow its lyrical advice and wear flowers in their hair. Their slogan is "Make Love, Not War." Their ammunition—flowers.

When a police prowl car pulled up at one of the open-air happenings recently, the Flower people opened its doors and practically filled the vehicle with plastic daffodils.

There are probably less than 300 hard-core Flower People in London. Several thousand more adopt the cult at weekends, putting it on as easily as they slip into flowered shirts and psychedelically designed dresses.

Follow the Credo

These weekend adherents turn out to turn on and enjoy themselves by following the credo: "Be Yourself. Do your own thing. Do it now." Their open-air haunts, besides King's Road, include Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly Circus, and the public parks. Indoors they go to the Electric Garden Club in Covent Garden, London's huge flower and vegetable market; or to the UFO Club in north London. Its initials stand for "Unlimited Freak-outs."

Both clubs provide simultaneous showings of underground and other movies, psychedelic lighting effects and dancing to such acid-rock groups as the Nervous System and the Pink Floyd.

Anything goes—including a recent nude ballet at the UFO which caused it to be thrown out of its previous base.

The Flower People say these kinds of experiences help in their search for expanded consciousness. Some also seek expanded consciousness through such drugs as marijuana, methedrin and LSD.

CG Academy Applications Due by Dec. 15

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today urged all young men in the 28th Congressional District who are interested in applying for an appointment to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy to submit applications before Dec. 15.

Academy appointments are based on a national competition without geographic or other quotas. The next annual nationwide competition will com-menace with the college entrance examination board tests on Dec. 2.

Chuck Wagon Helps

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Appetites in the children's ward at Colorado General Hospital have zoomed since the usual steam delivery cart was converted into a ranch-type chuckwagon complete with canvas canopy resembling the pioneer covered wagon.

Congressman Resnick said that prospective applicants should make arrangements to take all required tests through their secondary schools by October 28th. Completed Coast Guard application forms must be received at the Academy by Dec. 15, 1967.

Inquiries and requests concerning admission should be addressed to: Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn.

London. Several thousand more adopt the cult at weekends, putting it on as easily as they slip into flowered shirts and psychedelically designed dresses.

Follow the Credo

These weekend adherents turn out to turn on and enjoy themselves by following the credo: "Be Yourself. Do your own thing. Do it now." Their open-air haunts, besides King's Road, include Trafalgar Square, Piccadilly Circus, and the public parks. Indoors they go to the Electric Garden Club in Covent Garden, London's huge flower and vegetable market; or to the UFO Club in north London. Its initials stand for "Unlimited Freak-outs."

Both clubs provide simultaneous showings of underground and other movies, psychedelic lighting effects and dancing to such acid-rock groups as the Nervous System and the Pink Floyd.

Anything goes—including a recent nude ballet at the UFO which caused it to be thrown out of its previous base.

The Flower People say these kinds of experiences help in their search for expanded consciousness. Some also seek expanded consciousness through such drugs as marijuana, methedrin and LSD.

CG Academy Applications Due by Dec. 15

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today urged all young men in the 28th Congressional District who are interested in applying for an appointment to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy to submit applications before Dec. 15.

Academy appointments are based on a national competition without geographic or other quotas. The next annual nationwide competition will commence with the college entrance examination board tests on Dec. 2.

Chuck Wagon Helps

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Appetites in the children's ward at Colorado General Hospital have zoomed since the usual steam delivery cart was converted into a ranch-type chuckwagon complete with canvas canopy resembling the pioneer covered wagon.

Congressman Resnick said that prospective applicants should make arrangements to take all required tests through their secondary schools by October 28th. Completed Coast Guard application forms must be received at the Academy by Dec. 15, 1967.

Inquiries and requests concerning admission should be addressed to: Director of Admissions, U. S. Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn.

Opening of Block Park Softball Complex Set at 7 Tonight

READY FOR OPENING—Shown above are three of the eight light poles which will be turned on tonight at Block Park when Perry's Rest meets Royal Grill in a City Softball League playoff game. The complex will be used exclusively for softball. Ceremonies will begin at 6:45 and the game is slated to get underway at 7 o'clock. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

The new softball complex at Block Park will be officially opened tonight with Perry's Rest, regular season champions of the City Softball League, meeting Royal Grill, second place club. Game time as scheduled at 7 p. m., after appropriate opening ceremonies.

Mayor Raymond W. Gaughan, alderman Ed Norton, supervisor Dan Smith and Frank Sass, head of the 7th Ward Civic Assn. will take part in ribbon cutting ceremonies at 6:45. Members of the Troop 12 Indian Drum Corps will entertain prior to the ceremonies.

Will Be Enclosed

The playing field at Block is 240 feet down each foul line and in deep center field. This is a regulation semi-pro softball field distance. The area will ultimately be completely enclosed by a six-foot high cyclone fence.

There are eight light poles, two each along first and third base and four evenly distributed in the outfield. All four outfield poles have 10 lights while home plate poles have eight lights each. There are 14 lights each on the poles at first and third base.

All lights are 1,500 watts, giving a total of 126,000 watts. Poles are 55 feet high and each one is individually controlled.

The complex was completed by Rider Electric as per bid specifications. It will be used exclusively for softball.

According to Andrew J. Murphy, III, superintendent of recreation, improvements will be made to the playing area at the conclusion of league play.

Tonight's game matches a pair of talented clubs. Perry's Rest finished the regular season with an easy championship.

Billy Costello will hurl against Subway's George Norton in a battle of veterans.

The series will be a best-of-three with the date for the second game not announced.

Four Under the Umbrella in AL

Twins, Chisox Tie With 78-61

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

First place in the American League is like a can of sardines, an elephant in a Volkswagen, a telephone booth holding 84 college students—crowded.

Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Boston all squeezed into the top spot Wednesday night in a virtual four-way tie which left baseball buffs scratching their heads to recall a similar jam so late in the season.

It took a crowbar to get a percentage point between the four as the Twins and White Sox each sported 78-61 records for a .561 percentage and the Tigers and Red Sox panted that point behind at .560 with 79-72 marks.

"We're purposely doing this," says Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky with a smile. "We want to keep football off pace."

On purpose or not the Tigers rushed in by whipping Kansas City in a two-night doubleheader 8-5 and 6-3; the White Sox entered on tip-toes, nudging California 3-2 in 13 innings; the Red Sox made it by not playing, and the Twins made it all possible by losing an afternoon game to Cleveland 3-2.

No other games were scheduled.

Take Loss in Stride

Manager Cal Ermer of the Twins took his loss in stride and counted on Cleveland to help clean out the crowd.

"I hope Joe Adcock (Indian manager) plays Chicago the same way he played us," Ermer said. "He saved his best pitchers for us, knocked our hitters down and played for keeps. Cleveland has seven games left with the White Sox and four left with Boston, so the Indians could help us a great deal."

His losing pitcher, Dave Boswell, did some brooding after Luis Tiant outdueled him with a seven-hitter and singled in the two decisive runs in the fourth inning.

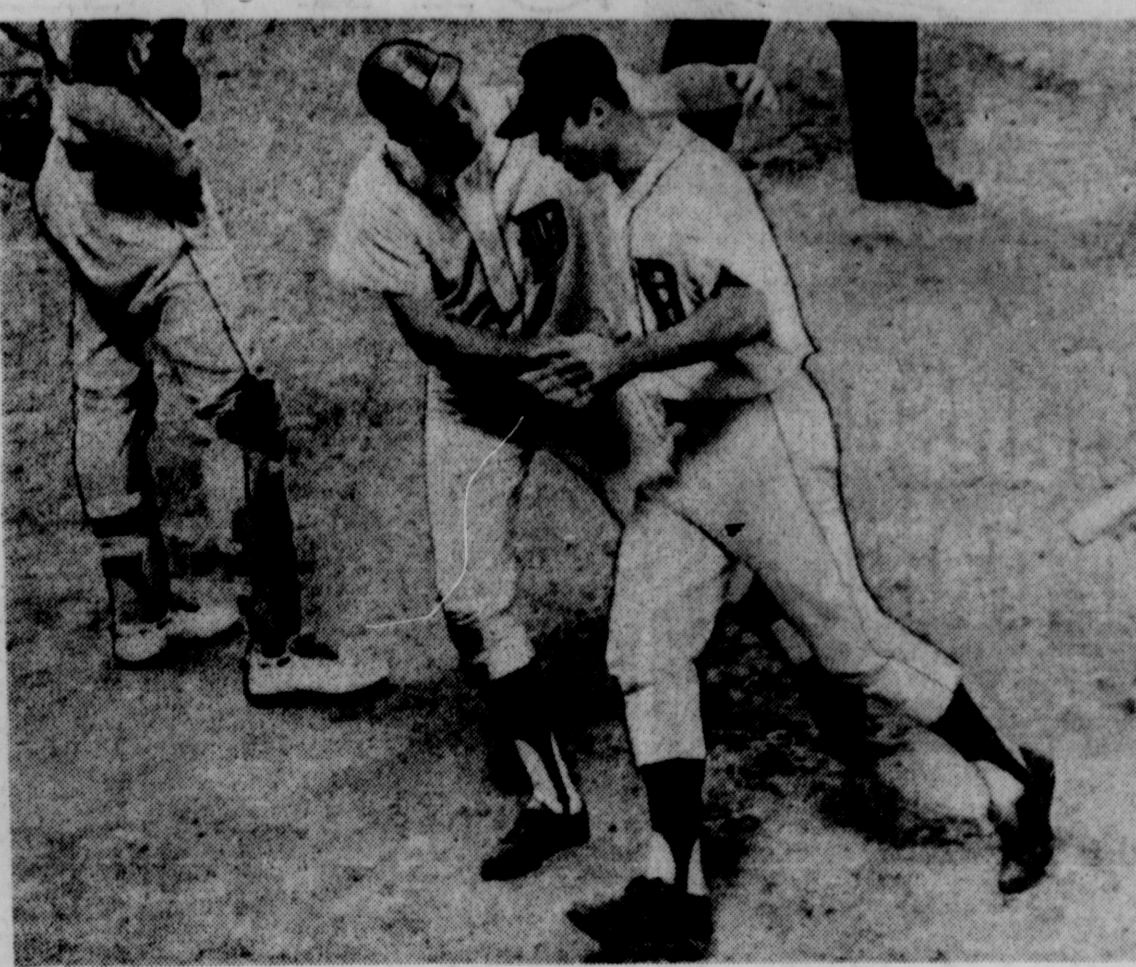

"I was told not to throw fastballs to Tiant because he was supposed to be a good fastball hitter," Boswell said. "So he hit a high slider."

The Twins managed two runs off Tiant, 9-9, in the sixth on Rod Carew's two-run bloop single before Tiant shut the door.

ing win pennants, drove in three the seventh inning of the night game in the opener with two cap for a 4-3 lead.

The White Sox, as is their four-run seventh inning and way, made the scene the hard snapping a 4-4 tie. His first shot against still ambitious California, which had won four straight and seven of eight and could have climbed within five games of the top with a victory.

The Sox needed two runs in the 11th as two runs scored on Bubba Morton's single and a ground out.

Slate Oct. 4 As Series Start

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert has announced the dates for this year's World Series but the bunched American League series could cause a change in plans.

If the pennant is decided when the season winds up Oct. 1, the Series will begin Wednesday, Oct. 4 in the American League and Detroit, were in a virtual first-place tie.

After Wednesday's games, all four American League contenders, Minnesota, Chicago, Boston and Detroit, were in a virtual first-place tie.

Playoff plans, should they be necessary, will be announced by the American League in about 10 days.

Commissioner Eckert also gave authority to the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago White Sox, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and Minnesota Twins to print World Series tickets.

The Cardinals hold a commanding 11½ game lead in the National League.

This year's Army football team has nine lettermen starting on the offensive unit. For five of them, this is their third season at West Point.

Rochester Bows In Playoff Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After losing the International League pennant to the Richmond Braves Tuesday night, the hapless Rochester Red Wings were defeated by Columbus 6-5 in Wednesday night's Governor's Cup playoff series.

In the other playoff game, Richmond beat Toledo 3-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Larry Maxie.

Columbus took the lead in the seventh inning with five runs and never was headed. First baseman Bob Robertson provided the inning's highlight with a three-run homer.

Billy Short was the winner for the Red Sox.

A Mud Hen threat in the ninth inning was staved off when Maxie induced Toledo second baseman Dave Campbell to fly out to center field with the bases loaded.

The next round of the best-of-5 Governor's Cup series will get under way tonight with Toledo again at Richmond and Columbus again at Rochester.

Barnes' Par 72 Leads ENYGA at Wiltwyck

Ed Barnes, veteran Van Schaick (Cohoes) player fired a par 35-37-72 to lead the annual Eastern New York Golf Association tournament Wednesday at Wiltwyck Country Club.

Runnerup was Dick Sauer of Pinehaven with 40-36-76. Charles J. (Jimmy) Turk of the host club posted a 78.

Ed Diederich of Mechanicville and Robert Sharpe of Ballston tied for low gross honors in Class B with 79's. Dr. Charles Kovacs of Wiltwyck had 84. Dr. Henry Jacobs posted 88-11-77.

Dr. Harold Newman of Wiltwyck led the Class C contingent with 84 gross and 73 net. Three other Wiltwyck players scored as follows in Class C: Dr. Morris Kantor, 87-15-72; Dr. Murray Fletcher, 87-15-72; Dr. Dan Potter, 92-18-74.

Successive Birdies

Barnes, a 4 handicap player, had back to back birdies on No. 6 and 7 and parred the last two holes to make the turn in 35. He birdied the par-5 17th on the back nine en route to a 1-over-par 37.

One of the surprise rounds of the day was the incredible 49-36-75 by Charles Murphy, the 3 handicap Pinehaven star and consistent winner on the ENYGA circuit.

The Siena College star and semi-finalist in the 1967 New York State Amateur scored a 49, highest nine in his ENYGA career, then rallied for even par on the back nine for his 75. He birdied both par 5's (12 and 17 coming on. On the front nine, he double-bogeyed No. 3 and 4 and finished 6-8.

Wiltwyck's Swim Team Enjoyed Banner Season

Wiltwyck Country Club honored its youthful swimming team at an awards dinner attended by nearly 100 persons at the club.

Jay Rifenbary received the first place trophy for boys. First place was shared by Susan Helmrich and Pam Randel in the girls division.

Medals and ribbons were presented to first runnersup Nancy Kolln and Terry Allred; second runnersup, Ann Fitzgerald and Mark Sullivan; and third runnersup Anne-Grete Mazzotta, Meg Murphy and Steve Pechloff.

The Wiltwyck team made an impressive showing this season in several events, including the Region I Long Course outdoor championships, and Adirondack AAU meet and in dual competition.

W. James Penrose, president of Wiltwyck Country Club, was the guest speaker at the dinner. Among those honored were Mrs. William Helmrich, Teen-age chairman; Dr. and Mrs. William Fitzgerald. He is the pool chairman. Coach Beth Boyd, Gary Johnson, life guard, and Debbie Rifenbary also received awards.

The evening was climaxed by the showing of films covering pool activities and various meets by Dr. George C. Rifenbary.

Advanced Cross beginner's — Claire Dixon, Pam Shaw, Bob Dorf, Jessica Maloney.

Winrow, Chris Simek, Kenneth Foster, Michael Melahn, Beth Simon, Bonnie Simon, Mary E. Wagner.

Intermediate certificates to: Mary Beth Pechloff, Michael Melahn, Jill Brown, Shari McCullen, Don Murphy, Mary Jo Murphy, Bonnie Simon, Beth Simon.

Certificates of Swimmers to: Maura Connerton, Diane Fitzgerald, Jim Maloney, Meg Murphy, Beth Sullivan, Mark Sullivan, Dave Sullivan, Dave Mullany, Nancy Kolln, Ellen Mullany, Mary Beth Pechloff.

Having adopted the name of Wiltwyck Wildcats, appropriate badges were presented to the following swim team members.

Opening of Block Park Softball Complex Set at 7 Tonight

READY FOR OPENING—Shown above are three of the eight light poles which will be turned on tonight at Block Park when Perry's Rest meets Royal Grill in a City Softball League playoff game. The complex will be used exclusively for softball. Ceremonies will begin at 6:45 and the game is slated to get underway at 7 o'clock. (Freeman photo by Wagenföhr)

Barnes' Par 72 Leads ENYGA at Wiltwyck

Ed Barnes, veteran Van Schaick (Cohoes) player fired a par 35-72 to lead the annual Eastern New York Golf Association tournament, Wednesday at Wiltwyck Country Club.

Runnerup was Dick Sauer of Pinehaven with 40-36-76. Charles J. (Jimmy) Turk of the host club posted a 78.

Ed Diederich of Mechanicville and Robert Sharpe of Ballston tied for low gross honors in Class B with 79's. Dr. Charles Kovacs of Wiltwyck had 84. Dr. Henry Jacobs posted 88-11-77.

Dr. Harold Newman of Wiltwyck led the Class C contingent with 84 gross and 73 net. Three other Wiltwyck players scored as follows in Class C: Dr. Murray Fletcher, 87-15-72; Dr. Murray Fletcher, Wiltwyck, 88-15-73; Dan Potter, 92-18-74.

Successive Birdies

Barnes, a 4 handicap player, had back to back birdies on No. 6 and 7 and parred the last two holes to make the turn in 35. He birdied the par-5 17th on the back nine en route to a 1-over-par 37.

One of the surprise rounds of the day was the incredible 49-36-75 by Charles Murphy, the 3 handicap Pinehaven star and consistent winner on the ENYGA circuit.

The Siena College star and semi-finalist in the 1967 New York State Amateur scored a 49, highest nine in his ENYGA career, then rallied for even par on the back nine for his 75. He birdied both par 5's (12 and 17 coming on. On the front nine, he double-bogeyed No. 3 and 4 and finished 6-8.

The scores:

Class A

E. Barnes, Van Schaick, 72-4-68; J. Bochetti, Mechanicville, 77-8-69; D. Sauer, Pinehaven, 76-4-72; C. Turk, Wiltwyck, 78-6-72; E. Wilk, Brookhaven, 81-8-73; J. Hathorn Jr., Ballston, 80-7-73; A. Tetreault, Winding Brk., 81-8-73; J. Sadowski Sr., Mechanicville, 81-8-73; E. Evers, Van Schaick, 81-7-74; T. Valentini, Van Schaick, 79-5-74; B. Smith, Winding Brook, 79-5-74; J. Healy, Mechanicville, 78-4-74.

Prize Winners—Gross 1. Ed Barnes; 2. Dick Sauer; 3. Jerry Healy; 4. tie between Tom Valentini and Robert Smith. Net 1. James Bochetti; 2. Charles Turk; 3. John Hathorn Jr., on draw.

Wiltwyck's Swim Team Enjoyed Banner Season

Wiltwyck Country Club honored its youthful swimming team at an awards dinner attended by nearly 100 persons at the club.

Jay Rifenburg received the first place trophy for boys. First place was shared by Susan Helmrich and Pam Randel in the girls division.

Medals and ribbons were presented to first runnersup Nancy Kollin and Terry Allred; second runnersup, Ann Fitzgerald and Mark Sullivan; and third runnersup Anne-Grete Mazziotto, Meg Murphy and Steve Pechloff.

The Wiltwyck team made an impressive showing this season in several events, including the Region I Long Course outdoor championships, and Adirondack AAU meet and in dual competition.

The new softball complex at Block Park will be officially opened tonight with Perry's Rest, regular season champions of the City Softball League, meeting Royal Grill, second place club. Game time as scheduled at 7 p. m., after appropriate opening ceremonies.

Mayor Raymond W. Garraghy, alderman Ed Norton, supervisor Dan Smith and Frank Sass, head of the 7th Ward Civic Assn. will take part in ribbon cutting ceremonies at 6:45. Members of the Troop 12 Indian Drum Corps will entertain prior to the ceremonies.

Will Be Enclosed

The playing field at Block is 240 feet down each foul line and in deep center field. This is a regulation semi-pro softball base.

All lights are 1,500 watts, giving a total of 128,000 watts. Poles are 55 feet high and each one is individually controlled.

The complex was completed by Rider Electric as per bid specifications. It will be used exclusively for softball.

According to Andrew J. Murphy, III, superintendent of recreation, improvements will be made to the playing area at the conclusion of league play. Tonight's game matches a pair of talented clubs. Perry's Rest finished the regular season with an easy championship.

Billy Costello will hurl against Subway's George Norton in a battle of veterans.

The series will be a best-of-three with the date for the second game not announced.

Four Under the Umbrella in AL

Twins, Chisox Tie With 78-61

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

First place in the American League is like a can of sardines, an elephant in a Volkswagen, a telephone booth holding 84 college students—crowded.

Minnesota, Chicago, Detroit and Boston all squeezed into the top spot Wednesday night in a virtual four-way tie which left baseball buffs scratching their heads to recall a similar jam so late in the season.

It took a crowbar to get a percentage point between the four as the Twins and White Sox each sported 78-61 records for 561 percentage and the Tigers and Red Sox panted that point behind at 560 with 79-72 marks.

"We're purposely doing this," says Chicago Manager Eddie Stanky with a smile. "We want to keep football off pace."

On purpose or not the Tigers rushed in by whipping Kansas City in a two-night doubleheader 8-5 and 6-3; the White Sox entered on tip-toes, nudging California 3-2 in 13 innings; the Red Sox made it by not playing, and the Twins made it all possible by losing an afternoon game to Cleveland 3-2.

No other games were scheduled.

Take Loss in Stride

Manager Cal Ermer of the Twins took his loss in stride and counted on Cleveland to help clean out the crowd.

"I hope Joe Adcock (Indian manager) plays Chicago the same way he played us," Ermer said. "He saved his best pitchers for us, knocked our hitters down and played for keeps. Cleveland has seven games left with the White Sox and four left with Boston, so the Indians could help us a great deal."

His losing pitcher, Dave Boswell, did some brooding after Luis Tiant outduelled him with a seven-hitter and singled in the two decisive runs in the fourth inning.

"I was told not to throw fastballs to Tiant because he was supposed to be a good fastball hitter," Boswell said. "So he hit a high slider."

The Twins managed two runs off Tiant, 9-9, in the sixth on Rod Carew's two-run bloop single before Tiant shut the door.

ing win pennants, drove in three the seventh inning of the night-run in the opener with two cap for a 4-3 lead.

The White Sox, as is their way, made the scene the hard way against still ambitious California, which had won four straight and seven of eight and could have climbed within five games of the top with a victory.

The Sox needed two runs in the 11th on pinch hitter Smoky Burgess' run-scoring double and a passed ball that let in another run to get to the 13th. Then Duane Josephson singled with one out in the 13th and Ken Berry ended the 4-hour, 43-minute battle with a run-scoring double off Pete Grimsom, the sixth California pitcher.

The Angels scored first in the 11th as two runs scored on Bubba Morton's single and a ground-

Slate Oct. 4 As Series Start

NEW YORK (AP)—Baseball Commissioner William D. Eckert has announced the dates for this year's World Series but the bunched American League race could cause a change in plans.

If the pennant is decided when the season winds up Oct. 1, the Series will begin Wednesday, Oct. 4 in the American League winner's park. The second game will be played Thursday, Oct. 5.

After a day off for travel, the Series will resume Saturday, Oct. 7 in the National League park. Game four will be played Sunday, Oct. 8 and the fifth game, if needed, will be Monday, Oct. 9. If a sixth and seventh game are needed, they will be played Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 11-12.

An American League pennant manding 11½-game lead in the tie could scramble those plans considerably. Under AL regulations, should two teams tie for the pennant they would play a best-of-3 series, if three teams join the mix, a maximum of five games could be played in a round robin season at West Point.

Rochester Bows In Playoff Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

After losing the International League pennant to the Richmond Braves Tuesday night, the hapless Rochester Red Wings were defeated by Columbus 6-5 in Wednesday night's Governor's Cup playoff series.

In the other playoff game, Richmond beat Toledo 3-0 behind the seven-hit pitching of Larry Maxie.

Columbus took the lead in the seventh inning with five runs and never was headed. First baseman Bob Robertson provided the inning's highlight with a three-run homer.

Billy Short was the winner for the Jets.

A Mud Hen threat in the ninth inning was staved off when Maxie induced Toledo second baseman Dave Campbell to fly out to center field with the bases loaded.

The next round of the best-of-5 Governor's Cup series will get under way tonight with Toledo again at Richmond and Columbus again at Rochester.

Pick Packers - Rams In Big, Bad West

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay will win the West, Who else? The Packers already have installed an electric heating system to warm the field for the Dec. 31 tie game.

The Packers convinced both the NFL and the AFL last season when they added the Super Bowl to their triumphs in the National Football League.

Green Bay's opponent on New Year's Eve probably will be Dallas. Before that game, they must dispose of the Los Angeles Rams, who are the pick here to take the Coastal Division of the West.

It looks like a big season for the snow boot and parka set.

Green Bay winds up its regular season at home, Dec. 19. If they win the Central Division, as expected, they play the Coastal winner at Green Bay Sat. Dec. 23. If they win that they play the Eastern champs Dec. 31, once more at Green Bay.

CENTRAL

1. Green Bay
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago

COASTAL

1. Los Angeles
2. San Francisco
3. Baltimore
4. Atlanta

It may take a year or two for Donny Anderson and Jim Grawski to make people forget about Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor. It may. The Gold Dust Twins are ready to cut loose after watching from the bench most of last year.

Bart Can Do It

When Bart Starr can't play, Zeke Bratkowski can do the job as the Dallas Cowboys discovered in their Aug. 28 exhibition game. The Pack's 20-3 victory in preseason convinced many Texans that last year's game in the Cotton Bowl was no mistake.

Defense is the big item at Green Bay. Willie Davis, Henry Jordan and Co., plus those three linebackers and a talented deep defense shut down tight when the enemy threatens.

The runner-up to Green Bay is a wide open scramble. Minnesota appears to have troubles at quarterback, now that Fran Tarkenton is gone. Perhaps Bud Grant, the new coach, will find the answer early but the safe thing to do is to give him time to get things together by mid-season.

Despite their shocking defeat by Denver in the first NFL-AFL game, Detroit appears to be putting things together. Whether Joe Schmidt finally settles on Karl Sweeten or Milt Plum, the No. 1 quarterback will have fine targets in Pat Studstill, Gail Cogdill and Bill Malinchak.

Much depends on Mel Farr and the injured Nick Eddy, two prize rookies. The Lions' defense is getting old together but still can rise to the occasion.

Bears Have Problems

Chicago has many problems, aggravated by retirements, injuries and trades. Jack Concannon's slow recovery from arm trouble has left the quarterback job unsettled. The one big plus is Gale Sayers, the best game-breaker in pro football.

The new divisional setup should prove a boon to Los Angeles, San Francisco and Baltimore, who can hand wrestle for a title without having to contend with Green Bay on a home-and-home basis. Atlanta is in the same division but hardly rates as a contender despite improvement.

John Unitas is the reason the Colts are favored in most preseason polls to beat out the Rams and 49ers. Unitas always has been able to beat San Francisco just by walking out on the field. However, some doubts about Unitas' ability to go all the way have swung this observer off the Colts despite their rugged defense.

Los Angeles can take it all if Tommy Mason and Dick Bass stay healthy. Bass made it in every game last year. Mason, who wears 3½ pounds of tape around his knees, has been a part timer at Minnesota for years. George Allen rested both in the exhibitions and hopes to get full use in the regular season.

Strong at Quarters

Roman Gabriel and Bill Munson are capable quarterbacks and they have receivers like Jack Snow, Bernie Casey and Tommy McDonald. Most of all, the Rams have that fearsome lousome up front on defense—Lamar Lundy, Deacon Jones, Merlin Olsen and Rosey Grier.

Grier, however, suffered a leg injury last Friday night in an exhibition game against Kansas City and is expected to be sidelined at least two months.

The 49ers, a mixed-up club last year, are sniffing big money this season. The defense is questionable but they can move the ball with John Brodie throwing to Dave Parks and John Davidson Crow and Ken Willard running up the middle.

Central Rec

Baltimore's offense sagged last year when they scored only seven touchdowns rushing. It will be up to the defense to keep them in the game while waiting for Unitas to throw the bomb.

The Falcons have added Tom Moore to help their running after Denny Lemaster won the opener for the Braves with an eight-hitter.

Tarkenton Feature Will Start Friday

The weekly column on pro football by Fran Tarkenton, originally scheduled for publication today, will appear instead in Friday's issue.

Briles Buys Cards

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When a line drive fractured Bob Gibson's right leg two months ago, the St. Louis Cardinals' pennant hopes appeared certain to crack at the seams.

Then Nelson Briles threw his right arm into the breach... and never let go.

Now Gibson's ready to put his best foot forward again, but there's no relief in sight for Briles.

Briles, an unheralded member of the bullpen brigade until July 15, when Gibson was felled by a Roberto Clemente liner, rolled to his sixth straight victory Wednesday night, scattering five hits as the National League-leading Cardinals trimmed the New York Mets 3-1.

While Briles was limiting the Mets to an unearned run, San Francisco's Gaylord Perry and Philadelphia's Jim Bunning were throwing blanks at Houston and Cincinnati, respectively.

Perry beat the Astros 2-0 with a three-hitter, running his scoreless streak to 34 innings, and Bunning flipped a six-hitter in stopping the Reds 9-0 for the 38th shutout of his career. Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 6-3 and Atlanta split a doubleheader at Pittsburgh, winning the opener 4-1 and dropping the nightcap by the same score.

Briles, a stocky right-hander who finished the 1966 season with a 4-15 mark, is 11-5 this year, with seven victories in nine decisions since he stepped into the starting rotation. He has completed three of his last four starts and leads St. Louis starters with a sparkling 2.50 ERA.

The Cards were four games in front when Gibson was hurt. They lead the pack by 1½ games today.

Gibson returns to action tonight against the Mets. But Briles will not lose his spot in the rotation. Instead, Manager Red Schoendienst said, southpaw Larry Jaster will go to the bullpen.

Briles and New York's Jack Fisher were locked in a 1-1 duel until the eighth inning, when the Cards' pitcher singled, took second when left fielder Tommy Davis bobbled the ball, reached third on Lou Brock's punt and scored on a sacrifice fly by Curt Flood. Mike Shannon's ninth-inning homer provided an insurance run.

Perry, who had pitched 16 scoreless innings in the Giants' 1-0, 21-inning victory over Cincinnati last Friday night and had shut out Los Angeles in his previous start, brought his record to 12-15 by taming the Astros. He also capped the Giants' deciding two-run rally in the seventh inning with a run-scoring single.

Bunning, 15-12, added 10 strikeouts to his NL lead and pulled within one shutout of the Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who leads active pitchers with a career total of 39. The Phillies backed the veteran right-hander with a 13-hit attack in thumping Cincinnati ace Jim Maloney.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the eighth inning to overtake the Cubs, Ron Fairly triggering the rally with a homer and Ron Hunt breaking a 3-3 tie with an RBI single. Bob Bailey and Willie Davis homered for Los Angeles and Ron Santo delivered all the Chicago runs with a homer and single.

Al McBean scattered six hits and knocked in three runs with a triple and bases-loaded walk, leading the Pirates past Atlanta after Denny Lemaster won the opener for the Braves with an eight-hitter.

Bill Marks Winner Of President's Cup

Bill Marks posted a 3-under-par net 141 to capture the annual President's Cup competition.

He put together rounds of 80 and 77 for 157 gross and had combined handicap of 16 strokes.

Runner-up and two strokes off the pace was Kenneth Davenport, with 179-36-143 on rounds of 91-88. Bill Kaufman (77-73) placed high with net 150-6-144.

Also at net 144 was Dr. Murray Fletcher (93-89) with 182-39. Harvey Bostic, playing with plus one handicap fired 74-69-143 on his own ball and added two handicap strokes for net 145. Leon Randall, playing at scratch handicap, carded 76-70-146.

Flag Winners

Bill Marks, using his President's Cup scores, also led the flag tournament, finishing 2 feet from the 19th cup with his allotment of 8 strokes. Bill Kaufman was second 22 yards from 19th cup.

Stan Hankinson was 40 yards from 19th cup; Ken Davenport, 75 yards; Mike Amato and Conrad Heisman in 18th cup; George Cosenza, 3 feet from cup 18; Robert E. Davis, 4½ feet from 18th cup and Phil Battaglia 22½ feet from 18th green.

Slate Season For Wild Turkey

Eastern New York's wild turkey season will run Oct. 2-8 in Delaware, Greene, Otsego and Schoharie Counties, the State Conservation Department announced today.

A free, special permit is required for the week-long season in addition to a 1967-68 small game hunting license. Applications for a permit will be accepted from Sept. 14 through Oct. 4 by mail or in person. Correspondence should be addressed to: Regional Game Manager, New York State Conservation Department, Stamford, N. Y. 12167. An applicant must submit his name, address and registration number from his 1967-68 small game hunting license.

This marks the fifth consecutive wild turkey season in the Catskill section of the state. In 1967 one hunter in 24 took a turkey.

Behnke's Birds Steal the Show

A Highland pigeon fancier, Lee Behnke has scored a rare sweep of the first three places in the 200-mile race sponsored by the Kingston-Ulster Pigeon Racing Club from Aberdeen, Maryland.

Behnke's entries topped an unusually heavy entry of 262 birds from 27 lofts and were clocked in 1271.313, 1270.026 and 1269.303 yards per minute. Birds owned by Dick Bright, of Saugerties placed third and fourth, with average speeds of 1268.264 and 1265.237.

Other leaders:

Gene Barry, Gardiner, 1257.770; Ed Carvello, Highland, 1255.307; Tony Lanzarone, Highland, 1214.644; Charles Doyle

Pick Packers - Rams
In Big, Bad West

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK (AP) — Green Bay will win the West, Who else? The Packers already have installed an electric heating system to warm the field for the Dec. 31 tie game.

The Packers convinced both the NFL and the AFL last season when they added the Super Bowl to their triumphs in the National Football League.

Green Bay's opponent on New Year's Eve probably will be Dallas. Before that game, they must dispose of the Los Angeles Rams, who are the pick here to take the Coastal Division of the West.

It looks like a big season for the snow boot and parka set.

Green Bay winds up its regular season at home, Dec. 19. If they win the Central Division, as expected, they play the Coastal winner at Green Bay Sat. Dec. 23. If they win that they play the Eastern champs Dec. 31, once more at Green Bay.

Here's the way the West looks from here:

CENTRAL

1. Green Bay
2. Detroit
3. Minnesota
4. Chicago

COASTAL

1. Los Angeles
2. San Francisco
3. Baltimore
4. Atlanta

It may take a year or two for Donny Anderson and Jim Grabowski to make people forget about Paul Hornung and Jim Taylor. It may. The Gold Dust Twins are ready to cut loose after watching from the bench most of last year.

Bart Can Do It

When Bart Starr can't play, Zeke Bratkowski can do the job as the Dallas Cowboys discovered in their Aug. 23 exhibition game. The Pack's 20-3 victory in preseason convinced many Texans that last year's game in the Cotton Bowl was no mistake.

Defense is the big item at Green Bay. Willie Davis, Henry Jordan and Co. plus those three linebackers and a talented deep defense shut down tight when the enemy threatens.

The runner-up to Green Bay is a wide open scramble. Minnesota appears to have troubles at quarterback, now that Fran Tarkenton is gone. Perhaps, Bud Grant, the new coach, will find the answer early but the safe thing to do is to give him time to get things together by mid-season.

Ferraro Hit .292
For Spokane Club

Mike Ferraro finished his regular season in the Pacific Coast League with a .292 batting average. In 53 games, the former Kingston High star athlete had 56 hits in 192 trips to the plate.

Included were 12 doubles, four triples and a home run. Ferraro also scored 20 runs and swiped two bases. He made only seven errors in those 53 games.

Chuck Stewart, who covers the club for the Spokane Chronicle, said Ferraro's play at third base was one of the reasons why Spokane was able to win the Western division championship.

"When the Yankees recalled Roy White, we had to have a good third baseman. We were fortunate to get Ferraro from Syracuse. The Chiefs haven't solved their problem since Mike left," Stewart said.

Ferraro's average was the third highest mark on the team.

San Diego beat Spokane, 10-4, in the first game of their best-of-seven series Wednesday. The clubs will play again tonight and Friday in San Diego.

Yesterday's Stars
BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
PITCHING — Gaylord Perry, Giants, extended his scoreless string to 34 innings by cutting down Houston 2-0 on three hits.

BATTING — Eddie Mathews, Tigers, cracked his second homer of the first game, snapping a tie and launching Detroit to a doubleheader sweep over Kansas City 8-5 and 6-3.

The states of Pennsylvania and Ohio are represented with nine players each on the 1967 Navy football squad.

Briles Buys Cards
By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

When a line drive fractured Bob Gibson's right leg two months ago, the St. Louis Cardinals' pennant hopes appeared certain to crack at the seams.

Then Nelson Briles threw his right arm into the breach... and never let go.

Now Gibson's ready to put his best foot forward again, but there's no relief in sight for Briles.

Briles, an unheralded member of the bullpen brigade until July 15, when Gibson was felled by a Roberto Clemente liner, rolled to his sixth straight victory Wednesday night, scattering five hits as the National League-leading Cardinals trimmed the New York Mets 3-1.

While Briles was limiting the Mets to an unearned run, San Francisco's Gaylord Perry and Philadelphia's Jim Bunning were throwing blanks at Houston and Cincinnati, respectively.

Perry beat the Astros 2-0 with a three-hitter, running his scoreless streak to 34 innings, and Bunning flipped a six-hitter in stopping the Reds 9-0 for the 38th shutout of his career. Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 6-3 and Atlanta split a doubleheader at Pittsburgh, winning the opener 4-1 and dropping the nightcap by the same score.

Briles, a stocky right-hander who finished the 1966 season with a 4-15 mark, is 11-5 this year, with seven victories in nine decisions since he stepped into the starting rotation. He has completed three of his last four starts and leads St. Louis starters with a sparkling 2.50 ERA.

The Cards were four games in front when Gibson was hurt. They lead the pack by 11½ games today.

Gibson returns to action tonight against the Mets. But Briles will not lose his spot in the rotation. Instead, Manager Red Schoendienst said, southpaw Larry Jaster will go to the bullpen.

Briles and New York's Jack Fisher were locked in a 1-1 duel until the eighth inning, when the Cards' pitcher singled, took second when left fielder Tommy Davis bobbled the ball, reached third on Lou Brock's punt and scored on a sacrifice fly by Curt Flood. Mike Shannon's ninth-inning homer provided an insurance run.

Perry, who had pitched 16 scoreless innings in the Giants' 1-0, 21-inning victory over Cincinnati last Friday night and had shut out Los Angeles in his previous start, brought his record to 12-15 by taming the Astros. He also capped the Giants' deciding two-run rally in the seventh inning with a run-scoring single.

Bunning, 15-12, added 10 strikeouts to his NL lead and pulled within one shutout of the Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who leads active pitchers with a career total of 39. The Phillies backed the veteran right-hander with a 13-hit attack in thumping Cincinnati ace Jim Maloney.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the eighth inning to overtake the Cubs, Ron Fairly triggering the rally with a homer and Ron Hunt breaking a 3-3 tie with an RBI single. Bob Bailey and Willie Davis homered for Los Angeles and Ron Santo delivered all the Chicago runs with a homer and single.

Al McBean scattered six hits and knocked in three runs with a triple and bases-loaded walk, leading the Pirates past Atlanta after Denny Lemaster won the opener for the Braves with an eight-hitter.

Tarkenton Feature Will Start Friday

Then Nelson Briles threw his right arm into the breach... and never let go.

Now Gibson's ready to put his best foot forward again, but there's no relief in sight for Briles.

Briles, an unheralded member of the bullpen brigade until July 15, when Gibson was felled by a Roberto Clemente liner, rolled to his sixth straight victory Wednesday night, scattering five hits as the National League-leading Cardinals trimmed the New York Mets 3-1.

While Briles was limiting the Mets to an unearned run, San Francisco's Gaylord Perry and Philadelphia's Jim Bunning were throwing blanks at Houston and Cincinnati, respectively.

Perry beat the Astros 2-0 with a three-hitter, running his scoreless streak to 34 innings, and Bunning flipped a six-hitter in stopping the Reds 9-0 for the 38th shutout of his career. Los Angeles downed the Chicago Cubs 6-3 and Atlanta split a doubleheader at Pittsburgh, winning the opener 4-1 and dropping the nightcap by the same score.

Briles, a stocky right-hander who finished the 1966 season with a 4-15 mark, is 11-5 this year, with seven victories in nine decisions since he stepped into the starting rotation. He has completed three of his last four starts and leads St. Louis starters with a sparkling 2.50 ERA.

The Cards were four games in front when Gibson was hurt. They lead the pack by 11½ games today.

Gibson returns to action tonight against the Mets. But Briles will not lose his spot in the rotation. Instead, Manager Red Schoendienst said, southpaw Larry Jaster will go to the bullpen.

Briles and New York's Jack Fisher were locked in a 1-1 duel until the eighth inning, when the Cards' pitcher singled, took second when left fielder Tommy Davis bobbled the ball, reached third on Lou Brock's punt and scored on a sacrifice fly by Curt Flood. Mike Shannon's ninth-inning homer provided an insurance run.

Perry, who had pitched 16 scoreless innings in the Giants' 1-0, 21-inning victory over Cincinnati last Friday night and had shut out Los Angeles in his previous start, brought his record to 12-15 by taming the Astros. He also capped the Giants' deciding two-run rally in the seventh inning with a run-scoring single.

Bunning, 15-12, added 10 strikeouts to his NL lead and pulled within one shutout of the Dodgers' Don Drysdale, who leads active pitchers with a career total of 39. The Phillies backed the veteran right-hander with a 13-hit attack in thumping Cincinnati ace Jim Maloney.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the eighth inning to overtake the Cubs, Ron Fairly triggering the rally with a homer and Ron Hunt breaking a 3-3 tie with an RBI single. Bob Bailey and Willie Davis homered for Los Angeles and Ron Santo delivered all the Chicago runs with a homer and single.

Al McBean scattered six hits and knocked in three runs with a triple and bases-loaded walk, leading the Pirates past Atlanta after Denny Lemaster won the opener for the Braves with an eight-hitter.

Bill Marks Winner Of President's Cup

Bill Marks posted a 3-under-par net 141 to capture the annual President Cup competition. He put together rounds of 80 and 77 for 157 gross and had combined handicap of 16 strokes.

Runnerup and two strokes off the pace was Kenneth Davenport, with 179-36-143 on rounds of 91-88. Bill Kaufman (77-73) placed high with net 150-6-144. Also at net 144 was Dr. Murray Fletcher (93-89) with 182-39. Harvey Bostic, playing with plus one handicap fired 74-69-143 on his own ball and added two handicap strokes for net 145. Leon Randall, playing at scratch handicap, carded 76-70-146.

Other leaders included: Charles King (87-90), 177-30-147; Frank Murray (82-80), 162-14-148; Charles J. Turck (79-76), 155-6-149; and Don Distel (84-82), 168-18-150.

Flag Winners

Bill Marks, using his President's Cup scores, also led the Flag tournament, finishing 2 feet from the 19th cup with his allotment of 8 strokes. Bill Kaufman was second 22 yards from 19th cup.

Stan Hankinson was 40 yards from 19th cup; Ken Davenport, 75 yards; Mike Amato and Conrad Heisman in 18th cup; George Coenza, 3 feet from cup 18;

Losing Candidates Want Vietnam Election Voided

SAIGON (AP) — Six civilian presidential candidates in South Vietnam asked the Constituent Assembly today to void the election of Nguyen Van Thieu, claiming they have evidence it was rigged.

"Each of us is making separate complaints. I have six," said Trung Dinh Dzu, the Saigon lawyer who ran second to Thieu and his running mate, Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, in the election last Sunday.

The government countered with charges that the Viet Cong electioneered on behalf of Dzu. The official government news agency Vietnam Press quoted a captured Viet Cong to back up the charge.

Four of the candidates told newsmen they are joining with four others defeated in the elections to form an antigovernment front that does "not recognize these fraudulent elections."

"We are asking for a nationwide recount of all the provinces," Dzu said.

The assembly must rule by Oct. 2 on all charges of election irregularity. If it finds too many of them, it can nullify the election and call a new one.

Most of Saigon's Vietnamese-language newspapers printed an Associated Press report from Washington that expert official analysts there noted Dzu's areas of voting strength included some of the most insecure in South Vietnam and considered it conceivable that there was some Viet Cong support for him.

Vietnam Press claimed that police in Kien Giang Province had captured a Viet Cong agent whose "confession" said the Viet Cong had "ordered their subordinates to urge the people to vote for the Trung Dinh Dzu slate."

The agency said sources told it the Viet Cong had made the order because Dzu "is one of the friends of lawyer Nguyen Huu Tho, chairman of the South Vietnam National Liberation Front," the political arm of the Viet Cong.

Although U.S. officials in Saigon said there was no evidence to link Dzu with the Communists, he was Thieu's defense attorney during trials under the French colonial regime and that of President Ngo Dinh Diem, and he also claims to be in touch with the central committee of the North Vietnamese Communist party and the National Liberation Front.

Woodstock Man Arrested on Nuisance Count

John "Jocko" Moffitt, 27, Woodstock, who was arrested by Sheriff's department men Tuesday afternoon on a warrant charging "theft of services," again found himself involved with the law Wednesday when he was arrested on a warrant charging "criminal nuisance."

The arrest by Sheriff William B. Martin, County Investigator Harold T. Bowers and Deputy Sheriff Michael Giordano came under a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Calvin H. Cody of Town of Saugerties. Moffitt was released in $50 bail for a hearing Sept. 27 at 8 p. m. He was represented by Saugerties Attorney Daniel Lamb. A plea of not guilty was entered.

Moffitt, who is allegedly a leader in the "Sound Out" movement on the former Spiess farm on Glasco Turnpike, Town of Saugerties, near the town of Woodstock line, was arrested following the petitioning of some 45 residents of the area who charged that the group was committing a nuisance.

The petition charged unlawful conduct, unreasonable noise in the night with the playing of bongo drums and amplified singing in the area which disturbed residents of the neighborhood.

The premises had been rented from the owner, Pam Copeland, proprietor of a Woodstock delicatessen, according to Investigator Bowers, and was the scene of a demonstration over the Labor Day weekend.

The arrest of Moffitt on Tuesday was under a Kingston City Court warrant which charged "theft of services" which formerly was a charge of defrauding an innkeeper. At that time he was held in $500 bail for appearance in City Court. The warrant was served on Moffitt at the Sound Out grounds on Glasco Turnpike.

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam's Servicemen's Committee of Ulster Hose Co. No. 5 by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

SP/4 Robert Rutledge writes the following:
"I am a soldier in Vietnam and on behalf of the soldiers from Ulster County I would like to thank all of you for letting us know that we're not forgotten or alone in this war-torn country, so far away from home."

"No words can explain the appreciation we feel when we receive a gift from all of our neighbors that we may have never met in our community before. I want all of you to know there are many soldiers here in Vietnam whose own families don't even write to. If there were more people like all of you it wouldn't matter as much because if they knew they had friends who thought and care about them and really wanted them to come home, many more would return safely."

"I want to thank all of you again and please keep up the good work."

The following letter was written in Vietnam by T/Sgt. Lawrence S. Smith:

"I received your gifts and want to thank you for thinking of us over here. It makes my job easier to know that the people back home are behind me."

"It is easier to fight an evil force on foreign land knowing that your loved ones are safe at home because the aggressive force is being stopped before it reaches our homeland."

"I wish that all the people of the United States were like you and not blind to the facts. If they had to live the way the people of Vietnam have to, they wouldn't take freedom for granted."

"Some times the free-born don't take time to see how his brother lives, but then he speaks about it as if he was a professor of human relations."

Negro Involvement In Theater Better

BY GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
(For BOB THOMAS)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How goes the Negroes' drive for more work in movies and television?

Negro comedian Godfrey Cambridge reports "a slight improvement," but:

All-Negro Show
"I'm still waiting to see a Negro variety show, to see Lena Horne and Harry Belafonte have their own shows. I'm tired of his getting 20-minute segments—always as somebody's guest."

"I'm still waiting for Sidney Poitier to make love to a real, live Negro woman . . . not a white chick who, it turns out, is blind," Elizabeth Hartman in "A Patch of Blue."

The man with the statistics is Davis Roberts, 50, a Negro actor and an official of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Says Roberts: I don't want to give the impression that everything is hunky-dory, but a beginning has been made."

The NAACP branch holds quarterly meetings—and has been doing so since 1964—with craft representatives under auspices of the producers' association. Representatives of management and guilds report on Negro employment.

Latest available comparisons show that in the three months ended last June 30, 29 Negro actors were cast in movies, compared with 7 in the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1965. (Production generally was up 26 features this year against 14 in the 1965 period.)

Earned $38,000
Negro extras earned, in round numbers, $38,000 in the 1967 quarter, in both movies and TV, compared with $32,000 in the 1965 period.

"But the thing that strikes me," Roberts says of the employment tables, "is that 10 per cent of the minority-group extras do not earn 10 per cent of the money."

Negroes, Orientals, Mexicans, Hindus, U.S. Indians and Polynesians constitute 10 per cent of the registered extras. In this year's quarter they earned 6.94 per cent of extras' total pay—not much above the 1965 period's 6.5 per cent.

Still, Roberts said: "I don't think figures are the significant thing. We are concerned with the Negroes' image that films and TV present to the world."

In 1944 the NAACP complained to producers that Negro actors were cast only in stereotyped roles—cooks, maids, chauffeurs and objects of laughter.

Results were twofold, says Roberts: 1) Negroes often were not considered for defense-platoon employment and 2) fewer such roles were created.

"For a long time, nothing replaced the stereotype roles," he says. "The moviemakers thought they had answered the criticism by eliminating them."

A complaint heard now is the new Negro stereotype: the well-groomed man with briefcase and no real involvement in the plot.

But last month, at a Beverly Hills-Hollywood NAACP branch presented "image awards" to 10 TV programs for improved presentation of Negroes. Recipients included "Mission: Impossible," "Big Valley," "I Spy," "Hogan's Heroes," "Daktari" and "Star Trek."

There is some movement in this direction at all major studios," Roberts said, noting Negroes in jobs as publicists, switchboard operators, secretaries, file clerks, timekeepers, watchmen, guards and prop makers—as well as janitors.

"The changes, though slight as they are," said Roberts, "reflect a growing awareness of the fair thing to do."

Our Boys Write From Vietnam

Editor's Note: The Kingston Daily Freeman is privileged to publish letters written to the Ulster County Vietnam Service Committee of Ulster County, N. Y. by Kingston area men serving with the armed forces in Vietnam. We hope in this way we can better let our readers know how our boys in service feel.

SP/4 Robert Rutledge writes the following:

"I am a soldier in Vietnam and on behalf of the soldiers from Ulster County I would like to thank all of you for letting us know that we're not forgotten or alone in this war torn country, so far away from home.

"No words can explain the appreciation we feel when we receive a gift from all of our neighbors that we may have never met in our community before. I want all of you to know there are many soldiers here in Vietnam whose own families don't even write to. If there were more people like all of you it wouldn't matter as much because if they knew they had friends who thought home because the aggressive force is being stopped before it reaches our homeland.

"I wish that all the people of the United States were like you and not blind to the facts. If they had to live the way the people of Vietnam have to, they wouldn't take freedom for granted.

"Some times the free-born don't take time to see how his brother lives, but then he speaks about it as if he was a professor of human relations."

The following letter was written in Vietnam by T/Sgt. Laverne S. Smith:

"I received your gifts and want to thank you for thinking of us over here. It makes my job easier to know that the people back home are behind me. It is easier to fight an evil force on foreign land knowing that your loved ones are safe at home."

Negro Involvement In Theater Better

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
(For BOB THOMAS)

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How goes the Negroes' drive for more work in movies and television?

Negro comedian Godfrey Cambridge reports "a slight improvement," but:

All-Negro Show

"I'm still waiting to see a Negro variety show to see Lena Horne and Harry Belafonte have their own shows. I'm tired of their getting 20-minute segments—always as somebody's guest."

"I'm still waiting for Sidney Poitier to make love to a real, live Negro woman . . . not a white chick who, it turns out, is blind," Elizabeth Hartman in "A Patch of Blue."

The man with the statistics is Davis Roberts, 50, a Negro actor and an official of the Beverly Hills-Hollywood NAACP branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Says Roberts: "I don't want to give the impression that everything is hunky-dory, but a beginning has been made."

The NAACP branch holds quarterly meetings—and has been doing so since 1964—with craft representatives under auspices of the producers' association. Representatives of management and guilds report on Negro employment.

Latest available comparisons show that in the three months ended last June 30, 29 Negro actors were cast in movies, compared with 7 in the quarter ended Oct. 31, 1965. (Production generally was up 26 features this year against 14 in the 1965 period.)

Earned $38,000

Negro extras earned, in round numbers, $38,000 in the 1967 quarter, in both movies and TV, compared with $32,000 in the 1965 period.

"But the thing that strikes me," Roberts says of the employment tables, "is that 10 per cent of the minority-group extras do not earn 10 per cent of the money."

Negroes, Orientals, Mexicans, Hindus, U.S. Indians and Polynesians constitute 10 per cent of the registered extras. In this year's quarter they earned 6.94 per cent of extras' total pay—not much above the 1965 period's 6.5 per cent.

Still, Roberts said:

"I don't think figures are the significant thing. We are concerned with the Negroes' image that films and TV present to the world."

In 1944 the NAACP complained to producers that Negro actors were cast only in stereotypical roles—cooks, maids, chauffeurs and objects of laughter.

Results were twofold, says Roberts: 1) Negroes often were not considered for defense-plant employment and 2) fewer such roles were created.

"For a long time, nothing replaced the stereotypical roles," he says. "The movie-makers thought they had answered the criticism by eliminating them."

A complaint heard now is the new Negro stereotype: the well-groomed man with briefcase and no real involvement in the plot.

But last month, at a Beverly Hills-Hollywood NAACP branch presented "image awards" to 10 TV programs for improved presentation of Negroes. Recipients included "Mission: Impossible," "Big Valley," "I Spy," "Hogan's Heroes," "Daktari" and "Star Trek."

Universal studio was honored also for increased nonacting employment of Negroes.

There is some movement in this direction at all major studios," Roberts said, noting Negroes in jobs as publicists, switchboard operators, secretaries, file clerks, timekeepers, watchmen, guards and prop makers—as well as janitors.

"The changes, though slight as they are," said Roberts, "reflect a growing awareness of the fair thing to do."

NOTICE OF SALE

In pursuance of a judgment of foreclosure and sale duly made and entered in the above entitled action and bearing date the 30th day of August, 1967, I, the undersigned, the Referee in said judgment, will sell at public auction at the entrance to the Ulster County Courthouse, 235 Wall Street, in the City of Kingston, Ulster County, New York, on the 8th day of October, 1967, at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon on that day the premises directed by said judgment to be sold and described therein as follows:

ALL THAT CERTAIN TRACT OF PARCEL OF LAND with the buildings thereon, lying and being in Town of Marlborough, Ulster County, New York, situate near the Stone Ridge and on the northwest side of and adjoining the old highway leading from Kingston to Rochester, being bounded as follows:

BEGINNING at the northwest corner of said highway and in the south corner of land belonging to Isaac S. Hasbrouck now or formerly from thence running along this land northwesterly 3 chains 60 links to lands formerly belonging to Andrew Vandemark; then along his lands south 43 degrees west 32 chains and 45 minutes west 23 chains and 34 links to lands formerly belonging to Jacob Roosa; thence along his lands southwest to a stone set in the ground 4 chains 45 links; then south 40 degrees east as the needle pointed in 1710 and along lands belonging to Thomas Wygant formerly late of Jamaica Westbrock 17 chains 70 links to the northeast corner of said Wygant land; then continuing along his land south 30 degrees west 1 chain and 46 links and south 20 degrees east 4 chains to said Old Highway leading from Kingston to Rochester; then along the same as it runs northeasterly to the place of beginning, containing 21 acres, BEING the first parcel described in a deed from Gertrude Ten Eyck Davis to Frank V. Bishop, dated August 1, 1912, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 437 of Deeds at page 467.

ALSO, ALL THAT CERTAIN PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND situate in the Town of Marlborough, County of Ulster and State of New York, lying on the northwesterly side of the highway leading from Stone Ridge to Ellenville and containing about twelve (12) acres together with a passageway thereto from said highway and bounded generally as follows: Northerly and easterly by lands now or formerly of James K. Ten Eyck, formerly of James Benson; northwesterly by lands now or formerly of Jacob Roosa, formerly of Van Leuven, and southwesterly by lands now or formerly of Hiram Schoonmaker, formerly of John E. Schoonmaker.

ALSO, ALL THAT PIECE OR PARCEL OF LAND lying on the northwesterly side of the highway leading from Stone Ridge to Ellenville and bounded as follows, viz:

BEGINNING at a point where the northwesterly side of Love Lane, so called, intersects the northwesterly line of the highway leading from Stone Ridge to High Falls and from thence running northwesterly along Love Lane to the highway leading from Stone Ridge to Ellenville and thence southwesterly along said highway to the road leading to the High Falls aforesaid and thence easterly along said road leading to High Falls to the point of place of beginning. The last described parcel intended to be conveyed being a triangular parcel of land bounded northwesterly by Love Lane so called, northwesterly by the highway leading from Stone Ridge to Ellenville, and southerly by the highway leading from Stone Ridge to High Falls. The last two parcels above described being the same premises conveyed by Irving D. Cornish and ora to Frank V. Bishop by deed dated August 30, 1912, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 440 of Deeds at page 139.

EXCEPTING AND RESERVING from the last two parcels above described so much thereof as was conveyed by deed to Bishop and wife by deed dated June 6, 1939 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 604 of Deeds at page 334 and also as conveyed by Frank V. Bishop to William S. Quick and wife, by deed dated April 3, 1944, and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 642 of Deeds at page 198.

ALSO MORTGAGING, a parcel of land lying in the Town of Marlborough, commencing at the east corner at junction of H. Cantline farm (dec.) and J. K. Ten Eyck farm (dec.) thence running northwest 220 feet, thence west 280 feet, thence southwest 283 feet, thence north-east 211 feet to place of beginning, containing 1-1/6 acre more or less.

BEING the same premises conveyed by W. D. Roosa and wife to Frank V. Bishop by deed dated July 15, 1914 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office October 4, 1921, in Liber 485 of Deeds at page 37.

Said Frank V. Bishop died December 15, 1945, and in and by his last will and Testament admitted to probate by the Surrogate of Ulster County he devised the above described premises to his son, Raymond D. Bishop.

BEING the same premises conveyed by Raymond D. Bishop to Raymond D. Bishop and Vera S. Bishop, his wife, by deed dated December 12, 1958 and recorded in Ulster County Clerk's Office in Liber 1051 of Deeds at page 306.

EXCEPTING, portions of the above described premises as was conveyed by Raymond D. Bishop and Vera S. Bishop to Charles J. Cullen and Virginia D. Cullen by deed dated November 9, 1964 and recorded in the Ulster County Clerk's Office November 9, 1964 in Liber 1159 of Deeds at page 746.

Dated, September 1, 1967.

Dear Abby

Yule Plea to Viet GIs

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1967 by Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: A few days ago my boy friend left for Viet Nam and I miss him like crazy already. But that's not the problem I'm writing about.

It may sound silly, but I would like to know what I can send him for Christmas? I have racked my brain and haven't been able to come up with a thing, except maybe something good to eat, like cookies. But what are the chances for serious. Write to Abby and state your preferences.

DEAR ABBY: For years my widowed mother made her home with us. I am not complaining. We were happy to share our home with her, and did all we could to make her comfortable and happy.

I have brothers and sisters who lived their own lives and did not bother very much with Mother. Mother died recently, and when it came time to settle up her estate we find that it is share and share alike!

Would we be out of line to submit a bill for her keep, covering all those years we so generously provided for her? Why should the others, who did nothing for her, reap equally? They were equally able to help but didn't.

WONDERING: DEAR WONDERING: If you would keep peace in your mother's surviving family, you will make no further claims on her estate. Your reward is the knowledge that you made a special contribution to the happiness of your mother. And if that is not reward enough, it should be.

putting personality across. You do excellent job of selling your own talents, abilities. Important new contact can be made tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Check apparent minor matters. Some details could be overlooked by those in authority. You become somewhat of a hero through determined attitude. Your views vindicated.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Some who previously opposed you take second look. Obtain hint from SAGITTARIUS message. Be careful about accepting word of fast talker. Be there in person to double check.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Highlight ambitions. Follow through on hunch. Wonderful evening for taking boss to dinner. Impress higher-ups with humor, sincerity. Family can prove asset in home activities.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Catch up on correspondence. Contact friend who recently embarked upon journey. Knowledge gained today proves valuable in future. Realize this. Act accordingly.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY your principles are high—you fulfill promises. You would make fine sales executive and do best when working for yourself. You are a warm, giving person but not always easy for others to understand.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Cycle high for SCORPIO, SAGITTARIUS. Special word to TAURUS: you could get green light on important project. To order Sydney Omarr's 50-page booklet, "The Truth About Astrology," send 50 cents to Omarr Booklet, The Kingston Daily Freeman, Box 3240, Grand Central Station, New York, N. Y. 10017. (Cop. T-M, 1967 Gen. Fea. Corp.)

had been struck by a car. No one knew where the child had come from. A few minutes later several people walked across the highway from a picnic area to see what all the excitement was about. A man collapsed and a young woman became hysterical when they recognized the child. She was their daughter, who only moments before had been left sleeping on the back seat of their car.

I had to tell these grief-stricken parents that an ambulance would not be necessary. Many people left the scene muttering, "I have learned a good lesson."

As the father of two young children, I learned one, too. "DON'T HAVE CHILDREN SLEEPING IN AN AUTOMOBILE NEAR A HIGHWAY!" WORCESTER DAD

CONFIDENTIAL TO DON-NA: Send the DEAR GLORIA letter back to your sailor and tell him your name is Donna. Either he has a strange sense of humor or he sent Gloria a Dear Donna letter. In any case, he sounds like a wolf in ship's clothing.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

West's Fixed Idea Is Fixed

By Oswald & James Jacoby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Fixed ideas are nice to have if your idea is right. Otherwise it pays to keep an open mind and change your tactics.

West doubled three hearts with visions of sugarplums. He had a nice king of spades lead and four probable tricks right in his own hand and his partner had bid diamonds and doubled clubs.

East wasn't anywhere near as happy about the whole thing as his partner but East did like his doubleton spade and played the six as the start of an echo.

The echo never came back. West didn't bother to try to figure out what cards South needed for his opening bid. His partner had bid diamonds. West led one.

East covered dummy's jack with his king. South was in with the ace and led a heart toward dummy's jack.

West was in with the queen and had another opportunity to continue spades but he still had the fixed idea that he was going to beat this hand several tricks and that his partner's play of the spade six indicated that he held the queen.

West led a club.

South discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs, got to his hand by ruffing a club and played ace and ten of trumps. West was in again.

East discarded the deuce of spades on the trump lead and told his partner that he didn't

The reason some men are slow in making up their minds is that their wives stutter.

Father, reading his son's report card:

Father—He excels in initiative, group integration, and responsiveness. Now, if he can only learn to read and write.

If we would forget ourselves oftener we might enjoy the world more.

One Matronly Lady (asked another during a luncheon discussion of world affairs.)—What do you think of Red China?

Quick Quiz

Q—How did the sequoia tree get its name?

A—The name honors the great Cherokee Indian chief, Sequoyah. This distinguished chief made an alphabet for his people and his statue stands in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington, D.C.

Q—Why are London policemen called "bobbies"?

A—From the nickname of Sir Robert Peel, founder of Scotland Yard.

Q—For how long has the Selective Service System been in effect?

A—Legislation provided for the system has been in effect continuously since 1948.

Q—What city styles itself the birthplace of the American Navy?

A—Marblehead, Mass. The schooner Hannah, America's first fully commissioned warship, sailed from Marblehead in 1775.

One Matronly Lady (asked another during a luncheon discussion of world affairs.)—What do you think of Red China?

Quick Quiz

Q—How did the sequoia tree get its name?

A—The name honors the great Cherokee Indian chief, Sequoyah. This distinguished chief made an alphabet for his people and his statue stands in the rotunda of the Capitol at Washington, D.C.

Q—Why are London policemen called "bobbies"?

A—From the nickname of Sir Robert Peel, founder of Scotland Yard.

Q—For how long has the Selective Service System been in effect?

A—Legislation provided for the system has been in effect continuously since 1948.

Q—What city styles itself the birthplace of the American Navy?

A—Marblehead, Mass. The schooner Hannah, America's first fully commissioned warship, sailed from Marblehead in 1775.

Video Key: How It's Done

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A pair of new comedies and a pair of new westerns slid down the network ways Wednesday night, with three of the four demonstrating that, in television, it is not always what is done but how it's done that counts.

Comedies Amusing

Both comedy shows—ABC's "Second Hundred Years" and CBS' "He and She"—were well done, which means amusing. The premise of the former is a young gold prospector in Alaska at the turn of the century who was buried frozen in an avalanche for 67 years, finally freed, thawed and returned to Southern California as young and healthy as he had been when he was encased in ice.

Naturally, most of the jokes were based on his reactions to contemporary society—television (he thought it was a midget in a little box), automobiles and women in slacks. But somehow it all came off pretty well in marked contrast to the sad attempt last season to do the same thing with a stone-age family in "It's About Time."

The characters were funny and attractive. Monte Markham plays the lusty, roaring centurian as well as his rather priggish grandson.

calling the returnee "Dad."

"He and She" centered on attractive Dick Benjamin and Paula Prentiss, a real-life married couple, playing a cartoonist and his wife, a caseworker, for a travelers' aid society. A nice off-hand relationship was immediately established between them and there were sparkling moments with Jack Cassidy, cast as the supergeological actor who plays "Jetman" in the TV series based on our hero's comic strip.

Shows Promise

The nonsense was built around finding work for a stranded Greek shepherd who wanted to stay in America, and the only time there was a let-down was when the show went slapstick as everyone knocked themselves out trying to open a stuck door. But the premier show had much promise.

John Mills, the distinguished British actor, gave "Dundee and the Culhane" some class and sheen that carried the show out of the routine western mold. He plays a shrewd English lawyer teamed up with a young American attorney—played by Sean Garrison—who is as quick on the draw as the older man is with the word.

The story wandered around to include a whipping of a man on camera, the poisoning of a water supply, a couple of near-lynchings and, of course, the usual quota of gun battles. There was a trial of an innocent man, of course, which promises to be a weekly speciality of the series.

ABC's "The Legend of Custer" picks up the cavalry officer at Fort Hays, Kan., and has him whipping his regiment—a unit composed of rascals and ex-convicts—into a smart fighting force just in time to save the stupid 5th Cavalry from destruction in an Indian trap.

Indians were biting the dust through most of the hour, a situation not guaranteed to make contemporary Redskins any happier, and it may be presumed that a short statement at the end of the show, "Tonight's episode has been fictionalized for television immortality, ma," will hardly mollify historians who are widely split in their opinion of Custer as a military man.

Newcomer Wayne Maunder plays the title role with dash and color, and you had a feeling that under that stern exterior there beat a heart of pure gold.

Were it not for the controversial character of the man chosen for television immortality, the show could be brushed off as rians who are widely split in a stock model of its type.

nomination next year, rapped his assessment of briefings given the touring politicians by military and diplomatic officials.

Some More Charitable

The Republican governors were more charitable, saying Romney may have received information they didn't. But none agreed they were exposed to attempted brainwashing.

The controversy started by Romney's comment — made Monday as the governor was explaining his shift of stance on Vietnam policy — was front page news in Saigon's English-language newspapers.

It all started when a television interviewer asked Romney what had changed his earlier view that U.S. involvement in Vietnam was morally right and necessary.

"When I got back from Vietnam," replied Romney, "I just had the greatest brainwashing that anybody can get when you go over to Vietnam. Not only by the generals but also by the diplomatic corps over there, and Hoff of Vermont, one of those who traveled with Romney, said of the charge: 'Who the hell is he did a very thorough job.'" he to say it was brainwashing? Either he's a most naive man or he lacks judgment."

Democratic Gov. Philip H.

Another Democrat, Gov. Harold E. Hughes of Iowa, said he saw "absolutely no evidence" of attempts to influence the governor's viewpoints.

Rhode Island Gov. John Chafee, considered a GOP vice presidential hopeful in 1968, said he didn't feel he was brainwashed, but added: "I don't want to disagree with what someone else felt."

"Realistic," Babcock
Republican Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana called the briefings "realistic" while Democratic

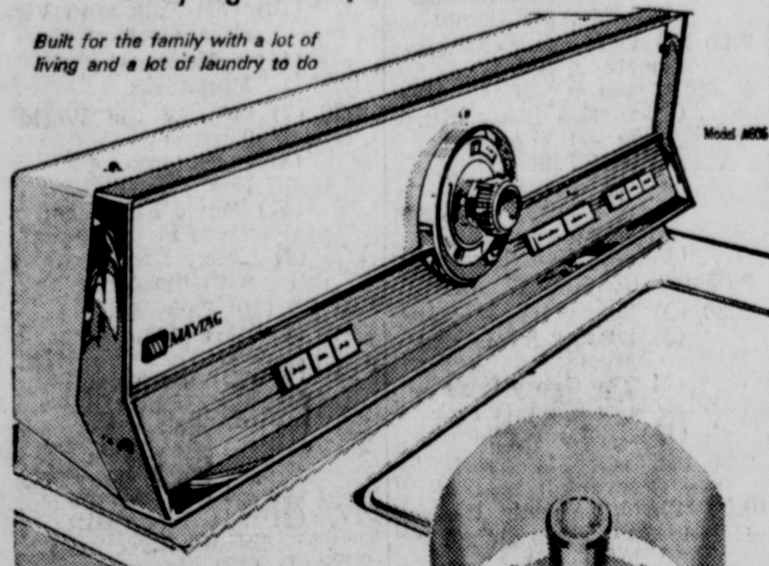

Gov. John Burns of Hawaii said he could "find no justification for Gov. Romney's statement." Others, then governors, who traveled with Romney to Saigon included Democrat Carl Sanders of Georgia, and Republicans Clifford P. Hansen of Wyoming, John H. Reed of Maine and Henry Bellmon of Oklahoma.

On Saigon Brainwashing

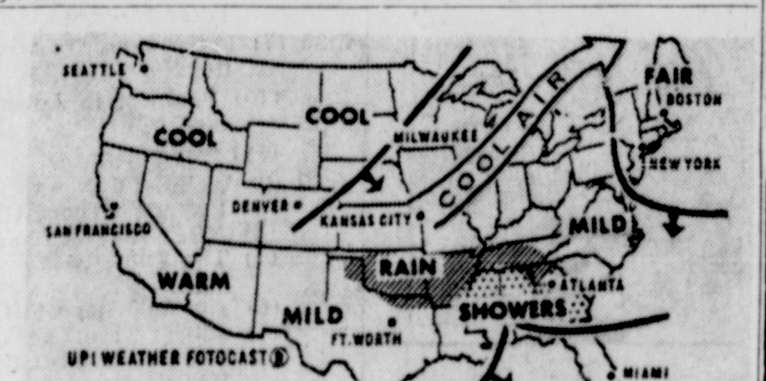

No Support of Romney's Charge

WASHINGTON (AP)—Michigan Gov. George Romney's charge that he was brainwashed by the Democratic government in Vietnam war policy during a 1966 visit to Saigon has drawn the Republican presidential nomination next year, rapped by his assessment of briefings given the touring politicians by military and diplomatic officials.

Pope Rests Comfortably After Bout With Fever

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI was reported resting comfortably today after a rise in his fever prompted him to leave his summer residence in the Alban Hills and return to the Vatican.

The pontiff, who will be 70 on Sept. 26, was driven back Wednesday night from Castel Gandolfo, 15 miles away, where he contracted a cold, stomach cramps and fever Monday toward the end of his summer sojourn in the moist, wooded region near Rome.

For Period Ending 7 a. m. EST Friday
Tonight will find rain in Oklahoma, Arkansas and Tennessee with shower activity along the Eastern Gulf and South Atlantic states. Clear to partly cloudy skies should prevail elsewhere. Cooler weather is indicated for the Northern Plains and the mid Atlantic states while warming in the Southern Plateau. Minimum temperatures include: Atlanta 64; Boston 57; Chicago 57; Denver 48; Duluth 56; Ft. Worth 68; Jacksonville 70; Kansas City 58; Los Angeles 68; Miami 75; New Orleans 67; New York 61; San Francisco 54; Seattle 55; St. Louis 58 and Washington 60.

Hippies Protest

NEW YORK (AP)—The flower children were handing out posies dipped in dirt.

The two-score hippies demonstrating outside Consolidated Edison Co. headquarters Wednesday said they were protesting air pollution.

"Breathing is bad for your health," read their banner. They ignited three smoke bombs and dashed soot on a company guard before fleeing when someone said police were coming.

Con Edison said later in a statement that it is fighting air pollution and called the hippies "misguided people with a penchant for publicity."
